CAMPAIGN TO CUT JOBLESSNESS IS GAINING HEADWAY

Though Present Situation Not Critical, Efforts Made To End Threat

MAJOR OBJECTIVE TO WORK ON A HOMETOWN BASIS

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, April 15. — (AP) — The government reported today that a drive to cut the jobless lists through community - sponsored projects is gaining headway across the nation.

Although officials do not consider the present unemployment total of 4,123,000 as a crisis indicator, they are speeding efforts to provide more work opportunities so as to head off any depression threat.

A major element in this full employment program is the campaign to enlist the support of the states and cities in creating jobs on a hometown basis.

Robert C. Goodwin, head of the labor department's bureau of employment security, disclosed today that 15 governors and the mayors of dozens of cities throughout the nation already have thrown their backing to this campaign.

Other states, he said, are preparing also to get up special full employment committees to promote the job expansion.

Those states in which the employment councils have been established include: Arizona, Cali-

Youthful Soldier Is Convicted, Sentenced

Found Guilty Of Attempting To Give American Military Secrets To Soviet Russia; Given Five Years Imprisonment

By Donald Doane

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, April 15. —(AP)—A U. S. Air Force court martial convicted Cpl. Gustav Mueller today of attempting to give American military secrets to Soviet Russia and sentenced him to five years in prison. He had denied the charge in tearful testimony.

Described in a report by army doctors as "immature and emotionally unstable," the young airman from St. Paul, Minn., insisted he was only trying to trap some Russian spies with the melodramatic activities that led to his arrest last fall. In a clipped, British-type accent, he said:

"I never meant to betray the United States. I am not a Communist. I hate communism. I am loyal to the United States and always shall be. . . .I know I did wrong and I am sorry. I tried twice to kill myself because of this affair. But I already have been punished by six months in jail at hard labor while awaiting trial. I would never do such a thing again."

He repudiated stories he told U. S. army agents who posed as Russian operatives and obtained documents from him after he sent a telegram to the Soviet consulate in Bern, Switzerland, last September asking for contact. They testified he told them he believed in communism and wished to help out the party cause.

Mueller was the only defense witness in the two-day trial. His attorney, Elmo Gower of Cumberland, Md., used a light touch in questioning and chose not to deliver a closing argument.

Capt. Carl Felth of Biloxi, Miss., the trial judge advocate (prosecutor), ridiculed as "incredible" Mueller's declaration that he was only trying to trap Russian spies and attacked the defense efforts to make light of the case.

"This is no joking matter," he said.

The court of seven officers deliberated 90 minutes.

In addition to the prison sentence, it ordered that Mueller be

INDICTED EAGLES' OFFICIALS BACKED

Ruling Board Of Order Supports Four Accused In 10 Grand Jury Charges

CINCINNATI, April 15. —(AP)—The ruling board of the Grand Aerie, fraternal order of Eagles, today threw its full support behind four foe officials, indicted March 10 on charges ranging from blackmail to publicizing a lottery.

It said "disloyal elements in our order" prompted the charges.

The unanimous vote of the board of grand trustees came in a closed session at a quarterly conference here. It was the first foe statement on the case since the three national officers and one state official were indicted in Ottawa, Ohio, by a county grand jury.

The board "reaffirmed its faith and confidence in the integrity" of the accused men. It directed the Grand Aerie legal adviser "to provide legal aid for all Eagles who in the performance of their duties have been the subject of civil and criminal attacks."

The trustees further empowered Grand Aerie officers "to take immediate action against any member of the order attacking the integrity of the fraternity or seeking to create discord and disunity among the membership."

An Eagle spokesman explained this latter action sprang directly from the indictments.

The county grand jury returned nine secret indictments against the four.

Those indicted were: Matthew L. Brown, Springfield, O., administrative director of the Grand Aerie; James Keliner, Springfield, O., secretary of the Ohio Eagles; Joseph Gunderman, St. Mary's O., deputy grand worthy president and Ohio deputy auditor; and Barnett H. Goldstein, Portland, Ore., Grand Aerie legal adviser.

The little old clock that guards all places in the vicinity of the 300 block of DeSiard street, looked down gloomily and a bit jealously, when it observed a block down the street its rival, the Ouachita Bank, in the midst of an elaborate "beauty treatment," with its entire front being recoated and revamped. Far belying the figures chiselled in stone of 1921, it was soon to circumvent time and appear as if newly erected.

"Just why can't this bank get in the game, too?" mused the clock. 'Why should all the glory go elsewhere?" This grumbling es-

RAILROAD UNIONS CONSIDER STRIKE BIG POSSIBILITY

Track Clear For Walkout At Any Hour That Might Be Designated

NEGOTIATORS SAY SIGNS OF SETTLEMENT GLOOMY

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Two big unions of railroad engineers and firemen today considered a nationwide strike to force the hiring of a third man on Diesel locomotives.

The track is all cleared for a walkout at any hour they might wish to designate.

The brotherhood of firemen and enginemen, headed by David B. Robertson, and the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, led by Alvanley Johnston, have been meeting in Chicago this week with the railroads. Robertson declared last night that further talks would be useless and strike action may be expected at any time.

However, Johnston's union clung to the hope that something

MONROE MAN TO HEAD STATE J. C.

Howard Named At Baton Rouge; Convention Asks Revival Of Civil Service

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15. —(AP)—W. L. "Jack" Howard of Monroe was elected president of the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce today.

Other officers elected at the closing business session of the state convention included:

National directors, Wilmer S. Guillory of Lake Charles and the Rev. George Ivey of Shreveport; regional vice-presidents, Warren J. Simon, Kaplan, southwest; Tom Ruffin, Baton Rouge, southeast; Wade O. Martin, central; Dr. Jack Pulley, Ruston, northeast, and Roy Fish, Springhill, northwest.

The Jaycees by resolution favored revival of state civil service by inclusion in the constitution as well as constitutional provisions guaranteeing home rule to cities.

They chose Shreveport as the site of next year's convention and announced a meeting of the state board in Franklin during July.

Howard, who served for two terms as president of the Monroe-West Monroe chapter of the Jaycees, will head Louisiana's 24 chapters. Succeeding Bob Angers of Lake Charles, he will be on the national board of directors and will be the Louisiana delegate at the national convention in Chicago in June.

Convention activities got under way early last night with a debate on the Hoover commission's "Operation Economy". Participants were Fred Hudson, Howard, Malcolm Heimingder of Lake Charles, and Clyde Duvall of Houma.

The debate was followed by a cocktail party given by the host chapter and an informal barbecue given by the Monroe delegation. In addition to business sessions, entertainments for members, their wives and guests took place today, highlighted by the banquet and dance tonight. Featured speaker at the banquet was Senator Russell Long.

Monroe's delegation was headed by Ouachita parish's newly elected representative, R. C. White, Jr., District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., who was last year's "outstanding young man of the state", Representative Shady Wall, Sheriff Bailey Grant, Charles Reagan,

Traffic Mishaps In Monroe Increasing

A traffic analysis for the first three months of 1950 compared with the first three months of last year was released yesterday by Chief of Police H. T. Ward.

The analysis made by Captain Jack Davis of traffic department showed that accidents and deaths resulting from accidents were on the increase, as were injuries.

For January, 1949, 58; injuries, 7; deaths, 0; February, 59, 6, 0, totals were 233 accidents, 25 injuries, and 5 deaths.

For January 1950: accidents, 82; injuries, 7; deaths 0; February, 55, 6, and 4; March, 96, 25, and 1. The totals were 233 deaths, 25 injuries and 5 deaths.

Air Searchers Sight Life Raft In Baltic

New Clue Found Just As Hunt For Missing Navy Craft With Ten Aboard Was About To Be Abandoned; Report No Sign Of Life

By Richard K. O'Malley

WIESBADEN, Germany, April 15.—(AP)—Air searchers for a missing U. S. Navy patrol bomber in the Baltic Sea reported sighting a life raft late today, just as the search was about to be abandoned. The search crew said, however, no sign of life was seen.

Darkness prevented further aerial search tonight, but the U. S. Air Force asked Danish and Swedish Coast Guard vessels to go to the secene immediately with flashlights. All available planes were readied to take off at dawn tomorrow to follow up the new clue.

Three times before searchers had reported sighting objects they thought might have some connection with the missing plane, a PB4Y, but none of these leads panned out. Today's discovery was reported by the last plane to return to Kastrup airport at Copenhagen, Denmark, where the U. S. Airforce has set up headquarters with the permission of the Danish government. The reporting craft was piloted by Walter E. Dahlen of St. Petersburg, Fla.

An air force spokesman at headquarters here said the search crew had made two low runs over the life raft. It was described as yellow and blue, the colors on the PB4's rafts.

The report was received only a few hours after Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon, U. S. Air Force commander in Europe, had announced the search would be continued for only one more day.

The missing plane disappeared a week ago on a training flight from Wiesbaden to Copenhagen. Three days later the Russian government protested that an American plane

Loop Pilot Claims New World Record

RAYMONDVILLE, Texas, April 15. —(AP)—A new world's record for looping the loop was claimed today by Carl Crawford, old-time stunt pilot from Tulsa, Okla.

Crawford took his little Piper Cub up at 6:42 a.m. (CST) today, and landed at 12:25 p.m.—after 1,874 loops. He averaged about 300 an hours.

His sponsors say this breaks the previous world's record of 1,633 loops set in 1928 at Cleveland by Speedy Holman.

Crawford stepped out smiling and admitted he was "a bit dizzy."

The stunt was part of Raymondville's annual Onion Festival. Onions are a chief crop in this town in Texasfamed lower Rio Grande Valley.

High winds kept Crawford from running up an even higher number of the dizzying loops. He had expected extra gas tanks attached to his plane would keep him in the air until 2:30 or 3 p.m. but fighting the winds ran him out of gas at 12:25 p.m.

Motorist Risks Jail To Get Parking Spot

DES MOINES, April 15. — (AP) — Police are wondering if things are so tough a motorist would risk a penitentiary sentence to get a parking spot here.

H. M. Konzen, Des Moines, told police that he beat another motorist to a parking space.

"He called me a few vile names and threatened to call police," Konzen said. "I dropped a coin in the meter, however, and went on."

Young Husband Pickets Wife Who Wants Divorce

PORTLAND, Ore., April 15. —(AP)—A young husband picketed his working wife yesterday, wearing a sign:

"Bet unfair to Jimmy and Johnny."

Johnny Antons told a reporter his wife had asked him for a divorce.

"I'm hoping for a reconciliation," he said in explaining why he was pacing back and forth in front of a Westren Electric company plant where his wife was working. The Jimmy on the sign is their two-year-old son.

When she got off shift, he followed her down the street. She told the reporter she wouldn't talk about their troubles or the picketing.

LEOPOLD SPEAKS TO HIS PEOPLE

Offers To Surrender His Powers Temporarily To Youthful Prince Son

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 15. — (AP) — Exiled King Leopold III sought to end Belgium's political crisis today by offering to surrender his powers temporarily to his 19-year-old son, Prince Baudouin.

There were indications, however, the proposal would satisfy neither the anti-Leopold Socialists nor the pro-Leopold Social Christians. Spokesmen of the divided Liberals, Belgium's third major party, said "certain clarifications" will be necessary.

Leopold spoke to the people in their two languages, Flemish and French, in a transcribed broadcast. The message lasted six minutes and 55 seconds. The records were made in Switzerland, where he has made his home since liberation from the Germans in 1945, and flown to Brussels.

It was the first time the people had heard the king's voice since he addressed the nation in May, 1940, when the Germans invaded Belgium. His surrender after only 18 days of fighting and refusal to join his ministers in exile split loyalties of the Belgians.

Leaders of the Social Christian party are to meet tomorrow for a discussion of the message. Socialist party committees will meet Monday and Liberal leaders Tuesday.

Shreveporters Will Arrive Here Tuesday

Mayor John Coon and the Ouachita Parish High School band will be on hand Tuesday morning to greet a group of visiting Shreveport businessmen led by Clyde E. Fant, Shreveport's mayor.

The Shreveporters, 125 strong, will arrive here at 10:30 a.m. at the Missouri Pacific depot on the first leg of a goodwill tour that will carry them through points in south Arkansas and north Louisiana.

Upon their arrival here, the neighboring businessmen will parade through downtown Monroe behind the band from O. P. H. S. Speeches will be made on North Second street and the group will proceed to the Virginial Hotel for a noon luncheon with the Kiwanis Club.

An annual visitation by the Shreveport businessmen, the trip is sponsored by the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce and this year includes a routing that carries it over many of the area's important railroad systems. The group is traveling on a special train equipped with six Pullman cars.

PLAN TO CHANGE FOREIGN POLICY GROUP IS GIVEN

Connally Proposes 8-Way Division For Present Foreign Affairs Committee

STATE MEET OF P.-T. A. SLATED

Will Be Held In Monroe Three Days This Week; Mrs. Vincent Presiding

The three-day sessions of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association will open here on Thursday at Hotel Virginia and a large number of delegates and members are expected to come for the sessions from every town and city in the state. This, the 27th annual convention will be of special interest as the state president, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, will preside.

Mrs. Fagan Cox, state membership chairman Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association, chairman of convention and Mrs. Julius Irving, president twin city council P. T. A. co-chairman of the convention, announces that all details are completed and that everything is ready for the pre-convention session Wednesday at 6:00 p.m. when the Twin City council, with Mrs. Irving as hostess, will entertain the board of managers at dinner.

The units of Ouachita parish are urged to register Wednesday afternoon in order that the out-of-town guests will have plenty of time to register Thursday morning before the opening of general session I Thursday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

At this session Mayor John Coon will bring greetings to the group as will Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe, Supt. Mack Avants, Supt. J. H. Boyet, Mrs. James Larkan, Jr., and Mrs. Julius Irving, president Twin City council. The response will be given by Mrs. John Supple of Bayou Goula, 11th district. Mrs. James Parker, publications chairman, N. C. P. T. will bring greetings from the N.C.P.T., and N. B. Hackett, president L.E.A will bring greetings from that organization. The response will be given by Mrs. W. S. Vincent, president Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association.

Reports of various committees will be given — among them the report of by-laws, Mrs. W. H. Phillips, Shreveport. This is very important as the vote cast will determine the necessity of further nominations for in-coming officers. Dr. John Foote, Baton Rouge, will address the group on "Methods of Distribution of School Funds" a subject of vital importance to all.

Sees Confusion Paramount Factor In America's Troubles

"Confusion is a paramount danger which America faces today, declared Dr. Norman Cox in his recent address to the Monroe Rotary Club at the Virginia Hotel. The speaker, who is visiting minister in the First Baptist Church revival services, holds the pastorate of the First Baptist Church, Meridian, Miss. He was presented by Rotary President H. L. Rosenhein.

Emphasizing the critical condition of government in the United States, Dr. Cox asserted, "The time calls for the best minds in this country to realize the necessity of a re-dedication to genuinely Democratic principles."

People are too confused. They do not obtain a true picture of conditions here, he added. Our days are so filled that we have become guilty of leaving vital national problems to a limited few, the speaker explained. Such a situation has placed a penalty upon Democracy, he concluded.

"Leaders in power have no concept of true Democratic fundamentals," Dr. Cox said. The result is: This group is as dangerous as Hitler's threat to America. Our country has never seen a more critical hour than that which she is now facing. "We must steer the ship of state on a new course," he declared.

Confusion in our governmental affairs makes us puzzled about tomorrow. What can we expect from our investments, the speaker asked. Twenty-nine per cent of American income goes into taxes. The 1951 budget calls for 54 billion. Government costs will continue to soar with the growing philisophy: "I shall live on the bounty of the state forever."

Dr. Cox illustrated the causes of

Washington's 150th Year As U. S. Capital Is Celebrated

WASHINGTON, April 15. — (AP) — The nation's capital started throwing a gaudy 150th birthday party today, billed as "the most spectacular pageant in the history of the United States since the inauguration of George Washington."

Supported by roaring planes and booming cannon, Vice - President Barkley launched a seven-month sesquicentennial observance with a call to the nation to be on guard against "threats to freedom" from within and without. He assailed communism, but said that not even communism is as dangerous to American freedom as those in this country who "Sow rumors and suspicion among us."

Barkley made his opening-day speech before a crowd estimated at 10,000 on the flag-bedecked plaza of the capitol. Air force and National Guard planes thundered overhead, and there was music by the bands of the army, air force and marine corps.

The national capital susquicentennial commission, which gave the program its "most spectacular" label, figured that about 1,000 persons took part in the opening "salute to freedom" ceremonies.

The observance of Washington's anniversary as the seat of the United States government will start in earnest next year, when the commission will open its "freedom fair" for an expected seven-month run at Anacostia Park.

It was 150 years ago today when

His Signature Would Have Exempted Independent Producers From Controls

CHANCES FOR REVIVAL OF BILL ARE CONSIDERED SLIM

By Jerry Korn

WASHINGTON, April 15. —(AP)— President Truman today vetoed the controversial Kerr Natural Gas Bill, which had been strongly endorsed by some of his friends in congress and hotly condemned by others.

The bill, which also split the Republicans, would exempt most gas producers from federal regulation.

"After careful analysis and full consideration," the president told congress, "I believe that such an action would not be in the national interest."

There appeared to be virtually no prospect that the lawmakers might try to pass the bill over Mr. Truman's veto. On its first trip through congress, the bill mustered only a bare majority in both houses. Two-thirds approval by both the senate and house would be needed to override.

The bill would have exempted from federal price regulation so-called independent producers not affiliated with pipelines. As a matter of fact, they are not regulated now, but backers of the bill expressed belief the federal power commission would move to set up such regulation. President Truman, in his message today, said the authority to regulate is "necessary in the public interest."

Foes of the bill objected vehemently that it was a "gigantic grab" which would cost consumers up to $500,000,000 a year. Backers of the measure denied this. They

ROY LARSEN IS TO GIVE TALK

Editor Of Time Magazine Will Be Here To Address P.-T. A. Convention

One of the principal highlights of the annual convention of the P. T. A. in Monroe this week will be the appearance and address by famous Roy Larsen, president and editor of Time magazine.

Mr. Larsen was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1921. In addition to his publishing work, Mr. Larsen has been active in the educational field for many years. He was an overseer of Harvard University from 1940-1946, and continues to serve on the committees to visit the Graduate School of Business Administration, the university library and the university press. He is chairman of the national citizens commission for the public schools, a group of laymen outstanding in business, publishing, labor and law, formed in May 1949 to work for concerted action by citizens in their own communities.

Mr. Larsen was born in Boston, Mass., April 20, 1899, and attended public elementary schools in Dorchester and the Boston Latin School. He served in World War I as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

As one of the original members of the staff of Time Inc., Mr. Larsen has been associated with the publishing of all of its magazines—Time, Life, Fortune and Architectural Forum. He also was creator of March of Time radio and cinema programs.

Mr. Larsen is chairman of the board of the United Hospital Fund of New York; a trustee of the New York Public Library; a trustee of the Committee for Economic

W. C. Feazel Enters Shreveport Hospital

SHREVEPORT, La., April 15. —(AP)—Former U. S. Senator W. C. Feazel entered a hospital here today for a complete physical checkup.

The Shreveport and Monroe oil and gas operator has "not been too well lately" and entered the hospital for the checkup, Dr. M. D. Hargrove, one of the attending physicians, said today.

Dr. Hargrove said Feazel would remain in the hospital here for "several more days."

It had been rumored here early today that Feazel had suffered a heart attack. Dr. Hargrove said Feazel definitely had not had an attack.

William J. Riley

In the midst of life we are in the midst of death; today, life with all that it means, tomorrow, perhaps at early dawn comes as quickly as the lightning flash athwart the sky the call to join the caravan as it moves on to that horizon from which no traveler returneth.

The sudden and untimely death of W. J. Riley poignantly emphasizes this immutable truth.

The words we record here will not long be remembered but the good deeds and the fruits of the abundant life of this good man will long be cherished in the memory of men and women of this community in all walks of life. His loss will long be mourned.

W. J. Riley was one of the community's most outstanding citizens. He was a successful business man, a civic leader giving generously of his time and energy and money to all movements and enterprises that contributed to the material and spiritual growth of the entire community. He was a director in several financial institutions, and a leader in his church.

Mr. Riley was a self-made man and his success won the admiration of all that knew him. He came here from Tennessee some 25 years ago as an apprentice plumber. He was employed on the construction of the Ouachita National Bank Building, the city's tallest building. He later started his own business in a modest way, and within a few short years built it into one of the largest of its kind in the state. He and he alone was responsible for its phenomenal growth through his untiring energy, his integrity and his business acumen.

As his priest said yesterday at the final rites, "Unlike many men who have grown wealthy, W. J. Riley never forgot his fellowman or his God."

The Baseball Opening

On Thursday night at 8 o'clock Monroe and West Monroe will have the opportunity to welcome professional baseball back to stay. After nine years, the Twin Cities again will be represented in the Cotton States League, reviving an age-old association.

The return to our city of "Our National Pastime" has not been an overnight accomplishment. Rather it has taken the combined efforts of countless persons, working toward a common end, to bring about this reality.

Baseball is as American as hot dogs or the Fourth of July or Frank Sinatra, and in line with such thinking the American Legion became the prime mover to assure construction of a stadium, which is now completed. We can be proud of the American Legion Memorial Stadium. It is a structure which has brought praise from everyone who has seen it. It is a fine example of a baseball park and equals in functional design many in the larger cities of the nation.

On Opening Night . . . next Thursday . . it would be fitting that we here, in the largest metropolitan area of the eight cities in the Cotton States League, turn out in the greatest numbers. That would start us off with a bang. With this accomplished, we could be assured of unlimited publicity for the Twin Cities in surrounding newspapers. To make this a reality why not purchase a block of opening night tickets at 80c each to insure each of your employes seeing the game and increasing the crowd. Advance tickets may be purchased.

This is your chance to get the Twin Cities good publicity. How about it?

Surging Auto Production

Automobile production for the first three months of 1950 is so far ahead of last year's figure it is evident a new record will be set this year, despite the Chrysler strike. Unless new union impediments to production develop, that is.

An amazing output record has been set by General Motors, which made 327,000 automobiles and trucks in March, compared to 228,000 in March, 1929. General Motors made more than 50 per cent of all automobiles produced so far this year, despite a big increase in output by Ford. And G.M. plants have just returned to Saturday operation to boost output still higher.

This is the first time in the history of the automobile industry that one company has produced more than 50 per cent of the total output. The reason, of course, is the Chrysler strike. Were Chrysler plants in operation, current automobile production would be 50 per cent above the near-record levels of a year ago.

The automobile business is holding up phenomenally well, as oracles who have periodically predicted an end of the postwar auto boom would be willing to testify. The manufacturers are turning them out and the public is buying them as never before.

No one today is so brash as to predict when the demand for new cars will be met. With 20,000,000 prewar cars still on the roads, the saturation point seems to be several years away, and thereafter replacements of pre-1950 postwar cars should keep the factory wheels turning at a great rate.

Plowing

Plowing is an act of faith. In the spring men go forth to turn the sod in preparation for another season. Many a good countryman pushes the plow point down for the first furrow feeling that it is a movement of almost reverent significance. As teams plod across the land or tractors chug their steady way, the long coldly-moist slices curl away from the shining share in long ribbons.

No longer do men pride themselves on geometrically exact patterns. Good farmers plow in contours now, part of the battle to restore the good earth to its former fertiliy. But whatever the pattern, plowing is symbolical. When a man rests his team for a few minutes at furrow's end and looks over the spring landscape, he has confidence that in good time the warmth and moisture will bring his seeds to fruition in another harvest time.

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

In case you are curious about all this talk of loyalty files, around which the McCarthy investigations seem to revolve, every employe of the federal government has one, and if it contains anything at all indicating affiliation with any group advocating overthrow of the government, that employe has been before a loyalty board.

Every applican' for a government job has to answer routine ground and various past and present affiliations. Those answers go the the FBI, which consults its own voluminous records to see whether it already knows anything about the applicant — in particular, whether he has been connected with any subversive group.

The FBI also sets in motion, through its own channels, a check on every individual in government, which may turn up information weeks or months later. J. Edgar Hoover and his aides don't tell just how that operates, but the loyalty file of a suspect, who entered government service "in the clear", may later include reports that he has attended meetings of Communist front organizations, has associated with persons believed to have Communist tie-ins, or belongs to an organization listed by the attorney general as subversive. The F.B.I. would say that "indicates a condition which should be evaluated". The file would be turned over to an FBI field investigator, who digs up all pertinent information. It may include anything from anonymous tips to things your neighbors say about you.

The evaluating of that information is not done by the investigators or by anyone in the FBI, but by a loyalty board in the department in which the suspect works. Before the board gets the file, the information in it has been "carefully double checked and digested", in the FBI's words.

The department board looks over the FBI report and whatever else the file holds, favorable or unfavorable to the employe under consideration. It may give him an immediate O. K. or prefer charges questioning his loyalty to the United States. Then he is informed as to what the record shows, though he isn't shown the FBI report nor told where the information comes from. Even the loyalty board does not know that.

If the department loyalty board, in Washington or in the field decides that there are grounds for dropping the employe as a bad security risk, he has two chances to appeal, one of the head of his department (a cabinet officer or agency chief), the other to the loyalty review board, which is the court of last resort in loyalty cases. The review board, headed by Chairman Seth W. Richardson, a Republican, can intervene at any stage of the proceedings to examine the case on its merits.

These loyalty boards don't find individuals guilty or not guilty of disloyalty, but determine whether the record of the employe has "elements which may make him a bad or doubtful security risk."

That's why everybody in the loyalty board set-up from President Truman down, has insisted that no one—not even a senate investigating committee—shall see the file of any person, except those charged with loyalty investigations.

Government departments are complaining about the Citizens' Committee for the Hoover Report, accusing it of using the old "horror story" technique. The committee is working for the sweeping program of government reforms proposed by the ex-president, most of which is now before congress.

One member of the committee explains it this way:

"First we tell them a horror story about the inefficiency in the federal service to bring out the issue and then we give them the facts."

One such story stresses an instance where it took 18 months to get rid of an incompetent employe. Of course that's not typical, says the committee, but it has happened.

Personnel chiefs say it may have happened but they doubt it. Anyhow, they call such tactics unfair, insist that incompetents are fired in "far less than 18 months."

When Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) sent one of his telegrams to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, newsmen were immediately summoned to his office to get copies. There was such a rush that all copies were soon gone.

The departing reporters heard one member of the office staff say: copy for Western Union?"

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK — (AP) — National Doughnut Week begins today.

And, naturally, millions of thoughtful Americans are going around saying to one another:

"Good old National Doughnut Week has rolled around again. My, isn't it good to have it back?"

But only a handful of these grateful citizens are aware of the deep historical significance behind National Doughnut Week—or just how it came about.

Well, it was born 13 years ago in the agile brain of Bert Nevins, a balding, cruller-shaped publicity man.

"It was the first of the food weeks," Bert recalled modestly. "Before that there were just things like Mother's Day, Labor Day, the Fourth of July and National Baby Week."

Now, of course, there are weeks for all sorts of goodies—such as National Hot Tea Week and National Cold Tea Week, National Kraut and Frankfurter Week, National Pickle Week, National Honey Week and also National Honey for Breakfast Week.

The pioneering idea of setting a week apart for the nation to pause and ponder the blessings of the doughnut grew out of a stern reality in the industry — sales hit a peak at Halloween, slumped in the spring.

"Picking the right time was very important," said Nevins. "You don't want to have a food week during a period when there are holidays, as people have other things on their mind.

"We couldn't take the week before Easter because bakers are pushing hot cross buns then. So we settled for a week in April after Easter."

And in the baker's dozen years since the doughnut muscled itself a place in the calendar sales have quadrupled. The $200,000,000 a year industry expects to sell 12,000,000,000 doughnuts in 1950.

"We don't think that National Doughnut Week alone is responsible for this increase," said Nevins, who has built himself a $10,000 annual business glamorizing doughnuts, diapers, pretzels and cranberries. "But we do know that spring sales, which used to be small, now are almost equal to fall sales."

Some groups name a week for their product, say "National Frozen Dogfood Week" and let it go at that. Nevins uses every possible device to thrust doughnuts into the public mind.

This week, for example, his gimmicks include a new doughnut-shaped hair-do, doughnut straw hats for the ladies, pajamas decorated with doughnuts, and a recording of "The Doughnut Song," by folk Singer Burl Ives. He even persuaded Emily Post to endorse the custom of dunking "provided the doughnut is first broken in half."

Like all frontiersmen of the intellect, Nevins feels he has been copied.

"Now there are too many weeks of all kinds overlapping each other," he objected. "This whole idea of special weeks may kill itself if we get any more. It is getting promiscuous."

He is mulling over a plan to call all interested parties together and get them to divide up the year on a sensible basis.

"After all there are only 52 weeks," he said regretfully.

So, a happy doughnut week to you! It is also National Coin Week, National Want Ad Week and National Noise Abatement Week.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

MORE ON "THE PACIFIC STORY"

In July, 1944, the United States and China were in alliance in a war. The government of China, which the United States recognized, was headed by Chiang Kai-Shek, as the government of the United States, which China recognized, was headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt. We were both fighting Japanese and the situation was pretty tough. Chiang Kai-Shek had not been notified that the Cairo declaration had been vitiated by the Teheran agreement and the Yalta conference had not taken place.

Yet on Sunday, July 23, 1944, "The Pacific Story," a National Broadcasting Company script beamed to Pacific countries and to our own troops scattered throughout Asia, was devoted to the subject "the Chinese Communists." The program opens with the Chinese Communist song, "Chee Lai."

(It is an interesting sidelight that at that time the Chinese Communists were not fighting Japanese as much as they were fighting a Chinese civil war.)

The entire script is designed to propagandize the superiority of the Chinese Communist party. Every dramatic effect is used to damage our ally. It is straight propaganda and is today, on the whole, demonstrably untrue. For instance:

"Chinese 3: China cannot be ruled by a single party. The Kuomintang must end its control of the Chinese government and allow the full development of democracy, with equal rights for all parties, including our own. This demand is in accordance with the Three People's Principles of Sun Yat-Sen and is the only basis for national unity and continued resistance to the enemy. We have carried out these principles in the territory which we have reconquered from the enemy and which the people administer."

Is not China governed by one party, the Communist party, today? Who were the writers of this N. B. C. script fooling—and at whose expense? Who paid for it? Was it beamed to our troops at government expense? Did it make for better cooperation between Nationalist China, with which we were dealing, and our own officials there?

Now, I want to be sure that you get the significance of the next paragraph. It is the statement of the announcer at the end of "The Pacific Story":

"Announcer: Important in the coming operations on the mainland of Asia are the sixty million Chinese Communists. To tell the significance of these people in the complex political situation in the Pacific, the National Broadcasting Company presents a message from Agnes Smedley, noted traveler and author of "The Battle Hymn of China," who visited and studied the Chinese Communists, Miss Smedley's message:

Smedley's talk: (exactly six minutes)".

Do you know who Agnes Smedley is? She is the one American who long before the war and through the whole of it was most closely associated with the public relations of the Chinese Communist party. She was their spokesman.

"The Pacific Story" ran from July 11, 1943, to January 26, 1947. Some ended with a commentator, such as Owen Lattimore, Henry Luce, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur and others. Some were straight drama. They were written and directed by Arnold Marquis. I don't know who he is. Owen Lattimore was originally in charge of the research for the preparation of this material.

Lattimore was the commentator from the start until the broadcast of October, 3, 1943, when different individuals were assigned as commentators. After November 21, 1946, the use of the commentator was dropped, except, so far as I can find in the scripts, January 6, 1946, when Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, appeared as commentator.

I am not going to give more excerpts from these broadcasts, wishing to use this space for other matters. But I do suggest that it would be sound for Senator Tydings's committee or Senator Johnson's committee or anyone in congress who is studious to read through the entire series of 181 broadcasts to see precisely what was being sent to Pacific countries as American propaganda. It is worth noting how cleverly each broadcast is packed with the straight Communist material and it would be interesting to compare the final product with the source material.

Who arranged for these broadcasts? Who was responsible for them? Who paid for them?

A casual glance will not reveal the truth. This needs thorough, complete, careful study—if we are not to do that sort of thing again.

OUR CHILDREN

MISFIT

The girl who is left out all the time is in a serious position. Either she is in the wrong group, and should be placed elsewhere so that she can associate freely with others, or there is something the matter with her. In the latter case, steps should be taken to help her remedy whatever is wrong. Usually her classmates are not slow to point to her faults. They are likely to be quite outspoken about the whole business and it would be well for the mothers of such girls to listen carefully to what the others say and begin to wonder how much truth there is in it, instead of jumping to the defense of their own child, right or wrong.

Personality defects are likely to escape their possessor's notice and it is only when other people protest in anger or disgust or impatience that they question their way at all. When Helen, leader of the group, says "We're not asking you, Kathleen. You always want to hog the show. Nobody else can get a word in edgewise when you're around so we just left you out," it is plain that Kathleen should trim her desires for attention somewhat.

When someone says, "Don't bother with her. She is such a dud. She gets into a corner and there she'll sit until somebody shoves her out. She makes everybody uncomfortable sitting there like patience on a monument while everybody else is having fun. Leave her out, I say," it is clear that this silent one is retreating from the group and needs attention from her teacher, her mother and probably a physician.

"Marty, you'd better not come. Your mother'll want you home at 10:30 and the party doesn't start until nine or after, so where does that get you? Somebody has to take time out to get you home. Like last time and then your mother blew us out of the door because it was 10:45. You'd better read a book and get to bed early."

Children can be just as cruel as that, and as frank. Mothers and fathers must compromise now and then with their feelings and fears and the child's. The children are not always wrong.

Perhaps the wallflower is in the right against heavy odds and so is being pushed out. I doubt that. Righteousness always has a friend at hand. Someone is always ready to stand by the crusader's side. The whole group does not gang up against one member without a good reason. Look for that reason and help the child overcome it. Every child needs child friends.

Children learn slowly. It is important therefore to direct their learning along the right lines. Helpful suggestions are given in Dr. Patri's leaflet P-14, "Helpful Habits."

FREEDOM AND THE CHURCH

The free enterprise system in the United States, by whatever name it may be called—private initiative or individual freedom or just freedom—has the same basic philosophy as the church. They both dignify the individual, they both recognize the right of the individual to control his own destiny.

Whatever subjugates the individual, therefore, destroys both church and freedom. Whatever destroys the church, destroys freerom.

That both the church and freedom are now under deadly attack by a common enemy is quite apparent to anyone who cares to face the facts. That enemy is state control.

State control has taken many forms in history, but the most dangerous and the most wicked of all is socialism. Socialism is the worst form because it seeks to gain control under the guise of humanitarianism. It is accordingly deceitful and hypocritical. It accordingly deludes a great many people who are ohterwise well intentioned.

And socialism is the great threat hanging over this nation and its churches and its people at the present time. We have been warned by a number of our sound leaders in recent years about the creeping threat of socialism. The chances are this threat is moving upon us at a much faster rate than we think—that it has long since passed the creeping stage. The Chances are that if all people who believe in the church and believe in freedom—whether preachers or business men or laborers wives or otherwise—do not actively join forces against this common enemy, we shall all of us lose both our churches and our freedom. And the main defense needs to be made by the church, for after all it is mainly a moral problem.

For the ultimate goal of socialism is communism, and under communism the state is the God of the people. As people progress toward socialism and from there to communism, as they are trained to look more and more to their government for help in time of trouble, they will naturally look less to God and to the church. The state, in order to retain its supremacy, cannot allow them to do otherwise.

And yet we continue on our trend toward state control in this nation. More and more, we are allowing our government to determine our lives for us. The trend is to let the government tell the worker where he must work and how much he can get for his work, to tell the business man whom he can hire and how much profit he can make, to tell the farmer how much he can riase and what prices he can get for what he raises, and so on down the line.

If such a system of government brought the most happiness to the people, we should all favor it. But we know from all the examples of history and from current examples in the world, that it only leads to a lower and lower standard of living, to eventual ruin, degredation, and slavery. The end result is for the people to march by the polls like sheep on election day and vote for only one candidate.

We know, on the other hand, that our own system of government, based upon the great moral principles of the church, has brought our nation to a position of supremacy among the nations of the world, has brought our people the highest standard of living any people have ever known. Shall we ignore common sense and throw it away?

The heritage of the American people is a common heritage; it's preservation should be a common aim. The question as to whether we shall exchange freedom for slavery, exchange God for state, must be answered by all the people—from the pulpit and from behind the plow, from the executive's desk and from the worker's bench from the schoolroom and from the kitchen.

For, after all, citizenship in free democratic nation is an individual responsibility that rests upon each and every one of us alike, and there's not a one of us who can escape it. Once we realize what we are losing, surely we shall join together to save it!

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

DULLES AND FOREIGN POLICY

Editors, in substantial majority, are optimistic that appointment of John Foster Dulles as adviser to Secretary of State Acheson will result in renewal and strengthening of bi-partisan foreign policy. But a minority of considerable number reserves opinion as to how much influence Dulles will have with Republican leaders in congress. And a slightly smaller minority argues that there has been and will be no genuine bi-partisan foreign policy; that Dulles can only approve or disapprove policies formulated mainly by the administration.

INDNANAPOLIS (Ind.) STAR (Ind- Rep.): President Truman seems to have awakened to the fact that this country connot create and promote a truly effective foreign policy without the full participation of Republicans as well as administration Democrats. . . . Dulles will not merely provide Republican representation at the top state department level. He also ranks in his own right as one of the nation's most eminent foreign policy experts."

CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind.) "The Republican party, which has had the Truman foreign policy on the defensive for its unbroken series of failures, has been sold out by Dulles . . . . The administration has lost the cold war. . . . That is why Mr. Truman . . . is trying to blow new life into the bi-partisan policy. . . . He wants to divide responsibility with Republicans. . . . An intelligent opposition would have left him with sole responsibility for the failure of his foreign policy. . . ."

ATLANTA (Ga.) JOURNAL (Dem.): "A Democratic president has called a leading Republican . . with whom he was lately at bitter odds to a post of high honor and responsibility. . . . Neither the administration nor the Republican minority in congress is blameless for the disunity which has developed in the last year or so. . . . Both owe it t oour country and to the cause of freedom throughout the world to put politics aside . . . and work out a foreign policy that will meet the emergencies crowding upon us."

CLEVELAND (Ohio) PLAIN DEALER (Ind.-Demo.): "Dulles re-enters the service of the Truman administration not as he believes, as a builder of unity but as a repairman called in to help patch up the crumbling edifoce of foreign policy. . . It is difficult to understand why Dulles comes back for more. He is smart enough to realize that he isn't going to build anything in the way of policy. Unless, of course . . . he will tag along dutifully in the wake of the secretary."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE (Ind.-Rep.): "Mr. Dules has made possible the reconstruction of a genuinely bi-partisan foreign policy—this time one which can embrace the whole field of our international relations, for his mandate will cover the Far East as well as Europe. . . . and it will be exerted from within the top levels of the state department itself, where Republican collaboration had not previously been invited."

SAN DIEGO (Calif.) TRIBUNE-SUN (Rep.): "The Constitution sets down in detail that the president shall have charge of foreign policy which he shall conduct 'by and with the consent of the senate.' Mr. Dulles is not a senator. . . . Nor is John Sherman Cooper . . . any longer a spokesman for the upper chamber . . . Decisions to name these estimable Republican gentlemen to posts of trust in administration of foreign policy were not made 'by and with the consent' of recognized spokesmen for the Republican party. . . . It is not safe to assume that the appointments . . . will bring the peace Mr. Truman seeks."

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) NEWS (Ind.-Dem.): "Both Mr. Dulles and Mr. Cooper were asked to take on their jobs after Mr. Acheson had consulted with Senator Vandenberg, ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee. . . It will be remembered how much Sen. Vandenberg has contributed to . . . foreign policy. . . . The senate group which has supported these efforts . . . will be pleased by the appointments. Some . . . still are raising questions, but the prospect for a much more solid basic unity in congress and in the country seems good."

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) POST-GAZETTE (Ind.): "Since Mr. Dulles is no longer in the senate he cannot presume to speak fully for his party's leadership in congress. And that, it seems to us, is where unity is most to be desired. . . . It can and should work out satisfactorily . . . if Mr. Dulles will consult closely not only with his associates in the state department but with leaders of his own party in congress, so that he can be said to speak for them in fact as well as in theory."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

Passion or Pot Roast

Some weeks ago when the newspapers front-paged the story of the leopard which strolled back into its cage after being AWOL for three days, a lot of people wondered whether it returned because it was hungry or because it was lonely for a certain lady leopard in the next enclosure.

It so happened that around the same time, by a strange double-take of destiny, my Uncle Charlie also went on the prowl, and his return a few days later raised the identical question on the lower East Side—was it lunch or was it love?

It all began when my Aunt Frieda got the social bee in her babushka, joined the Delancey street chapter of the Daughters of Deborah, and went off to Atlantic City for its annual convention. Knowing Charlie for what he was—a man with his feet in the clouds and his head on the ground—Frieda began to worry that he'd get ptomaine from eating a tainted blintz in a restaurant, and so one afternoon she boarded a bus and made a quick trip to New York to see if everything was all right.

When she entered their flat Charlie was in the bathtub yodeling his favorite song, "A Glass Tea For Two."

"How you feel?" asked Frieda.

"How should I feel?"

"How's business at the shop?"

"Peh!"

"You miss me, Charlie?"

"Why should I miss you—you're here. What gives in Atlantic City?"

"In Atlantic City is giving speeches," said my aunt "Tomorrow we are deciding about the hydrogen bomb, yes or no."

"In such a case, you better go right back," said my uncle. "Bye-bye, and don't take no wooden knishes."

On the street, Frieda met a gossipy neighbor who said, "When is away the cat, is playing the mice—and they ain't playing klabiash."

"You are implicating my Charlie is a rat?"

"Rat, schmat! Ask the widow Greenhouse."

A bit shaken, Frieda posted herself inside the candy store across the street and when Charlie, wearing a carnation, came out she followed him—and sure enough, he high-stepped down the block to the home of Mrs. Greenhouse.

Now, if this were a movie, our heroine would hold her tongue for six reels of misunderstanding and suspense—but Frieda was never one for slow emotion. She waited a jittery five minutes, rang the widow's bell and barged right in when she saw Charlie sitting in front of a mound of chopped liver big enough to feed the four Marx Brothers.

"This is a unexpected surprise," said Mrs. Greenhouse.

"Likewise," said Frieda. Then, turning to Charlie, she said, "I missed the bus so I figured I would have a bite supper with my lord and mister."

"Pull up a chair," said the widow. "I got a pot roast you could cut it with a fingernail."

Frieda sniffed. "To me, it smells like a boiled beef what boiled too long."

"Is that so?" said Mrs. Greenhouse. "All week your husband is enjoying."

"I'm not doubting," said my aunt. "From the medicine chest is missing a full box bicarbonate."

On the way back to their flat, Frieda got right down to cases. "What is between you and Mrs. Greenhouse?" she asked.

"Strictly a cash arrangement," said Charlie. "Seven suppers for ten dollars."

"You can't pull the wool behind my back," said my aunt. "Just to eat, a man does not take a bath and wear a whole flowershop in the buttonhole."

"I am also enjoying her company," my uncle admitted. "On many things we are seeing eye to tooth."

"If for widows you got such a liking," said Frieda, "I could maybe become one myself."

When they reached home, Frieda pulled the pin out of her hat. "Tomorrow," she announced, "is roast duck on the menu. Monday it gives sauerbraten; Tuesday, chicken with mandlen soup."

"The widow makes a grade-A goulash," needled my uncle.

"Let her make," said my aunt, "and let her eat."

And that ended Charlie's life on the loose and Frieda's career as a clubwoman.

As for the question: "Is love or lunch more important to the male animal?"—well, the leopard is dead and my uncle isn't talking. (Copyright, 1950, by Billy Rose) (Distributed by The Bell Syndicate

Cathedral Bells Almost Drown Communist Speeches

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 15.—(AP)—Cathedral bells tonight almost drowned out a West German Communist youth protest against an alleged American plane flight "in violation of Russian territory."

Apparently by coincidence, the bells of Dom Cathedral began tolling just as a Communist speaker at a nearby street rally raised the topic of the plane.

The huge bells continued ringing for about 15 minutes while the speaker shouted to make himself heard.

Although posters had called for a mass protest against the alleged violation, only about 150 showed up.

They marched in a dreary rain through the city's streets, carrying placards and blue banners of the free German youth (F. D. J.), the organization which plans a huge demonstration in Berlin next month.

NO YOLK

When she cracked it today and cut it in half, she discovered it was solid white — no yoke.

Lake Providence Produces A Bumper Crop of Beauties

In an official preliminary to Atlantic City's Miss America beauty pageant, "Miss East Carroll" was selected before a capacity crowd at Lake Providence High School Thursday night. Miss Yvonne Henderson, lower left, was chosen queen, with the close runners-up being Miss Polly Edwards and Miss Maxine Magee. Queen of the junior group was Miss Betty Delony, with Miss Kathleen Evans and Miss Pauline Thrasher second and third, respectively. The girls were judged on beauty, poise, talent, and personality. Only the senior group queen is eligible to enter the "Miss Louisiana" contest to be held at Lake Providence on July 2 and 3, with the winner going to Atlantic City. The senior group is shown in the top photo and includes from left to right, Misses Charlotte Flannery, Gale Cantwell, Yvonne Henderson, Mary Virginia Hanks, Josephine Moore, Lilla Dukes, Maxine Magee and Polly Edwards. Both groups are shown in evening dresses in the middle photo, and the junior group in bathing suits in the bottom picture includes, left to right, Ruth Jenkins, Ruth Dukes, Pauline Thrasher, Peggy Schwartz, Betty Delony, Roma Burgess, Annette Proctor, Martha Carolyn McClendon, Amanda Brown, Kathleen Evans, Patricia Wagley, Sara Ann Schneider, Sally Young and Tommie Lee Wade. The pageant was directed by C. L. Deare, Herman Sommer was master of ceremonies and W. T. Branch escorted each girl on stage. A coronation ball at Club Delmar followed the pageant. Queen Yvonne is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs 117 pounds. The pageant was sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Summer Sports Carnival committee of the Lake Providence Chamber of Commerce, of which Deare is manager. Each winner was presented a trophy following the selections. The Entries committee included A. S. Herzog, H. S. O'Steen and Sidney Peskin, while the Staging committee was composed of Mrs. A. S. Herzog, Mrs. J. O. Pinkston, Mrs. Frank Voelker, Jr., and Mrs. L. E. Waters. The decorations were by Mrs. C. A. Marlette, Jr., and Mrs. John L. Logan, while the stage props were erected by J. J. Ellis. The ticket sales committee included S. C. Guenard, A. S. Herzog, J. O. Pinkston and Max Stockner. Various Lake Providence firms sponsored each entry in both senior and junior groups. Rossellini Denies Wedding Planned Soon In London

ROME, April 15. —(AP)— Italian film Director Roberto Rossellini tonight described as "a new one on me" a report that his wedding to Ingrid Bergman will take place in London in two weeks.

"That's one I hadn't heard," he said. The story was published in America.

Rossellini said he and the Swedish actress are still trying to clear red tape barriers to their marriage, following Miss Bergman's Mexican divorce from Hollywood surgeon Peter Lindstrom.

Homer, Lisbon, Plain Dealing Win

RUSTON, April 15.—(Special)—Homer, Plain Dealing and Lisbon high schools won the literary championships in the Class A, B and C divisions, respectively, at the annual North Louisiana Rally at Louisiana Tech Friday.

Points scored by the highest three schools in each division were as follows:

Class A—Homer, 123; Jonesboro-Hodge, 119 1-2; St. John's of Shreveport, 60.

Class B—Plain Dealing, 65; Junction City, 56; Doyline, 40.

Class C—Lisbon, 94; Benton, 77; Elm Grove, 44.

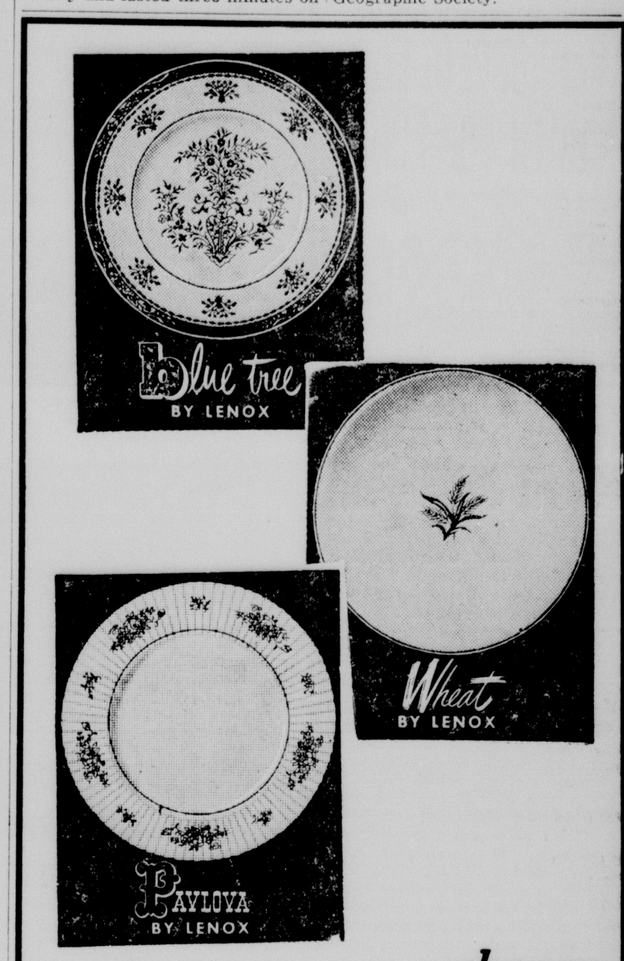

Youth played a predominant part in crimes against property in the U. S. in 1949. 27.4 per cent of the persons charged with robbery, embezzlement, burglary, larceny, auto theft, fraud, forgery, counterfeiting, receiving stolen property and arson were less than 21 years old.

QUAKE FELT

BERKELEY, Calif., April 15.—(AP)—The University of California's seismograph recorded two earthquakes early today.

Assistant Seismologist Don Tocher said the first shock, beginning at 3:57.15 a.m., was of light intensity and lasted three minutes on the record. It centered approximately 325 miles from Berkeley. Residents of Tulare reported feeling this quake.

The wealth of its fisheries gave the Golden Horn at Istanbul, Turkey, its name, says the National Geographic Society.

BIG LEAGUES POISED FOR SEASON OPENERS

THRILLING RACES IN PROSPECT FOR BOTH TOP LOOPS

Red Sox, Dodgers Favored To Finish On Top In Respective Circuits

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—The 1950 big league baseball campaign opens on Tuesday in eight cities, and everything points to two more gripping pennant races that should thrill the nation's fans down to the finish of the 154-game schedule.

Still fresh in memory are the feverish closing hours of last year's struggles, in which the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League and the New York Yankees of the American clawed their way past the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox into a World Series that was almost anti-climactic.

So conditioned has the baseball public become in recent years to such hair-raising finishes that it more or less expects to sweat through a couple more next autumn. Rare is the expert who picks the winner in either league with any degree of confidence.

Spring training which began a month and a half ago has done little toward clarifying the situation. No contender has stood out especially. The managers have devoted themselves largely to trying to uncover the elusive post-war rookie stars who might upset the remarkable balance among the leading clubs.

Joe McCarthy's Red Sox, who have missed by such thin margins the past two years, have been established 13-10 favorites in the American League. The defending champion Yankees are quoted second at 5-2, Detroit third at 4-1, Cleveland fourth at 6-1, and the rest nowhere.

Brooklyn, which looks like the nearest thing to a standout in either circuit, is a short 6-5 to repeat in the National, reflecting the respect for the Dodgers' lusty hitting, strong-arm pitching and deep replacements from their farm system if it is needed.

The St. Louis Cards, growing older and with no bright new stars showing up, are quoted at 3-1 against; Boston at 4-1, the Phillies at 8-1, and the rebuilt New York Giants at 12-1.

One National League manager, who was too smart to permit his name to be used, told this writer he wouldn't be surprised to see the Dodgers "sew it up by the middle of August."

That, however, was before several of Manager Barney Shotton's top pitchers, including his ace, Don Newcombe, began complaining of miseries in their arms and shoulders during the past week and talking back to the veteran pilot. A hint of dissention on the Dodger bench is welcome news in rival camps.

There is a general feeling around the American League that the Red Sox either do it this time or not at all. Several rival managers are convinced that McCarthy would have retired for good after his

GREATS OF NET COMPETITION

Four internationally famous professional tennis players give Monroe its first big-time net show in an exhibition engagement sponsored by the Optimist Club here April 27. Three of the netters pictured above will be here. Left to right, they are Jack Kramer, Pancho Gonzales, Pancho Segura, and Frank Parker. All except Segura, who will be replaced by equally famous Bobby Riggs, are billed for singles and doubles play here.

Famed Professional Tennis Quartet Will Show Here In Ouachita's Gym

Parker, Riggs, Gonzales, Kramer Billed For Exhibitions April 27

The most intriguing professional tennis competition of all time is coming to town on April 27 when Promoter Bobby Riggs presents Jack Kramer, world professional champion, against Pancho Gonzales, U. S. amateur champion, at the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium.

Never before has the meeting of two tennis rivals evoked so much interest. Ever since Riggs, himself two-time national champion and current U. S. pro kingpin, managed to lure Gonzales from amateur competition, there has been a growing army of sports fans eager to see these two titans of the court smash at each other.

In addition to the stellar Gonzales and Kramer, Riggs will also appear in exhibitions with Frank Parker. Parker replaces Pancho Segura on the card here since Segura will not be able to show on the Optimist Club-sponsored event. Two singles matches and a doubles event will highlight the program.

Gonzales, who won the National title for the second straight year at Forest Hills, New York, in gruelling competition with Ted Schroeder, will pit his power-driven service against Kramer's all-around court magic.

Riggs had to go all the way to bring Gonzales into the fiscal fold. He guaranteed the American-born Mexican $60,000, against 30 per cent of the gross, to turn professional. Last year, in his first tour as a money-winner, Kramer earned $120,000. He is working for 25 per cent of the gross this time.

It is odd that Kramer's opponent on last year's tour should turn up as promoter of the current competition. Riggs, who believes Kramer is the greatest all-around player since the heyday of Bill Tilden, foresees his antagonist of last year involved in the sternest kind of court antagonism.

Gonzales, only 21, has yet to reach the peak of his playing game. Kramer is 26 and, seemingly, in his vintage years as a tennist. However, the imponderables of tennis are involved. Who will win is anybody's guess.

The meeting of Gonzales and Kramer is a throwback to earlier, bitter tennis rivalries. There was Perry and Vines, Budge and the aforementioned Vines, Tilden and Cochet. Now comes the Kramer vs. Gonzales.

When Kramer turned pro last year, Jack was considered the colorful, hard-smashing player, as contrasted with Riggs' studied style. Now, there has been a switch. Pancho the Californian is the color man, the smashing fellow. Kramer has usurped Riggs' role as the scientist of the court.

SUNGLOW VICTOR IN CHESAPEAKE; GREEK SHIP 2ND

Favored Quiz Show Finishes Out Of Money; Kinsman Third

By George A. Bowen

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15.—(AP)—Brookmeade stable came up with a Calumet trick today, sending out Sunglow and Greek Ship to sweep home one-two in the Chesapeake Stakes and jump squarely into the Kentucky Derby picture.

The two Brookmeade colts thus repeated their performance in the Louisiana Derby on March 11. Only on that day Greek Ship was in front.

There were seven other derby candidates in the overcrowded field of 16, but for some of them their Kentucky hopes were left in the dust of the Havre De Grace track.

Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman, one of the few not eligible for the 3-year-old classic at Louisville, finished third, a neck behind Greek Ship. Half a length separated the two Brookmeade colts. Another three lengths back in fourth place was Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Suleiman.

Brookmeade picked up $18,725 for first place and another $4,000 for second.

Bettors of the winning entry collected $8.80 for $2.

Sunglow's time of 1:46 for the mile and a sixteenth was only fair being two seconds slower than the best time for the 29 times the Chesapeake has been run.

Two of the field, Elkcam stable's Blue Zac and Frank Frankel's Noblest, had to start outside the gate because there wasn't room for the whole field. When the pack came out like a stampede, it was Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's First Glance in front down a straightway and around the first turn.

Janet N. Kelly's Gigolo took over at the half mile pole but the pack still was so bunched it was difficult for the crowd of 17,346 to separate any of them.

Coming into the stretch, Sunglow was still sixth but only by one length so even was the going. Greek Ship started to move first from third place and overtook Suleiman who had taken command coming around the second bend.

Monroe Driver In Stock Car Races

SHREVEPORT, La., April 15.—(Special)—With 10 Houston drivers joining the competition a field of nearly 30 cars will challenge Herschel Buchanan Sunday when the Southwestern Racing Association presents its second stock car racing show of the season at the Fair Grounds.

Jud Larson, Doc Cossey, Buddy Rackley and Tommy Mangum are the best-known names in the pack of Houstonites who will show in this 100-mile attraction over the half-mile course.

All 20 drivers from the Shreveport Driver's Association will be on hand as will two newcomers, Jimmy Clark of Monroe and Lester Ford of Kilgore.

In the season-opener April 2 Buchanan was the whole show as the veteran car racer held the lead for 195 of the 200 laps after taking the pole position in the time trials. Only Brusseli Rains, Shreveport's racing rookie, was able to press Herschel down the home stretch. Rains was only 15 yards in back as they crossed the finish line.

The Sunday program calls for the time trials starting at 10 a.m. with the 15-lap consolation race for non-qualifiers at 1:45 p.m. The 200-lap feature will begin at 2:30 p.m. with the 16 fastest time trials and first four in the consolation race rounding out the field.

The 1950 U. S. open golf championship is the 50th such event since 1895 — there were no tournaments during war years.

TULANE'S BENTZ IN KANSAS EVENT

Texas, Notre Dame Also Send Entries For Relays Next Saturday

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 15.—(AP)—Tulane and Texas today entered two of the nation's top sprinters and Notre Dame an outstanding hurdler in the Kansas Relays here next Saturday.

Heading a six-man contingent from Tulane was Paul "No Legs" Bienz, defending Drake Relays 100-yard dash champion, and a fourth place finisher in last year's N. C. A. A. century.

Texas came in with a 20-man squad headed by powerful Charlie Parker, recently crowned Texas Relays Speed King, who has flashed 20.0 in the 220 since the season opened.

Hurdler John Fleming and shot-putter John Helwig topped a Notre Dame roster of six.

Missouri's defending Big Seven Outdoor Champions entered a team of 36, largest to date in the University class, to bring that division to 17 schools.

Eleven more college entries hoisted the total in that division to Southwestern of Winfield, Kan., 30. Newcomers included Baker, Trinity of San Antonio, Houston, Pittsburg (Kan.) State, Lincoln, Missouri Valley, Washburn, Phillips, McPherson and Bethel.

Entry of Bienz and Parker completes one of the best 100-yard dash fields in relays history.

Wrestlers Giving West Germany Lift

FRANKFURT, April 15.—(AP)—Wrestling, as it is dramatized in the United States, has taken a firm toe-hold on West Germany.

On-stage noises of agony, the art of the painful grimace and the villain with the vicious elbow have become part of the German wrestling scene.

The Germans thrive on it.

Appearing presently in Frankfurt is a one-time American manwrangler named Virag, now picking up a few marks by throwing down a few Germans.

Virag serves a dual purpose. As a villian and an American the hoots and catcalls can flow freely from all hands. He's a sort of blow-off valve for Germans tired of being occupied.

German wrestling types don't have the finesse of America's wrestling thespians. Nobody has attained the virtues of, say, Cry Baby George Zaharias, who was famous even before his wife started hitting golf balls. But they're in there trying.

Take a character named "Urk the Bulgarian." Uik has more hair than a bear rung and a face built for villainy. When he tosses his long bob and rushes into a double Japanese cradle with zipper the fans go wild.

The latest highlight in Frankfurt's arenas was provided by Virag and a long, lean German who looks like the late "Slim" Summerville. His name sounds something like "Kowalski," but it may easily be Pinkwaski. German announcers mince words.

All-Stars To Meet Alexandria Negroes

The Monroe All-Stars, Negro semi-pro baseball club, will meet the Alexandria Bill-Up Aces here this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Casino Park.

It will be the second game of the season for Manager Joe Gulledge's All-Stars who won their season opener last Sunday against the Winnsboro Tigers.

The Bill-Up Aces met the All-Stars only once last year, defeating the locals, 4-3, in 14 innings.

Joshua Goins, 20-year-old right-hander, has joined the pitching staff of the Monroe club, and Manager Gulledge last night said he would probably "work some" in today's game.

There will be reserved seats for white fans.

DEMARET SWEEPS AHEAD AT NORTH FULTON

7-UNDER-PAR 64 SENDS MASTERS' VICTOR TO FRONT

Sam Snead Holds Second Place, Three Strokes Off Pace

By Sterling Slappey

ATLANTA, April 15.—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret, who last Sunday won the Augusta Masters, today shot the greatest round of competitive golf ever played at North Fulton—a seven-under-par 64—to sweep to the lead in the North Fulton Open.

His three day total is 204, three strokes better than second place Sam Snead, who came in with a third round 69.

Demaret's great round included eight birdies and only one over-par hole. His putter was accurate on the speedy greens and he had no complaints about pin positions, although nearly every other golfer claimed that holes were located to penalize putters.

In third place after 54 holes on the 5,762-yard course was Jim Ferrier, the big Australian who flubbed the Masters on the last nine holes. Ferrier, now living in San Francisco, was two under par with a 69 for a 208 total.

Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., the second round leader, got a 72 for a 209. Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., co-leader after the first round, took another 71 to slip into a tie for fifth place with 211 strokes. Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., got a 69 to join Palmer.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the other first day leader, was in a tie for tenth place after a costly third round 76, which made his total 214.

The old competitive record at North Fulton was 66, scored by several golfers in various tournaments.

National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff, in a fit of temper after missing a four-foot putt, blasted his ball off the green across an adjoining fairway. His action was the equivalent of withdrawal from a tournament from which he received appearance money.

Had he held out his putt, he would have taken a 73 for a 219 total.

Elroy Martl, Houston, Tex., shot the tournament's only hole-in-one on the 125-yard 11th hole. He used a nine-iron. His third round score was a 72 which left him far back in the field with a 219 total.

Demaret sank putts from nearly all angles and from nearly all directions. When he didn't sink long putts his great chipping had placed his ball within inches of the cup.

An 8-footer dropped for a birdie on the 513-yard second hole. Another 8-footer scored a birdie on the fifth and a 25-foot drop got a 3 on the par 4 sixth hole.

Demaret completed the front nine in 33 — two under par. Coming home, he dropped a 6-footer on the 10th hole and short putts for birdies on the 11th, 12th and 14th. A 15-footer scored his last birdie on the par 5, 17th.

Snead went out in par, including one birdie and one over-par hole. He came back with three birdies and one over-par for a 34.

Major Leagues' Leaders Optimistic As Mid-Century Season Draws Near

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following size-up of the 1950 National League Baseball season was written for the Associated Press by League President Ford C. Frick.)

By Ford C. Frick
President of the National League

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)— As the National League prepares to start its seventy-fifth season, I would like to stray off the beaten track in this pre-season statement. Annually, it has been my good fortune to be given the opportunity of making a prediction on the kind of baseball season we expect.

But before going into that phase of the subject, I would like to take time out to pay a compliement to the club owners in the National League. I am happy to be associated with them because they are the kind of enterprising gentlemen who recognize their obligations and make every effort to meet them.

When I speak of obligations, I refer to those to the fans. The baseball fans in this country have been the most loyal of sport followers. They have given great support to the game as is evidenced from the tremendous attendances that baseball has enjoyed since the end of the recent war.

Club owners in the National League have not ignored such support and loyalty. In all the years that I have been identified with the league, I never have noticed a more strenuous effort to improve each club as there has been this year. The amount of money that has been spent totals a staggering amount.

The efforts of these club owners should surely be reflected in the kind of a race that we expect in the National League this year. From my own observations, and from those of impartial observers, it is my conclusion that we again will enjoy a season that will be as closely contested as those that we have had in the league during the past few years.

Many of our teams will start the season with new players. These players represent the cream of the crop of the top minor leagues. The introduction of these newcomers along with such players as Ralph Kiner, Cliff Chambers, Enos Slaughter, Stan Musial, Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese, Bobby Thomson, Eddie Stanky, Del Ennis, Russ Meyer, Warren Spahn, Sid Gordon, Andy Pafko, Roy Smalley, Walker Cooper and Ewell Blackwell, to mention a few, is an assurance that there will be top flight baseball in the league. There isn't any doubt that the calibre of play in the league last season showed definite improvement and I look for even a better standard of performance this year.

With all our teams having strengthened themselves, picking the winner in this year's pennant chase isn't going to be any easy

Wondring Takes Top Laurels In Ashland

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 15.—(AP)—Dixiana Farm's Wondring broke on top and scampered home first in her 1950 debut today to take a one length victory in the $10,000 added Ashland Stakes at Keeneland.

The three-year-old dark bay daughter of a former Kentucky Derby winner, Pensive, toured the six furlongs in 1:11, just 3-5 of a second off the track record which has stood for 12 years.

Famous Shake, Ray Ankenbauer's filly by Eternal Bull-Shake Down was second with plenty to spare.

Radiant, H. B. Scott's entry, closed fast to nip Mrs. George L. Harrison's Nettie Marie in a photo finish for third place.

Third liked in the betting, Wondring paid her backers $12.20, $8.60 and $5.80.

Famous Shake, second all the way, paid $9.20 and $6.40 while radiant returned $4 after closing as second choice. The pre-race favorite, Ari's Mona, never contended seriously.

Wondring won only once as a two-year-old but finished second in the Powder Puff Stakes at Detroit.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following size-up of the 1950 American Baseball League season was written for the Associated Press by League President Will Harridge.)

By Will Harridge
(President Of The American League)

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—The American League's 1950 season—its 50th—should take its place with the great seasons of the past.

From 1901, when the League first operated as a Major League, we have had many great pennant fights, no fewer than four of them coming in the past six years. Basing my opinion on fan interest and attendance during the recent spring training period in the south, I believe that this coming season will be equally as successful as those of the 1948 and 1949 campaigns, when a total of 21,880,746 fans turned out.

Last season, when the New York Yankees took the pennant on the final day from Boston to virtually match in excitement the 1948 pennant tie between Cleveland and Boston, the League attendance was 10,730,647. This was less than a four per cent decrease from the 1948 record-breaking figure of 11,150,099, and it is my belief that, given another tight race, our League has a chance to match if not surpass its attendance total of last season.

A majority of observers flatly predict a wide-open battle for this 50th American League flag—and I'll go along with them. Winter deals have strengthened several clubs and I think that the circuit has enough balance to project four or possibly five teams into a close championship race. That the League can come up with tight races is shown by the records of 1944 when the St. Louis Browns won the pennant on the final day from Detroit, and of 1945, when Detroit went to the final day to nose out Washington, not to mention the thrill-packed races of 1948 and 1949. In addition, most of our clubs report the best advance sale of tickets they ever have had.

It is fitting in this 50th American League season that our League, and all baseball, has the opportunity to pay tribute to two men who played parts in the founding and development of our circuit. One is Connie Mack, that grand young man of the Philadelphia Athletics, who at 87 celebrates his 50th anniversary as manager of the Athletics. The other is the president of the Washington club, Clark Griffith, who pitched for and managed the first American League pennant winner, the 1901 Chicago White Sox.

PRO CAGE LEAGUE PLANS TO REDUCE OR SPLIT CIRCUIT

National Basketball Loop Wants To Reduce 16-Club Membership

CHICAGO, April 15. —(AP)—The National Basketball Association today moved to reduce its bulky 16-team membership with preliminary study of a proposed branch league of seven or eight members.

In a surprise meeting here, the N. B. A. executive committee and representatives of Sheboygan, Wis.; Waterloo, Ia.; Sandusky, O.; Racine, Wis.; and Des Moines, Ia., talked over the planned "affiliate" loop.

Possibly St. Louis, Denver and Anderson, Ind., may round out the new pro circuit, it was reported. Grand Rapids, Mich., also was said to be interested in the new combination.

The N. B. A.'s current wide-flung membership includes Sheboygan, Waterloo, Denver and St. Louis, while Anderson surrendered its franchise last Monday.

Today's meeting was called by N. B. A. President Maurice Podoloff, who only last Monday ruled that N. B. A. members proposing to play next season had to post a $50,000 performance bond within a week.

At that time, Podoloff suggested that the ideal N. B. A. setup would be 10 teams, or 12 at the most, operating in two divisions. Today's session obviously was a sounding out of teams most included to drop out.

Podoloff said that any announcement concerning the new league would come at the previously-scheduled April 24 meeting of the N. B. A. in Chicago.

Podoloff also disclosed that the N. B. A. had offered the purchase the St. Louis franchise, but had received no answer.

The N. B. A. president said the proposed new league would have a working agreement with the major circuit. He declined to describe the projected loop as a minor cage wheel, but conceded that there would be no meeting of the champions of both leagues.

Other N. B. A. members presently are Washington, Boston, Baltimore and Chicago, all money-losers last season, and Syracuse, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Rochester, New York, Fort Wayne (Ind.), Tri-City (Moline, Ill.), and Philadelphia.

An 18-man squad will represent the U. S. in baseball at the Pan-American games in Buenos Aires, starting Feb. 25, 1951.

DELTA BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENING

First Games Slated Today At West Monroe, Point, Delhi, Bonita-Jones

The Louisiana Delta Baseball League opens its 1950 campaign today with games at Cloyd's Park in West Monroe, Point, Bonita-Jones, and Delhi.

Hal Willis, president of the amateur circuit, sees a promising season ahead for the league that includes four new members this year. The new additions are Bonita-Jones, member of the Northeast Louisiana League last year, and Point, Swartz, and Calhoun, all up from the Little Eight League which has not reorganized this season.

Old members back are Delhi and Mangham, among the original league organizers, andthe two West Monroe clubs, the Rebels and the Volunteers, who joined the circuit only last year after campaigning in the Little Eight.

Today's openers have Calhoun visiting the West Monroe Vols, Swartz invading Point, West Monroe Rebels at Bonita-Jones, and Mangham at Delhi.

Calhoun and Mangham have their home openers Wednesday against Bonita-Jones and West Monroe Rebels respectively, while the Rebels and Swartz appear at home for the first time in games next Sunday with Delhi and Bonita-Jones furnishing the opposition.

The league plays twice each week, Sundays and Wednesday through August 13. Championship playoffs will begin August 16.

NEVILLE TIGERS DEFEAT OUACHITA, 5 TO 4

BENGALS USE 2 UNEARNED RUNS IN SIXTH TO WIN

Boatright, Lee Share 2-Hitter For Lions Who Collect Four Safe Licks

The Neville High School Tigers were able to get only two hits but they made the best of bases on balls and errors to defeat the Ouachita Parish High School Lions here last night, 5 to 4, at American Legion Memorial Stadium in the first scheduled game between the two Monroe schools.

Mark Boatwright and Bobby Lee shared the two-hitter for the Lions, while Craig Whetstone, a lefthander, did a creditable job for Neville in setting the Lions down with four hits.

The Bengals, who had been unable to beat the Lions in football and basketball as the two schools opened athletic relations last fall, finally got on the winning side in baseball after being forced to come from behind in the last of the sixth inning to turn the trick.

An error enabled the Bengals to sew up the game.

Harold Bassett, first baseman, and Sam Campbell, second baseman, accounted for the two Neville blows with Bassett's lick going for two bases.

Bob Carter, shortstop and catcher, sparked Ouachita's attack with a pair of singles. Bobby Lee singled once, and Jinks connected for a triple.

Neville took the lead with two out in the first frame. Tommy Leos, safe on a fielder's choice, advanced on a free pass to Bassett and scored on Campbell's single.

Two Neville runs came in in the second. Don Stewart was safe on an error and advanced as the next two batters grounded out. Campbell walked, and both Stewart and Campbell scored on errors.

Ouachita tallied first in the fifth on bases on balls to Troy Counts and Ken Bates, a single by Carter and infield outs.

The Lions went ahead in the top of the sixth. Harold Davis drew a free pass, Lee singled, and Jinks came through with his triple to put O. P. H. S. in front.

The first two Neville batters to come to the plate in the bottom of the sixth, Stevens and Gannaway, drew bases on balls qand came home with the tying and winning runs. Choate grounded out and Stewart fanned, but Tommy Leos lifted a fly to Palmer at second. Palmer dropped the ball and the runs raced safely home.

Tech Beats Wildcats In Scoring Marathon

RUSTON, April 15.—(AP)—Trailing 10 runs going into their half of the first inning, Louisiana Tech took advantage of wildness by four Northwestern State College hurlers to chalk up a marathon 16-11 victory yesterday.

Six miscues b Tech, three walks and two hits produced the commanding 10-run lead.

Tech bounced back in the bottom half of the first when seven consecutive walks counted four runs. The demons' margin was decreased further when the techsters added three runs in the second and two in the third. Northwestern scored also in the third, adding one more run to their total.

Tech's big assault came in the fourth when seven runs crossed the plate on two bases on balls and four hits. The deciding blow of that frame was an inside-the-park home run by Sam Sheppard with the bases loaded.

The first inning of the contest consumed 45 minutes with the first four innings requiring two hours.

Pipes, relieving Hood in the first for Tech, allowed only three hits and one run in his 8 1-3 stanzas on the mound to receive credit for the win.

Connie Mack

My 66 Years In The Big Leagues

By

Connie Mack

(Manager Of The Philadelphia A's For 50 Years)

CHAPTER 17

THE CONTRIBUTION OF COLLEGES

Colleges, academies, and high schools have been the mainstay of baseball. Before the organization of the baseball leagues, our educational institutions literally kept the game alive.

For fifty years I have been scouting our colleges and schools in search of new and promising material. It is a great satisfaction to me to be able to say that some of the greatest players both among my own "boys" and on our diamonds have come from our colleges.

The first intercollegiate meet between two competing teams was played on July 1, 1859, between Amherst and Williams. Amherst won 73-32. Today in the Amherst trophy room is this inscription: "The veritable balls used in the first intercollegiate game of Base Ball ever played."

In those days it was a chivalrous custom for the captain of the defeated team to hand to the victorious captain the ball with which the game had been won. These balls were kept in trophy cases, and in many colleges are preserved as highly valued Americana.

Our college libraries also contain historical records of their individual teams. These treasured records tell the whole story of college baseball in America. Our colleges claim they were the first to introduce the curve which revolutionized baseball and made baseball pitching the science it is today.

The First Curve Pitcher

The first pitcher in professional baseball to create a sensation by using the curve was W. A. "Candy" Cummings.

My old friend Frank Blair has made an exhaustive research into the historical records in the effort to find where and how curve pitching started.

"Curve pitching was not of professional origin," this venerable baseball authority declares. "It came from a college diamond. And so did the first no-hit, no-run records."

The underhand throw was first permitted by rules of baseball in 1872, and it was this underhand throw that soon developed the curve. Curve pitching introduced science into the game and greatly cut down its length and scores. Before that time scores had been running into three figures.

"I saw a game played in 1870 between West Brookfield and Sturbridge, a few miles from Connie Mack's home," Mr. Blair recalls. "It was played on the old commons, all the afternoon into the edge of the evening. After the score was computed by candlelight the results read: Sturbridge 113—West Brookfield 30."

Curve-ball pitching soon swept through the country like wildfire. When Goldsmith and Corcoran pitched for Anson in Chicago in the early '80's, they shut out so many visiting teams that the fans had a name for it. If any team was defeated without scoring a single run in any place in the country, they said it had been Chicagoed!

"The first man to pitch a curveball game," Blair told me, "was Charles Hammond Avery, Yale 1871-75, popularly called Ham Avery," and the first curve-pitched college game was played between Yale and Harvard at Saratoga, New York, June 14, 1874, the week of the college boat races. Avery pitched for Yale and won by the score of 4-0, the first shutout ever scored against Harvard.

The next day Yale defeated Harvard by a score of 7-4, Avery again pitching for Yale. Some records state that Avery was the first Yale pitcher to beat Harvard. All records show that the cause of the victories was "balls that curved away from a right-hand batsman pitched by Avery."

The fact that Avery was to perform this miracle was undoubtedly a secret known only to his team. For the next year it still remained a mystery. Very few newspapers even mentioned it. The first pitchers to fathom the Avery mystery were Mann of Princeton, Richmond of Brown, and Carter of Yale. In a very short time after that it was evident that something startling had happened in baseball.

"You can't call those old college pitchers 'forgotten men!'" exclaims Mr. Blair in presenting the above-mentioned facts. "It's a pretty good college contribution to our national game, isn't it?"

This old-timer states emphatically, however, although he began to use the curve in the big leagues, he would take none of the credit from "Candy" Cummings. "There is room for all," Blair says, "but credit should be given where credit is due, and I think Cummings and college baseball should have more than a fair share of the credit."

Documents at Princeton University

A volume in the Princeton University Library, entitled Athletics at Princeton, proves that colleges developed the first curve pitchers. This book gives box scores and some descriptive matter of every game played at Princeton from 1860 to 1901. It notes also that at the end of the baseball season in 1874, the same year that Avery began to pitch his curveball games at Yale, the professional Philadelphia team, with Arthur Cummings as pitcher, came to Princeton.

Many times while the batter was taking his stance, Cummings would leave the pitcher's mound and throw the ball to second base so that it would curve in its flight. This feat always amazed and delighted the spectators.

"He had been doing this for some time for the amusement of the fans," states Mr. Blair. "It was considered a trick of magic, and he did not venture to get it under sufficient controol to use it over the home plate from the pitcher's box until some years later."

The testimony of this veteran of academy and college baseball throws much light on the early days of the game. In his first year at Williston Academy, in 1873, one of Blair's chums was Charles Francis Carter, a left fielder who went to Yale in 1874, and the following year played on Avery's famous Yale team. Stories began to drift back to Williston that Avery was a wonder, for he had introduced something new into baseball — a curve ball that was puzzling batters and was proving very difficult to hit.

"But the college professors declared there could be no such thing as a 'curved ball,' it must be an optical illusion," Frank recalls with amusement.

One day in 1876, Blair was examining the condition of the diamond on the Academy campus. He spied Carter coming up the street from the station. Carter spotted Blair at the same moment, and vaulting the fence, shouted to him, "I can pitch curves! Avery taught me!"

"With that, Carter took a baseball from his pocket, laid aside his overcoat, and began to show me how the mystery was performed."

Carter, having passed on the instructions to Blair, picked up his overcoat and started for the train back to New Haven. He had seemingly accomplished his mission! Blair was eager to pass on the secret to the Williston pitcher. The resut? Williston Academy placed on the diamoond the first curve pitcher used in any prep school in the United States.

The standard ball in use by professional and college teams in those early days was a red ball. It was introduced into the game in the early '70's because it was believed that the fielders could see a red ball in the sunny skies better than they could spot a white one. In the latter part of the 70's the white ball began to be used once more; and soon after 1880 the red ball disappeared, never to return to baseball.

Amherst College a Baseball Shrine

Amherst established the first college baseball field in the country. It was known as Blake Field, named after Lucien Ira Blake, a senior from Taunton, who had raised the money from the alumni to help construct it. Professional teams from the New England cities, from Washington, and as far west as Columbus, Ohio, came to play exhibition games on this field.

When Frank Blair went to Amherst along with John Andrews, of Holliston, Massachusetts, who had learned curve pitching at Williston with Blair, they took curve pitching along with them.

The day Harvard came to Amherst in 1877 was a memorable occasion. Harvard was sartorially superb; the players wore tan leather shoes that laced up around the ankle. It was the first time leather had ever been used for baseball shoes. The tan shoe era dates back to that Harvard - Amherst team. The high canvas shoes that the players had formerly worn began to disappear and give place to the low leather shoes which players today wear.

Harvard's catcher, Tyng, appeared on the diamond that day carrying a satchel of the same color and material as his shoes. When the umpire called "Play Ball," Catcher Tyng opened his satchel with much ceremony and took

LOTOWHITE HITS POT, HILL PRINCE FAILS TO PLACE

Royal Castle Takes Second Money At Jamaica; Sturdy One Third

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 15. — (AP) — A new name rocketed into the Kentucky Derby picture today when Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite zoomed to a four and one-half length victory in the $27,750 Experimental Free Handicap No. 2 at Jamaica.

Hill Prince, the 1 to 2 favorite of a stunned crowd of 41,068, never got into the act and wound up an inglorious ninth in the field of 11 three-year-olds. Eddie Arcaro said Hill Prince hit the rail leaving the backstretch, and was knocked clear off stride.

It was a field day for the long shot players, as J. M. Seider's Royal Castle took second money, a length and a half ahead of F. N. Phelps' California invader, Sturdy one. Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd was fourth, another length and a half away.

Lotowhite, an 18 to one shot, never won a race in 13 starts as a two-year-old. This was his sixth race as sophomore, and only his second victory. Royal Castle, a nonderby eligigle, was 47 to 1, and Sturdy One was 27-1.

Jockey Sam Boulmetis, an apprentice, had the proper recipe this time for Lotowhite. Sam never was worse than fourth, as Greentree stable's Gullotine set a brisk early pace, trailed closely by James Cox Brady's Casemate.

Lotowhite, a chestnut son of Devil Diver — Lotopoise by Equipoise, swung into the lead as they turned into the top of the stretch, and there was never any question about the winner. Most of the fans, who saw their money go down the drain on the beaten favorite, were looking back by that time wondering what had become of his celebrated come-from-behind drive.

The winner was clocked in 1:44 3-5 for the mile and one-sixteenth. He paid $37.90, $15.90 and $8.90. Royal Castle returned $33.70 and $16.50 and Sturdy One, second to Your Host in the Santa Anita Derby paid $10.80 to show.

A total of 494,397 was bet on the race, and $257,780 went on Hill Prince. Of this, $168,139 was put on his nose to win.

Arcaro, seeking his third straight experimental victory, said the colt, owned by Chris Chenery, caromed off the rail into Lights Up, and both horses were knocked off stride.

Ted Atkinson eased Guillotine up after he ran out of gas, and the colt finished last.

WOODERSON WEDS

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—Sidney Wooderson, who set the world's half mile record of 1:49.2 in 1938, today married Pamela Willcocks, a London secretary. Wooderson, now a 35-year-old solicitor, worked in the same law office as Miss Willcocks.

Monroe Sports Play At Texarkana Today

The Monroe Sports, winners of four out of five exhibition appearances, journey to Texarkana today for a meeting with the Bears of the Big State League this afternoon.

Manager Al Mazur's Sports nosed out the Class B Bruins, 6 to 7, in an exhibition here Friday night.

It will be the final exhibition for Monroe's Cotton States League entry which opens the season Tuesday night at Natchez, Miss., against the defending champion Indians.

Monroe gets its own home opener Thursday night against the same Natchez club at Legion Memorial Stadium.

Negro Big Leaguers Play Here Tomorrow

The Kansas City Monarchs, boasting one of their finest outfields in the past ten years, and the Cleveland Buckeyes will appear in an exhibition game here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Casino Park. Both teams are members of the Negro American League.

The Monarchs are high on their three regular outfielders, Elston Howard, left, Gene Collins, center, and "Schoolboy" Johnson, right, who are touted for speed and slugging ability.

Collins was a pitcher last year with the Monarchs until Manager Buck O'Neal decided to capitalize on his speed and hitting power by turning him into a fly chaser.

The park management last night said reserved seats will be available for white fans.

City Softball League Meets Here Thursday

The City Softball League, all primed for the opening of another campaign here, is expected to adopt its 1950 schedule at a meeting slated for Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center.

"Last minute" details will also be worked out for the opening of the season and the conducting of play during the campaign.

Demons Squeeze Past Louisiana Tech, 1-0

NATCHITOCHES, La., April 15. —(AP)—Behind the four hit pitching of diminutive righthander Linwood Ouzts the Northwestern State College Demon nine defeated the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs 1-0 here today.

The Demons collecting nine safeties off the right arm of Buddy Colvin, were led in the sticks department by big Al Nicosa and Backstop Glenn Williams, who got two bingles each. Williams scored the only run of the game in the fifth inning when Ouzts whizzed a single down the first base line.

Northwestern was in trouble only twice and the right-hander masterfully pulled them out of the hole. He had superb support from both the infield and outfield.

The Demons have a full schedule next week. On Tuesday they play the S. L. I. Bulldogs in Lafayette. They return to the Natchitoches diamond on Wednesday for another match with the South Louisiana College nine and meet Louisiana College next Saturday.

Clover Leaf Dairy Will Meet Nichols

Clover Leaf Dairy, a new entry in the City Softball League but with personnel that has been familiar with other clubs of the city's major loop in the past years, will meet Nichols Motors, a powerhouse of the circuit last year, in an exhibition contest here this afternoon.

The game is scheduled for 4 o'clock on the Barkdull Faulk diamond.

Manager Billy Hargiss last night said Clover Leaf expects to work Wilbur Smith, "Red" Holley and Glen Wyatt on the mound today with J. R. Hood and possibly Charlie Anderson sharing the catching.

The Clover Leafs defeated Spatafora's Grocery the past week in an opening exhibitition game here.

BONUS PLAYER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 15. —(AP)—Tommy Page, 19-year-old right-handed pitcher, today signed a bonus contract with the world champion New York Yankees and will be farmed out to one of their Class C League teams. The amount of the bonus was not disclosed.

WIDMAR JOINS BROWNIES; WON'T FILE SUIT

COMES TO TERMS AFTER CHANDLER CHAT OVER PHONE

Details Of Pact Not Announced; Hurler Says Court Action Off

ST. LOUIS, April 15. —(AP)—Al Widmar, pitcher who threatened to sue baseball over the reserve clause, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns, Club President Bill Dewitt announced today.

Dewitt said Widmar would join the Browns in Chicago next Tuesday. He refused to answer all questions concerning pay Widmar will get for the season.

Dewitt said he talked with Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler before talking with Widmar.

"I talked to the commissioner serveral times last week," Dewitt declared. "The last time was this morning. The commissioner then called Widmar at his Dunmore, Pa., home. Then I called Widmar. That's all I can tell you."

Widmar said at his home he signed after A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner of baseball, telephoned him and "explained the rules". He declined to elaborate but he did say Chandler always steps in as adviser during a contract dispute. "That's his job," Al stated.

He declined to say whether he got "at least $10,000" as he was demanding but did say:

"I'm very happy with the contract. I don't think I could have got a better one."

Asked if that meant he will drop any thought of a suit against baseball, Widmar said:

"I sure am dropping it. I don't know law—I only know how to play baseball."

Last Monday Widmar announced that if the Browns did not offer him a contract for "at least $10,000" this year, he would sue "the way Danny Gardella did."

Widmar, a tall, 25-year-old righthander, won 22 games with Baltimore in the International League last year. The Browns bought him at the end of the season. He had played with the Browns a year before during which he had a record of two victories and six losses.

Last year Widmar said he made $8,000 — including about $2,000, which represented 20 per cent of the purchase price the Browns paid for him.

He said the first offer the Browns made this year was for $5,000 and that their best offer was for $7,000.

Orioles Send M'Quillen To Travs For Piechota

BALTIMORE, April 15. —(AP)— The Baltimore Orioles of the International League announced today they have sent Outfielder Glenn (Red) McQuillen to Little Rock in an even swap for Pitcher Al Piechota.

McQuillen, a husky righthander, batted .287 for Baltimore and drove in 87 runs last year. While with Toledo in 1948, he won the American Association batting championship with a .329.

Piechota won 15 Southern Association games for Little Rock, dropped ten, and stacked up an earned run average of 3.18. He is a righthander.

THRILLING RACES

heart-breaking defeat on the final day of the '49 season if he hadn't felt certain that Ted Williams & Co. would win this year.

"When Joe let a pitcher like Jack Kramer go to the Giants, that was the tip-off that he thought he had enough good young pitching to win the pennant," observed Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland.

The opening series between the Sox and the Yankees at Boston might tell a great deal. Last year the Sox got away to a miserable start on the road and were far behind the pace before they began to click, but as the season progressed they proved virtually unbeatable in their own Fenway Park.

This time McCarthy's sluggers play 22 of their first 30 games at home, with its inviting left field fence. If they get away to a running start against the Yanks and pile up an early lead they will be hard to head off.

Even though Joe DiMaggio is ready to go for a change, the Yanks are not happy. The world champions failed in their winter-long efforts to give Manager Casey Stengel another starting pitcher, Tommy Henrich is having knee trouble again, and Fireman Joe Page has not been striking 'em out in exhibition games.

The American League's other big opening day tussel matches Detroit and Cleveland in the Indians' lakefront stadium. Either o them might win the flag with a break here and there, and this observer's private hunch is that Cleveland will be the one to do it.

The Injuns look like a comeback outfit. Luke Easter, their huge new Negro rightfielder, has a world of raw power and has proved himself a much better fielder than had been expected. The entire team is "hungrier" than it was a year ago, from Manager Boudreau on down, and Bob Feller looks right again. So do Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia. Count them in.

Detroit's pitching is certain to be rough and could be the best in the league if Hal Newhouser delivers. Some are picking Manager Red Rolfe to produce a flag in his second year, but realists point to weaknesses at short and first and lack of distance hitting. Scrappy Gerry Priddy will tighten up the infield at second base.

President Truman is to toss out the first ball at Washington, where the bogged-down Senators open against 87-year-old Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. After a year on the coast, popular Bucky Harris is back as pilot of the Nats, though he doesn't say why.

The youthful Chicago White Sox, given a chance to climb as high as fifth in the American League, entertain the St. Louis Brown's new crop of rookies at Comiskey Park. The customary winter talk about moving the Brownies to another city came to nothing. The Dewitt brothers, Bill and Charles, who run the club, say they are happy in St. Louis.

Brooklyn opens against the Phillies at Shibe Park—right where it finally clinched the flag in the dusk of last closing day. The Phils are an explosive young club, laden with high-priced bonus talent, but the consensus is that they are not quite solid enough to endanger the Brooks or the Cards this year.

The two teams which made the biggest player swap of the off-season, the New York Giants and Boston Braves, clash fittingly enough, at the Polo Grounds. Both still think they got the better of the deal, which provided the Giants with a tight defense and the Braves with the power hitting they had lacked.

The Giants might possibly surprise. They now are the kind of team Leo Durocher likes to manage, and, given his own implements, the voluble little man has shown before that he can get results. It is an exceptionally fast team and set at every position except first base, where Jack Harshman, a minor league home run king, so far has disappointed.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves has at least gotten rid of the dissidents who voted him only a half-share in last year's world series cut. Anything that happens to him probably will seem an improvement. The team's costly Negro rookie, Sam Jethroe, has been something of a flop in exhibition games.

The Cardinals, for the novelty of it and the money involved, are turning on the lights at Sportsman's Park for their opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates. Ralph Kiner, the Pirates' home run champion, has recovered sufficiently from a sprained wrist to start.

Two great baseball players, Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter, still are in the Cards' line-up. Musial might be the best in the game today. The club also has pitching. But its catching is weak. Shortstop Marty Marion is getting no younger, and the 3-1 odds against Eddie Dyer's team probably are about right.

The National League's two cellar clubs, Chicago and Cincinnati, open at Cincinnati. Luke Sewell makes his bow as manager of the Reds, succeeding Bucky Walters, and Frankie Frisch begins his first full season at the Cubs' helm. Their real riends will not forget them.

Curtis Gets Chance To Square Accounts

Jack Curtis, beaten in his mat engagement here last Tuesday with the "Black Phantom" because George Cologne, a semi-finalist, slipped out to the ringside to grab a foot and throw him off balance, will try to even the score with Cologne at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night.

Promoter Kallio last night said Curtis has challenged Cologne, New Orleans rowdy, and that they have been paired for the 90-minute time limit main event.

"Black Phantom" will also be back, appearing in the semi-final attraction, an hour time limit affair, against Don Kees, a newcomer here from Birmingham, Ala.

from it a mask which he carefully placed over his face.

This was the first baseball mask. It was invented and patented by Fred W. Thayer, of Harvard, in 1876, another important college contribution to baseball.

Historic Battle: Yale vs. Harvard

One of the great games in early baseball history was played at New Haven on May 26, 1877, when Carter of Yale pitched his no-hit game against Harvard. One Harvard man reached first on an error, but was immediately thrown out trying to steal second.

"This was the first game in baseball history where the members of a defeated team were put out in one-two-three order," Mr. Blair states. "It is true that Princeton defeated Yale at New Haven in a no-hit, no-run game on May 28, 1875 (3-0), but two Yale men reached first on errors, thus braking up a one-two-three play. J. M. Mann pitched a great game for Princeton."

The first time Amherst defeated Yale was on June 13, 1877. The big news was wired from New Haven: "Amherst has beaten Yale." When the team returned to its home town near Northampton that night a considerable part of the population was waiting on the road. The horses were unhitched from the wagon that was waiting for the victorious team, and some of the students put themselves between the shafts and drew the students to the campus.

It was like an old-time election night. Bonfires were lighted and cheering crowds rallied round the fires, while wildly enthusiastic students carried the players on their shoulders. Round and round the bonfire they circled as the crowd broke into songs. It was only when the flames died down that the excitement subsided and the crowds dispersed.

the throttle on Sunglow then and the son of Sun Again — a Calumet stud — came rushing on the outside to finish strong.

Palatine stable's Quiz Show, off as the favorite after winning last week's six-furlong Chesapeake Trial, never was better than sixth and wound up tenth.

The finish found these other derby contenders: Mrs. Walter M. Jeffordd' Post Card seventh, First Glance eighth, A. T. Clarke's King Mowlee, 12th, H. B. Cohen's Jess Linthicum 13th, Greentree stable's Androcles 14th, and Gigolo 15th.

W. G. Helis' Yogi, another derby eligible, was scratched this morning. Sunglow's triumph was rather surprising since the Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane runner had won only once in 15 previous starts.

Greek Ship, a son of Heliopolis, in addition to winning the Louisiana Derby had copped the Wakefield and Mayflower Stakes as a two-year-old.

Trainer J. Preston Burch declined after the race to say which he thinks is the better colt. Both are eligible for the derby and Preakness. Greek Ship also is nominated for the Belmont.

Kinsman's respectable third in the race promptly found him a $1500 supplemental nomination to the Preakness. Deadline for the late nominations is midnight tonight.

assignment. I have felt that wa; since I toured our training camps In all these camps I was impressec with the spirit of the teams. A good many baseball writers have noticed the same thing.

As for attendance this year, it is difficult to say at this time just how big it will be. We may reach our record of over 10,000,000 established in 1947, but with the prospects of a keen race, we should continue to draw the crowds as we have since the end of the war. Since the war ended, baseball has enjoyed prosperous years and it is my opinion that with interest in the game greater than ever, baseball will continue to draw tremendously.

There can be no doubt that this meeting — Gonzales vs. Kramer —will produce the best tennis of any pro tour. Here's why: Gonzales has taken up the search for loot at the peak of his career, when he is only 21. The same went for Kramer last year. Hitherto, amateur standouts waited too long before turning professional.

Details concerning a planned advanced sale of tickets will be announced some time this week.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

Petroleum Industry Is Trying To Curb Imports

By Tex Easley

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—With the natural gas bill through congress (it's now awaiting President Truman's action), the petroleum industry is turning its attention to renewed efforts to curb oil imports.

It's still anybody's guess what the president will do with the gas bill. He gave no hint at his Thursday news conference whether he would sign the measure, veto it, or let it become law without his signature.

The legislation would exempt from federal power commission authority the independent "arm's length" natural gas producers and handlers — those who have no financial interest in the pipeline concern to which they sell gas.

That is about the situation today.

If Mr. Truman should veto the measure, the gas industry can expect an immediate move by the commission to extend its regulations to the independents.

Back to the subject of imports, bureau of mines figures show that they jump from an average of 229,000 barrels a day in 1940 to 642,000 barrels in 1949. So far this year they have averaged 750,000 barrels and the bureau says prospects are for an average of 800,000 barrels by the end of the year.

Bills to slow down the imports have been introduced and debated in both house and senate. And industry representatives have held numerous conferences with federal officials.

So far, the industry's efforts have accomplished little. The administration has sent word to congressional committees that it is reluctant to take any steps counter to its policy of encouraging international trade.

This week brought talks here between oil and coal industry leaders on the import question.

Although these two groups normally are at odds, they are uniting in opposition to the present flow of foreign crude into the United States. The more oil that is consumed in the industrial east, from whatever source it comes, the more likelihood of further displacement of coal as a fuel.

The senate banking committee turned the spotlight this week on the question of government aid for private oil explorations.

Under questioning by Chairman Fulbright (D.-Ark.) of the subcommittee looking into the matter, reconstruction finance corporation officials told of their approval of a $11,100,000 loan to the Texmass Petroleum Co. of Dallas.

R. F. C. Chairman Harley Hise said that so far as he knew it was the first time the agency had approved such a loan to the oil and gas industry. He expressed his belief the R. F. C. had authority to make the loan, notwithstanding the previous testimony of comptroller General Lindsay Warren.

The latter told the committee he believed the loan illegal, because data submitted to him indicated the company had no prospects of repaying the loan within 10 years, as required by terms of the R. F. C. act.

Hise told the committee that the first disbursement of funds to Texmass is not expected before April 27, and then only if the company's collateral is found satisfactory. The question involves title to 150 oil leases in several Texas counties. Conflicting evidence was put into the record regarding the value of reserves on the leased lands.

Warren complained to the committee that 68 per cent of the loan, if finally secured, is to be applied to payment of existing indebtedness. Among investors in Texmass are 350 persons in the Boston, Mass., area.

Hise told the committee he would have a more complete statement of the R. F. C. position by Tuesday.

Drop In Foreign Imports Fail To Impress Texans

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, April 15.—(AP)—Imports of foreign crude took a tumble in February but some Texans still are not too impressed.

A statewide citizens economic committee this week began a survey to determine the ailments of the Texas oil industry.

Imports, without doubt, will play an important part in the study.

Governor Allan Shivers launched the survey by reminding the group: Texas cutbacks in crude oil production since January of last year are almost in direct proportion to the increases in imports.

State Comptroller R. S. Calvert reported Texas' oil production tax income for the year ending March 1 was off $19,667,031.44.

Texas crude production allowables last week totaled 2,121,345 barrels daily, compared to approximately 2,700,000 in December 1948.

Opponents of foreign oil being brought into the United States drew some encouragement but still had cause to be puzzled over the latest statistical report on imports from the department of commerce.

The department this week placed February imports of crude at 111,891,000 barrels, 7.5 per cent less than a year earlier. Imports of refined products totaled 7,085,000 barrels, an increase of 63.3 per cent.

This made February's receipts of foreign crude and refined products 13.6 per cent over February 1949.

A similar situation existed on imports.

February exports of domestic crude, the department reported, totaled 2,196,000, about 13 per cent above last year. Products exports were down 32.8 per cent.

This placed over-all February exports 22.8 per cent below last year.

The Texas committee began its economic study by appointing an executive secretary—Midland Attorney W. P. Z. German, Jr. It also initiated plans to raise a $50,000 budget.

The day before the committee got its program under way a group of independent refiners told the Texas railroad commission gas production should draw much of the blame for oil market demand slumps.

Spokesmen for the Independent Refiners Association of America fromally asked the commission to place all hydrocarbons under the state's proration laws. This, they said, would put gas products on an equal basis with crude petroleum.

The refiners contended Texas crude output has dropped 26 per cent since 1948. They want a similar cut for gas.

Twenty-eight Texas refineries were said to be shut down, with all others operating at an average of 76 per cent capacity.

At the same time, the refiners said, 37 cycling plants have an operating average of 112 per cent capacity.

In contrast, the commission was told, Louisiana Gulf coast refineries are operating at 99.8 per cent of capacity, north Louisiana and Arkansas 71.9 per cent, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri 78.4 per cent Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky 92.9 per cent, and east coast refineries at 80.6 per cent of capacity.

The refiners report then stated. "We invite the commission's attention to the depressed condition of crude oil operated refineries which are located in the local areas of large supply of gas products. North Louisiana, Arkansas, Inland Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and othres have particularly felt the effects of the unlimited, non-prorated amounts of products produced from gas."

The refiners made their proration request before a statewide hearing which had been called for receiving testimony on the amount of butane and propane gases being burned in the open field in Texas.

Most operators disagreed with the refiners. They said very little butane-propane is being flared.

They also objected to the refiner's proration proposal, contending the hearing had not been called to consider such a suggestion.

OIL PRODUCTION IN U. S. UPPED

Increase Helped By Production In Mid-Continent Section

TULSA, Okla., April 15.—(AP)—The nation's crude oil production increased its daily average by 123,125 barrels during the week ended April 8, the fourth straight weekly gain, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

It raised the total daily average, the journal said, to 4,932,425 barrels.

Increased state allowables helped to record large increases in the mid-continent section but the Rocky Mountain region's output dropped for the week.

Biggest gain was in the nation's biggest petroleum producer—Texas, up 123,775 barrels to 1,982,850, highest for the state since the week ended last Dec. 19. Oklahoma hit its highest since Feb. 5, up 18,550 barrels to 440,150.

Other sizeable increases were reported for Louisiana, up 3,800 barrels to 511,500; Illinois, up 3,100 to 183,900; the eastern fields, 2,150 to 61,000, and Indiana, 1,200 to 29,200.

Kentucky gained 900 barrels to 26,100, Utah was up 200 to 3,100, Florida added 175 to 1,025, and Arkansas gained 100 to 80,900.

Major losses were in Kansas, down 9,450 barrels to 256,950; Wyoming, off 7,800 to 149,200; Mississippi, 5,200 to 93,650, and New Mexico, 3,075 to 125,800. Alabama was down 100 barrels to 1,250, California lost 1,600 to 859,100, Colorado was off 1,800 to 48,400 and Montana decreased 600 to 22,500.

Nebraska production was unchanged at 1,450 barrels.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16 inch spot cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 5 cents higher at 32.41 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days was 32.02; middling 7/8 inch average 30.80.

STATE REPORT

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Heavy profit taking sales took the starch out of some Radio-Television stocks today.

Fresh strength developed in the TV group after opening losses running to around two points and most of the declines were wiped out. Toward the end of the two hours session, however, selling pressure increased and the TV's worked their way into the minus column.

Yesterday TV issues took off on a spectacular rise with advances running to an extreme of 8 3/8 points.

Elsewhere prices were trimmed over a broad front, losses piling up to a point or so.

Business was the biggest for a short session in months. Turnover for the two hours hovered around 1,300,000 shares.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Stocks, lower; TV's recoup early losses. Bonds, easy; rails in supply. Cotton, irregular; commission profit taking.

CHICAGO: Wheat, easy; rains forecast for west Kansas. Corn, mixed; deferred months steady. Oats, easy; profit-taking. Hogs, nominally steady. Cattle, nominally steady.

CURBS

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Day curb list: Cities Service 73 5/8; Electric Bond & Share 20 7/8. Humble Oil 88 3/4.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—The possibility of rain in western Kansas, where it was felt moisture could help revive the wheat crop, knocked new crop wheat deliveries down around 2 cents today. Trading was quite active at the start, but eased off later in the session.

A good deal of the selling in wheat, came from commission houses with southwestern connections. Late in the day, private reports said some moisture had been received around Goodland, Liberal and Norton in the Kansas drought area.

Wheat closed 1 8-2 1/8 lower, May $2.24 3/4-7/8, corn was 3/4 lower to 3/8 higher, May $1.37 3/4; oats were 5/8-1 1/8 lower, May 77 3/8, rye was 1/2-7/8 lower, May $1.31 3/4, soybeans were 1/2-1 3/4 lower, May $2.72 1/2-1/4, and lard was 5 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher, May $10.97.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures were iregular today with trading moderately active. During initial dealings there was some scattered demand for nearby contracts. This in part was attributed to export dealers as well as for domestic mill account. Commission houses sold new crop months as a result of a forecast of unsettled weather in western sections of the cotton belt where rains are needed. On the early advance the nearby July contract advanced into a new high for the season. Most of the late selling was said to represent profit taking for over the week end.

Futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher than the previous close.

3 Gas Producers Gauged In Union Parish Field

Three new gas yielders were gauged last week in northeast Louisiana and six other wells were plugged and abandoned, according to the conservation department's weekly oil report.

The new gas producers are located in the Monroe field of Union parish. They were listed on the report as:

The Feazel, et al, and Monroe Drilling Company's Ford No. 3 in 7-21-3E, gauged at 403 MCF.

The Northwest Company's Union C-3 in 15-21-3E, gauged at 5,286 MCF.

And the South C. C.'s Pilgreen No. 1 in 29-22-3E, gauged at 780 MCF.

Those wells abandoned were:

The Carter Oil Company's W. W. Tennant Unit No. 1 in 28-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Concordia parish.

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Co., Inc.'s F-184 and F-187, both in 5-7-3E of the Nebo Hemphill field in LaSalle parish.

R. E. King Company's Lucy Grant No. 1 in 8-16-7E of a wild cat field in Richland parish.

R. A. Stacy, et al, Melissa McKay's No. 1 in 15-16-7E in the Big Creek field in Richland parish.

The Ora Petroleum Corporation-Frost Lumber Company's No. 1 in 12-22-1W of the Ora field in Union parish.

Two new locations were sited by drillers last week. They included:

The H. W. Todd Company's Todd-Bourne No. 1 in 19-8-3E in the Trout Creek field of LaSalle parish.

The Louisiana Gas Producing Company's J. J. Potts No. 3 in 20-20-3E in the Monroe field of Union parish.

U. S. Specialists Will Try To Aid Asia's Lame Economy

TOKYO, April 15. —(AP)—American specialists will try to find ways next week of teaching Asia's lame economy to walk.

Twenty-one American officials from key points in non-Communist Asia and from Washington will confer in Tokyo on the problem in daily sessions starting Monday and continuing through Saturday.

Their aim is to develop practical methods of stimulating exchanges of goods between oriental countries which can supply one another's needs but are not adequately doing so now.

The conference is to be limited to technical matters of trade, financing and production. Members say it will not formulate policy and will avoid all political questions.

In the background, however, is the political fact that the United States already has begun a program of trying to stimulate trade among Asian nations as a bulwark against communism.

First to arrive from Washington today were Thomas C. Blaisdell, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce; and Thomas R. Wilson, director of the commerce department's area division office of international trade.

Other American officials on a working level are gathering from Japan, Korea, Formosa, Hong Kong, Indo-China, Thailand, Burma, India, Pakistan, Malaya, Indonesia and the Philippines.

It was learned that selection of Tokyo as the meeting place has no special significance. However, General MacArthur has endorsed the conference, which was first proposed by Tokyo occupation officials in 1948.

Discussions are due to start with an evaluation of trade prospects, including consideration of additional business with Communist China and other Red areas by non-Communist regions, subject to controls against leakage of strategic materials.

The conferees also will consider prospects of increasing production of food and raw and manufactured materials in Asia. Part of this parallels President Truman's "point four" program to help underdeveloped areas with equipment and technical knowledge. However, Blaisdell said the question of increasing American aid was "beyond the scope of this conference."

The Americans also will explore tariffs and other restrictions to see if there are ways of lessening their effects on trade. Means of reducing the difficulties caused by multiple currency exchange rates and similar financial bottlenecks also will be discussed.

How to increase the dollar earnings of countries that have goods to sell also is a question.

Each problem has numerous ramifications. Trade rivalries are keen, both among Asiatic neighbors and between such major western producers as Britain and the United States.

British and American interests already have come into opposition in such places as Thailand, for example. American officials want to increase Japan's purchase of Thailand rice; the British feel this might decrease the amount of Thailand's food exports to Malaya.

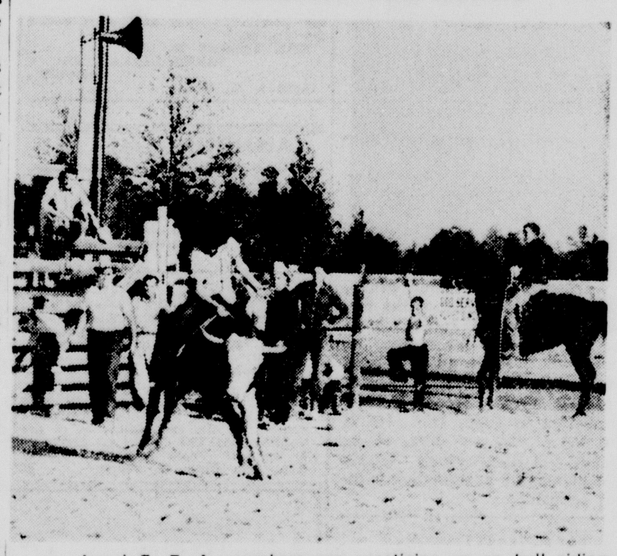

The strong nationalism of new Asiatic states frequently hobbles trade.

To avoid nationalistic repercussions, the Tokyo conference is expected to skip any detailed consideration of such explosive questions as permitting Japan to rebuild a merchant marine. This and related questions probably will be treated in a general way, however, in connection with Japan's ability to increase her exports.

American officials have expressed the belief that, even within the limits of the many obstancles to trade, there is considerable room for expansion. The Tokyo conference is intended to figure out the basic details.

During 1949 in the U. S., more robberies, burglaries and auto thefts occurred in the winter than in the summer. Larcenies were lower during the first part of the year and reached their high point in the late fall and early winter.

F. F. A. PRACTICE FOR RODEO

Local F. F. A. members are practicing up on bull riding and calf roping for the Future Farmers of America's amateur rodeo to be held at 8 p.m. Friday at Gentry's arena in West Monroe. All high school students are eligible to participate in the rodeo. It is estimated between 40 and 50 north Louisiana youths will take part in the various events.

Law Institute May Seek Changes In Constitution

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15. —(AP)—The Louisiana Law Institute will probably modify several portions of its proposed new state constitution, especially sections on the legislature, institute indicated today.

The draft was discussed publicly for the first time today. Institute council members and employes who had worked on it went over it article by article at a general membership meeting of the institute.

After final approval by the council of the institute, it will be filed as a suggestion for any constitutional convention that may be called.

Criticism centered mostly on these provisions:

A modified appointive system for judges, who under the present Constitution are elected by popular vote.

A redistricting of the state for election of state senators.

A "split session" of the legislature, with the lawmakers going home for a month before finally passing laws.

Abolition of the state property tax and of state-financed homestead exemptions, although local governments would be authorized to provide homestead exemptions if they wished.

Provisions making it more difficult to amend the Constitution.

A proposal to make the district courts in New Orleans combined criminal and civil courts, as they already are elsewhere in the state.

Several judges opposed the "Missouri plan" under which judges would be appointed by the governor from nominations made by special commissions, and thereafter would be subject to referendums as to whether they remain in office.

Judge V. M. Mouser of Columbia, president of the state association of district judges, said that he and the association believed that "judges, district judges at least, cannot be eliminated from politics."

He said he thought the Missouri plan would only "change the nature of the political pressure, limit and narrow the area of political pressure, change the blanace of power."

He said politics now did not play a great part in the selection of judges and that he felt it "a source of strength" that he was chosen by the people.

In discussions on the legislative provisions of the proposed constitution, members generally approved arrangements to distribute representation in both houses equitably throughout the state and to provide for mandatory reapportionments after each census.

But several objected to the plan for a state senate under which the state would be divided into large districts, in each of which several senators would be elected. Several expressed fear that all the senators from a district might be elected by the voters in the largest city within its borders. Institute President John Tucker of Shreveport said he would suggest that the council modify the plan so as to provide more definitely local affiliation for senators.

The proposed legislative session would consist of a 60-day meeting during which bills would be introduced and considered, then a month recess, and a final 30-day session for passage of the bills. Most speakers argued that the 30-day sitting should come first, and Tucker said he would recommend the change to the council.

The proposal to abolish the 5 3-4 mills state property tax was one of the major revenue changes described by Fred Hudson of Monroe, who took part in the drafting of the fiscal sections. Another would be the abolition of all dedicated funds, as soon as outstanding bonds were paid, so that ultimately all state money would go into a general fund and be appropriated out by the legislature.

Abolition of the property tax, Hudson explained, would eliminate the present provisions under which the first $2,000 of the value of homes is exempt, but the revenues, both to the state and to local governments, are made up out of other taxes. Hudson said the Constitution draft provided that the state, without reimbursing the parishes, would allow them to set up homestead exemption plans of their own.

But Judge Mouser and others defended homestead exemptions, and said that substitute revenues could not be raised locally.

The proposed changes in the amending procedure, requiring a larger vote both in the legislature and in the popular elections, drew opposition on the ground that the Constitution should not be inflexible.

New Orleans attorneys objected to combining the civil and criminal jurisdictions in courts there, saying that for years they had been separate and that lawyers had specialized in one or the other. New Orleans attorneys who became judges, said Charles Dunbar, would be at a disadvantage if they had to preside over both kinds of cases.

SPRING BEGINS TO BE ITSELF AGAIN

Some Cold Stings Southeast U. S., But Temperatures Climb In Plains States

By the Associated Press

Another blast of record cold stung the southeast Saturday but spring began behaving like spring in the plains states.

Temperatures rose to seasonal levels in Montana and the Dakotas. The warmup was expected to spread gradually over the entire eastern half of the country.

Forecasters said the Canadian ice box has been drained of its arctic cold, for the present at least, and that near normal temperatures should return soon to all winter weary sections.

But the chilly southeast reported these record low temperatures for this late in the season:

Miami, Fla., 51; Savannah, Ga., 34; Atlanta, Ga., 31 and Birmingham, Ala., 31. Tampa, Fla., and 46, equalling an 80 year old record, and Terre Haute, Ind., had a record low for the date of 24.

The freeze line dipped through Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and the Carolinas and into northern Georgia, Alabama and Arkansas.

The weather across the country was generally fair, except for light drizzle in West Texas and the Oklahoma Panhandle, showers in the central Rockies and Pacific northwest and snow flurries in the northern Appalachains.

Curtain Call
by Sue Williams

There are just two more weeks left until the opening date of Little Theatre's fifth play of the season. The excitingly funny comedy "The Voice of the Turtle" is past its half way mark in rehearsal and the problem of furnishing the sets has been solved. The final two weeks will be devoted to prefecting lighting effects, costumes and gathering the properties needed for production, while the cast of three, Elizabeth Lawrence, Bill Bassett and Dotsy Fountain bring their characterizations up to Director Stocker Fontelieu's high expectations.

Random notes—Director Stocker Fontelieu, leading man Bill Bassett of "The Voice of the Turtle," and Jim Reynolds were off for New Orleans on Saturday to see the New Orleans Little Theatre production of "Berkerley Square" —On Monday another group of Monroeites and Little Theatre members will leave at noon to be on hand for Jose Iturbi who will appear in concert there with with his sister Ampara Iturbi that evening. These enthusiasts include Dorothy Elmendorf, Jean Boyce, Mrs. John Sholars, Madeline Mitchell and Mary Long and they will be accompanied by Richard Castle who was a Monroe visitor over the week end, on his way back to Gulfport, Miss., where he is stationed with United Gas — Checked up to find out why we had been missing Rita Feith, faithful Little Theatre worker. She has transferred a bit of her affection and interest to baseball, now that the Monroe Sports are well underway. They beat Texarkana on Friday night and our Rita was probably giving out some lusty cheers for the right infielder—Little Theatre members look for special announcements in your mail soon about the Paramount showing of international academy award winning film "Red Shoes." This exceptional film won three awards and has only been released for road show dates. This will be its first showing at popular prices—Joe Preddy, who played Senator McKinley in the first play this season, "John Loves Mary," is giving up his role of interlocutor for the West Monroe Lions minstrels to W. M. Mitchell. The Lions annual minstrel which they have dubbed "Louisiana Minstrel" this year will be presented at O. P. H. S. for two nights on April 20 and 21. When that jovial group of Lions from West Monroe put on a show it is fun for everybody.

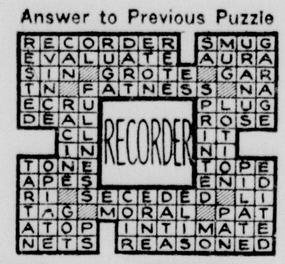

"Don't Take My Penny"—Is the intriguing title of the Neville senior play to be presented at Neville High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 25. "Don't Take My Penny," a three act comedy by Anne Coulter Martens is under the direction of speech teacher Miss Marilyn Rosenberg and has a cast of seventeen. Peggy Frantom plays the title role opposite two male leads, Ran Phillips and John Noel. Mary Agnes Rizzo has the sexy supporting feminine role. Others in the cast include Clara Munholland, Betty Maricella, Maurine Lingquist, Frances Ritter, Nell Cowart, Evelyn Steen, Clayton Campbell, Joan Roberts, Dickie Rowe, Bob Walker, Craig Whetstone, Larry Tucker and Bud Lyons. The comedy of "Don't Take My Penny" revolves around Penny who is stage struck and thinks she is going to get to play the part of a well known star, while all the time Sally, the maid, who was a child star is cleverly planted to be discovered for the coveted role. In the end Sally isn't chosen because she has fallen in love; Penny goes back to her tennis and—Gee! We forgot Director Stocker Fontelieu has always told us, threatened us and beseeched us never to give away all the secrets of a play before the audience sees it. Says he with authority, "It might spoil the full enjoyment of it."

BARKLEY URGES GUARD WITHIN

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Vice-President Barkley today called on the country to be on guard against "threats to freedom" from within and without—and said the greatest threat comes from those who "sow rumors and suspicion among us."

Speaking at the opening of the capital's 150th birthday celebration, Barkley said the external threat is formidable also. Without naming Soviet Russia, he said the country faces its "most powerful and aggressive foe" — the "counter revolution of tyranny."

He accused this foe of having a "gnawing lust for imperial power which in its magnitude of scope would have made Ceasar pale and Alexander tremble."

Meantime, a senate subcommittee prepared to resume next week its inquiry into charges by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) that the state department is riddled with communism.

PIANO CONTEST IS STATE WIDE

Shreveport Symphony Will Again Stage Competition Open To Youth

SHREVEPORT, La., April 15.—(Special)—Somewhere in Louisiana are two talented young piano players who will win the honor of concert appearances with the Shreveport Symphony orchestra next Christmas-time.

For the second year the Shreveport Symphony Society will stage a statewide piano concerto contest open to all high school and college students, it was announced by Mrs. Luther Beene, Shreveport, president of the society.

Two winners will be selected. One winner will come from high school students, a division open to boys and girls through 17 years of age, and the second winner will come from college level students, 18 through 22 years old.

Auditions will take place in Shreveport on Dec. 2, 1950 in the Centenary College music hall, and winners will play with the symphony in its annual Christmas concert Dec. 10 in the Shreveport Municipal auditorium.

Students entering the contest will be required to know the following numbers:

High School—The first movement of the Concerto in D Major, (Ganz-Schirmer edition) by Haydn; the Two-Part Invention No. 14 in B Flat, by Bach; and the Romance in F Sharp Major, Opus 28, No. 2, of Schumann.

College—Hungarian Fantasy for piano and orchestra, Liszt; Gigue from the Sixth French Suite, Bach; and Prelude in F Major, Opus 28, No. 3 of Chopin.

The contest committee is composed of: William Teague, concert organist, chairman; John Shenaut, conductor of the Shreveport Symphony; Mrs. Luther Beene; Mrs. Jean Despujols, noted artist; E. J. Hermann, music educator, and Mrs. Loy L. Beene, musician.

The following rules have been established by the committee:

1. Applications must be mailed to William Teague, 853 Cotton street, Shreveport, La., by Nov. 18, 1950, accompanied by entrance fee of $3.

3. All pieces must be played from memory; students must provide for second piano accompaniment unless contest chairman is notified in advance.

3. No former first place winner may enter the contest; entrants will be auditioned in order of receipt of applications by Mr. Teague.

CANADA MAY HAVE RAIL STRIKE TOO

Government Appointed Board Trims Wage Demands Of Union

OTTAWA, April 15. — (AP) — Union leaders replied with strike threats today after the government made public two federal conciliation board reports paring down demands of Canadian railway workers for higher wages and shorter hours.

The board's findings were repudiated by the two chief negotiators for the unions. One of them, President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employes, predicted a strike vote in his 30,000 member organization.

Both he and Frank H. Hall, of Montreal, chairman for a group of international unions, declared the majority findings of the two federal boards were "reactionary." Hall said they were certain to be rejected by employes.

The reports turned down the claims of 17 unions for outright pay increases. Instead they recommend a formula that would give about 124,000 employes a shorter work week and an hourly wage increase, but would reduce the weekly take home pay.

The only major group that would get a wage increase would be some 20,000 "back shop" employes now on a 44-hour work week. They would continue working the same hours with a higher hourly wage.

The non-operating unions, those who do not run the trains, had asked for a reduction of the work week from 48 to 40 hours, plus wage increases which the conciliators said would amount to 29 cents an hour.

PROTECTS YOUR POCKETBOOK!

RAP your fist against these stout bars—feel the gauge of the bumper stock they're made of—and you know you've got stout protection here.

But then figure:

Here are nine bumper guards (not counting the two that hold the parking lights) so that's one extra item you needn't buy.

And each is individually replaceable—if damage should occur you have only a simple part or two to replace, instead of a complete, cast-metal grille.

Thus this stunning new design—freshest front-end style note on the highways—protects your pocketbook as well as your car.

Avoids costly repair bills as it avoids "locking horns" with the car ahead. Cuts upkeep as it cuts inches from the car's total length, thus making parking and garaging easier.

What you really have here is a four-way forefront. A design that sets the coming style note—avoids many a tangle with the car ahead—makes handling easier—and costs less to repair.

And note that parking-light lenses, made of plastic and set deep in recessed sockets, are well out of harm's way—even when pushing a stalled car.

You'll find this bold front end only on Buick—as you'll find Fireball power, Dynaflow Drive,* Buick's wonderful ride, and many another headline value only on these beauties.

Why not see your dealer now for the whole story—including the happy story on prices to fit practically any budget?

SEES CONFUSION

increased costs by referring to a cartoon of President Truman representing an eight-arm Buddha. These six additional arms symbolized the so-called services, free lunches, pills, advice and others, which are being supported by a powerful group in its foolish economy. As the mighty Buddha sits in sacred state, the little American citizen, wearing worn and patched clothing, is bowing in dejected humility.

The situation depicted by the cartoon should make Americans aware of the dangers of government aids, the speaker warned.

He cited the group sponsoring such services as a prototype of the Fabian Society originating in England in 1883. It was a closely knitted organization, with never more than 400 members. But they knew what they wanted and where to go. The society chose gifted men and women who succeeded in revolutionizing economic life in England, Dr. Cox said. The Fabians were marvelous propagandists. "They were idealistic screwballs who created inefficiency in government at tremendous cost. Their theories that are reflected in the British Labor party depended upon planned compulsion."

Such ideas are permeating American life, the speaker declared. If these theories win in this country, we shall have planned compulsion in labor, education, medicine and other fields of endeavor, he said. The picture is certainly a distorted conception of real service to free people; it is an extreme contrast to democratic concepts.

Already the group of so-called Democratic leaders has made inroads into the way of life which is genuinely American. Such examples may be seen in the Brannan Plan, socialized medicine, federal aid to education and other proposed services. These aids not only will bankrupt the country but they will remove aspects of American life which are symbolic of freedom, Dr. Cox emphasized.

We must not become confused by this double talk which a group in this country is accustomed to employing to gain power, the speaker warned. When these persons speak of planning an economy to avoid depression, be sure that they are not planning an economy "which the government regulates to the detriment of American liberty."

AIR SEARCHERS

had flown over the Soviet frontier into Latvia and exchanged shots with Soviet fighters before disappearing over the Baltic.

(Reports from Washington said the U. S. government probably will reply to the Russian protest early next week, rejecting outright the Soviet charges).

An Associated Press dispatch from Moscow said it is becoming clearer all the time that, if the missing plane actually was shot down, the Russians regard this as a just punishment for what they call a violation of international law.

The official Russian News Agency Tass said the American press was trying to play down Russia's charge that an American plane fired on Soviet fighters.

The Tass dispatch also said:

"Reports that the lost aircraft was supplied with reconnaissance radar and with equipment for aerial photography and that its crew included three electronics experts are published in inconspicious places.

"The American press is also trying to obscure the fact of accusations that the 'searches' for the lost aircraft are in fact camouflages for aerial reconnaissance in the Baltic."

WILL SPEAK

Dr. Guy M. Hicks, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Shreveport, will be the principal speaker in a series of morning convocations during a three-day period of religious emphasis at Northeast Junior College. The meetings extending from Tuesday through Thursday are open to the public. The first address is scheduled at 8.55 a.m. in Brown Hall auditorium. Dr. Hicks will also be available for individual conferences and student seminars on the campus. His appearance here is being sponsored by the Interfaith Council of N. J. C.

of the local college. Both band and choral groups have been rehearsing steadily under direction of members of the . J. C. music faculty, following auditions to select those who form the one hundred voice choir and the sixty-five piece band.

Mr. Grainger will be in charge of rehearsals beginning Monday and leading up to the Wednesday concerts.

The programs are to include some of the eminent musician's own compositions and arrangements of other artists' works. These will be featured in both band and choral numbers. Other specialties scheduled are Mr. Grainger's rendition of his own piano compositions.

Along with other attractions booked for the festival is the announcement of a Steinway concert grand piano which was recently purchased by the college. The nine-foot instrument arrived last week. It was welcomed by the music department as a marked asset to the coming attraction and other programs to be given by the college as well as those by organizations which present concerts in Brown Hall.

fornia, Connecticut, Idaho, Louisiana, New Mexico, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Ohio, Maryland, Michigan, Utah, Washington, and the territory of Hawaii.

Goodwin said the programs of state and local committees vary, depending on their particular economic problems. But they generally concentrate on the finding of new products for existing markets and new markets for old products, attracting and financing new industrial plants, initiating new construction projects such as housing and public works, and cooperating with government agencies in the training and placement of workers.

While placing stress on the home town job development drive, administration officials also are taking steps here to lay the groundwork for direct federal action if the need should arise.

PLAN TO CHANGE

"is the first serious effort to set up a procedure in the foreign relations committee to get the most efficient and careful study of international problems."

Connally said he would place his reorganization plan before the full senate foreign relations committee probably Tuesday. He said there was a "good reaction" from senators who have seen the plan.

It would divide the committee into eight sub-groups to handle: United Nations affairs, European affairs, far eastern affairs, American republics affairs, near eastern and African affairs, economic and social policy affairs, public affairs, and state department organization.

In the past, the working relationship between the senate and the state department has been largely on a hit-or-miss basis in policy making matters — with no constant liaison between senators and the department.

Mrs. G. B. Wilson, state publicity chairman, Louisiana Parent Teacher Association, expresses for the entire membership of approximately 60,000 enrolled in P. T. A.:

"We are indeed happy to bring to the listening public of Louisiana and surrounding states such a personage as Roy Larsen, president and editor of Time magazine." Mr.

ROY LARSEN

Larsen will be the guest speaker at general session IV, Thursday evening, 8:00 p.m. He will use as his subject "The Citizen's Role in Public Education." The state president, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, on behalf of the entire group extends a cordial invitation to all civic organizations, church groups, educational groups and all lay people interested in public education. She says to all, "We feel that Mr. Larsen will have a message for all and we do want all to join us in hearing him."

SOLDIER

dishonorably discharged from the air force, in which he enlisted in 1948 for a three-year term.

Mueller is a native of Burma, the son of a Swiss father and an English mother. A slim, dark youth, he said yesterday that he did not know his nationality, "I must be Swiss, if anything." Today he said he probably was an American citizen.

His mother, Mrs. Edward A. James, said in St. Paul he obtained American citizenship automatically as a minor when she was granted citizenship in January, 1948. Widowed by the death of her first husband in Rangoon in 1941, she married James, an American, in Calcutta.

Mueller admitted on the witness stand he had sent the wire to Bern asking contact with a Soviet agent. He admitted stealing papers from the library of the U. S. Intelligence School in nearby Oberammergau, where he was a student. He confessed giving these papers to agents "whom I believed to be Soviets."

The agents were all Americans. They arrested him after obtaining the papers in a hotel room rendezvous in Garmisch - Partenkirschen.

"I was only trying to fool the agents all along," Mueller said. "I wanted to trap them. But they struck first. I thought they were pretty gullible for Soviet agents, but I guess I was really the gullible one."

Speaking glibly at first, tears welled up in his eyes and his voice broke as he went on with his testimony.

He said he sent the telegram to Bern "on juvenile impluse, just to see what would happen." Another service man, Cpl. Richard J. Young of San Diego, Calif., saw the message by chance in the telegraph office and put U. S. Army agents on Mueller's trail.

MANY SURPRISED

replied that regulation would be a blow at free enterprise which would so discourage gas production that the consumer would be harmed.

In sending the bill back to congress—with the observation that there is too little competition in the natural gas industry to exempt the producers from federal controls—Mr. Truman rebuffed some of his closest legislative lieutenants.

Speaker Rayburn, who comes from oil-producing Texas, had supported the Kerr Bill with one of his rare floor speeches. Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, had been numbered among its backers on the other side of the capitol.

The veto was greeted jubilantly by the bill's opponents.

Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.), one of the leaders of the senate fight against it, commented: "God bless the president."

Senator Kem (R.-Mo.), another opponent of the measure, said: "I think the president acted properly."

Connally expressed "great disappointment." Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) the bill's author, said Mr. Truman had "made a mistake," adding:

"Time will prove that the consuming areas which want and need abundant supplies of natural gas will receive less gas and at higher prices than would have been the situation if the bill had been approved.

Kerr, a wealthy oilman, delivered the keynote address at the 1944 Democratic convention which nominated Mr. Truman as running for the late President Roosevelt.

Kerr's statement summed up the main argument of those who had urged congressional passage and presidential approval of the measure.

Its opponents had shouted during the debate that if the bill were passed the consumers would soon feel the effect in their pocketbooks.

In the house, which passed the bill by a 176 to 174 vote, Representative Dingell (D.-Mich.) had cried out:

"Horse thieves have been hanged for lesser crimes!"

But Rayburn took the floor to say that he didn't think his record showed any desire to serve the special interests over the people. "In my opinion," he said, "this bill will not raise the price of natural gas by one red cent."

At his home in Bonham, Tex., Rayburn declined comment on the presidential veto. "I will see the president Tuesday," he said, "and may have something to say after that."

In his veto message, Mr. Truman said the nature of the product makes it vital for the federal power commission to have authority to regulate sales of natural gas by independent producers—which supply over 80 per cent of all gas produced.

The president referred to the "inherent characteristics of the process of moving gas from the field to the consumer," and went on:

"Unlike purchasers of coal and oil, purchasers of natural gas cannot easily move from one producer to another in search of lower prices.

"Natural gas is transported to consumers by pipeline, and is distributed in a given consumer market by a single company."

Annual Convention Of L. E. A. Scheduled Here

HAMMOND, La., April 15.—(AP)—The annual convention of the Louisiana Education Association will be held in Monroe during November.

The decision was made today at a meeting of the Lea Executive committee here.

Executive committeemen also considered proposals for inclusion in the association's legislative program and made initial plans for a series of leadership conferences for teachers throughout the state.

caped Genial Joe Washburn who lavishes much time and affection on this timepiece, his joy and pride, which he terms with affection "As Time Goes On." But ultimately the glum mood caused the clock "to lose face" and then everyone knew there was trouble brewing. And then a "face lifting" was needed for this timekeeper and is still in progress. May be some days before normal is restored in the rejuvenating process.

It is wonderful how many people in Monroe work and play and keep appointments with the aid of this clock. When it goes off the beam, it well nigh upsets all downtown Monroe. These people now hope it wont be too long to wait for correct time once more.

Fridays continue to hold sway in the family of Mrs. Laura Lutrell of West Monroe. Her son, Claude A. Lutrell will sail for home after 27 months in Japan on a Friday and is due here about May 1. If delayed it will probably make arrival time another Friday in his life. The boy's grandmother died on a Friday. His mother and father married on Friday and the latter died on a Friday. Both Claude and his brother were born on a Friday and he sailed for Japan on Friday. He was also graduated from Okaloosa High School on a Friday in 1947.

Here is a laugh relayed through the Associated Press from Miami, Fla, thus: "A jackass flew from Miami to Kingston, Jamaica today.

"Nothing personal you will understand.

"The jackass was Kentucky Colonel, a sturdy 1,100 pound specimen from the bluegrass country.

"He made the trip aboard a Pan-Amercian airways cargo clipper, traveling the 589 miles in about three hours.

"It was believed to be the first international air trip ever made by a jackass—human beings not included, of course.

Kentucky Colonel was sold by owner Henry Grady of Versailles, Ky. to the Jamaican department of agriculture for $1,500. The Jack will be available at stud for mule breeders on the British island.

'He was Champion Jack at the 1948 Kentucky state fair and placed second in the 1947 Tennessee state fair.

"Kentucky Colonel was happy about the whole thing. His only comment was "hee haw!"

Delta Rho Delta National Business Women's sorority will have an old-fashioned chicken-spaghetti supper Saturday night, April 22 at the Missouri Pacific booster hall. Supper will be served between the hours of 5:30 and 8:00 p.m.

For those who do not care to have chicken there will be meat balls and spaghetti, as well as the salad, pie and coffee served.

Miss Freeda Mickel and her committee have worked out a plan whereby those who would like to have their lunch delivered to them between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, April 22 can call her at phone number 9797 and she will see to the delivery of the plates.

The tickets may be obtained from members of the sorority, or by calling number 9797 for reservations.

WASHINGTON

the first cornerstone of the federal city was set in place in what is now a part of Alexandria, Va., just across the Potomac river from Washington. (At one time, the District of Columbia included a portion of Virginia. It no longer does.)

Today's ceremonies featured a parade of stars from stage, screen, opera and radio in a two-hour program built around the Goddess of Freedom, whose statue surmounts the capitol dome.

The statue has been chosen as the emblem of the sesquicentennial.

Operatic Soprano Gladys Swarthout appeared as the goddess, clad in a $2,000 silver lame gown patterned after the one worn by the statue.

A battery of cannon fired a 35-gun salute similar to that which marked the unveiling of the capital statue on Dec. 2, 1863.

A 300-voice chorus of students from Washington's six universities sang "America the Beautiful," and there were sketches featuring such persons as Film Actors George Murphy and Edward Arnold.

The day's events were to conclude with an evening fireworks display on the Washington monument grounds.

Plans for the anniversary celebration have been underway for months. The sesquicentennial commission figures the cost of the project will come to almost $18,000,000, but the freedom fair is expected to bring in about $21,000,000. The profit will go to the government.

Congress appropriated $3,000,000 to start the ball rolling. The commission hopes to launch the fair — originally scheduled to start thus July 4 — by April 15, 1951. All the states and territories and some 40 foreign nations are expected to participate.

There also has been talk of continuing the fair as a permanent international trade exposition after the sesquicentennial celebration is over.

Among the projected buildings are Freedom House, containing a display of historic documents, and a combined federal building and hall of states, housing exhibits on congress, the federal government and the states.

There also will be a trio of industry-labor buildings, constructed in the form of the letters U. S. A.

RAILROAD UNIONS

would come of the conferences.

A union spokesman here said that the unions, totalling 200,000 men, were preparing strike plans. They have exhausted all the preliminary steps provided in the railroad labor act, including mediation, arbitration, and presidential emergency fact finding boards.

A strike has been authorized by the membership of the two brotherhoods. Committees now may call for a strike at any hour.

The committee also will decide whether to call out all members on all big railroads or to shut down one or two major lines at a time. The latter strategy might avoid government seizure.

In 1946 and 1948, when nationwide railroad strikes were imminent, the government moved in. The engineers and the brotherhood of railroad trainmen actuany struck for 48 hours in 1946.

Two years later, Johnston, Robertson and the switchmen's union were about to stage a nationwide walkout when President Truman obtained an injunction. The unions had refused to call off their strike when the army took over operations.

The dispute over replacement of crew members when railroads shifted from coal-burning locomotives to oil-fueled Diesel engines is 13 years old.

In 1943 a presidential fact finding board refused to recommend a third man in the locomotive, but the board said if there should be more than an engineer and fireman the extra man should be a fireman.

In 1948, another presidential board tackled the problem and recommended against the third man, rejecting the union contention that safety requires it.

Be Your Own Landlord
Why pay rent and put up with an inconvenient house?
You can own a well planned two-bedroom house with hardwood floors, inlaid linoleum, weatherstripped windows, floor furnace and AN ALL METAL YOUNGSTOWN KITCHEN.
Put your rent dollars to work for you and end up owning your own home instead of a drawer full of rent receipts.
When you can own a modern, up-to-the-minute home with all the conveniences you've always dreamed of.
And you can own all this—on a lot of your choice—for less than you now pay rent. Your down payment will be very small . . . . in most cases $500 covers EVERYTHING!
Come in and let us show you how easy it is to pay rent to yourself.

BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Nell Terry McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry McCormick, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Lloyd Frederick Church, is announced today.

LINDA GRACE TUGWELL WEDS EDWARD STOUT, JR. IN FARMERVILLE

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity was that of Miss Linda Grace Tugwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Metz R. Tugwell of Farmerville, and Mr. Edward Stout, Junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stout of Mansfield.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, April 8th, at the home of the bride's parents, with Reverand Luther B. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating in the presence of the families and a few close friends.

The nuptial vows were exchanged before an improvised arched altar of lacy fern, studded with white lilies. Myriads of gleaming white cathedral tapers in branched wrought-iron candelabra, intwined with fern, gave an impressive note. Easter lilies in classic containers were placed at vantage points throughout the reception suite.

Mrs. Frank Yelton, pianist, rendered pre-nuptial music. During the lighting of the candles by Mr. Jay C. Philippi, of Henderson, Texas, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. Charles D. Day of Gilliam, she played "Intermezzo."

Mrs. Yelton also accompanied Mr. C. B. Green of El Dorado, Arkansas, who sang "Desert Song" and "I Love Thee." "Clair de Lune" was softly played during the ceremony. At the first strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March" the members of the bridal party entered.

The maid of honor, Miss Mignonne Henry of Winnsboro, aunt of the bride, wore a becoming gown of ice blue summer satin with V neckline and ripples on either side of the skirt forming a bustle effect at the back. For headdress, she wore a pink satin halo with short veil attached. She carried an arm bouquet of pink calla lilies, tufted with lacelon and tied with pink satin ribbon.

Miss Lita Merle Tugwell served her sister as junior bridesmaid. She wore a beautiful blue silk net gown with a full gathered skirt and a wide sash forming a bustle. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses with narrow satin streamers. Her headdress was a replica of the maid's of honor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in a floor length bridal gown of white marquisette over taffeta. The tight fitting shirred bodice was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, and a shoulder cape. The right side of the skirt and cape held scattered lace medallions caught with tiny rhinestones. Her lovely finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her mitts were of matching material. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white gardenias and while yellow-throated orchids, tufted with lacelon. The age old tradition of wearing something old new, borrowed, blue and a penny in her shoe was carried out. The something old was a lace-point handkerchief belonging to the bridegroom's great grandmother.

The groom was attended by his father Mr. Edward Stout, as his best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tugwell chose a navy crepe model with touches of white nylon. Her corsage was of white gardenias. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in black chiffon with a deep lace yoke, and a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table, overlaid with handsome blue satin damask, was centered with an oblong reflector, encircled by sweetheart roses, upon which the bride's bouquet was placed. At one end of the table was a huge four tiered wedding cake, beautifully embossed with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom standing beneath an arch and wedding bells.

The bride assisted by the groom cut the first piece of cake, after which Mrs. Jay C. Philippi of Henderson, Texas, sister of the groom and Mrs. Leon Moore of Risin, Arkansas, aunt of the bride, served the cake to the guests. Miss Sunshine Allen poured punch from a crystal bowl, encircled by sweetheart roses, placed at the opposite end of the table. Silver compotes of bridal mints were placed along the board. White tapers in silver candelabra and a low silver bowl of Easter lilies graced the buffet. A large number of guests called during the reception. Mrs. Kenneth Brantley presided at the register, on which had been placed the junior bridesmaid's nosegay.

Miss Bettye Christian, Miss Eugenia Hastings and Miss Arlo Jo Knause of Shreveport, and Miss Mary Nell Thrasher of Arcadia, invited the guests to view the lavish display of gifts, placed on tables, draped in pink, cascaded with French tricotine, caught at regular intervals with valley lilies. Mrs. C. H. Gulley, Jr., of Marion, Miss Jo Towler and Miss Margaret Dalton of Shreveport, Mrs. Johnny Harston, Mrs. Bill Rainwater and Miss Johnnie Nell Kilpatrick of Farmerville assisted in extending courtesies. When the couple left later for a wedding trip along the Gulf coast, the bride was wearing a navy gabardine suit and frilly blouse. The single-breasted coat had a soft turn-back collar, with self covered buttons. Her close fitting chamois hat was trimmed in flowers in shades of pink and a dash of green blended in the becoming veil. Chamois gloves matching the hat, navy leather bag and shoes completed her costume. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet.

After their trip, they will be at home in Shreveport, 1645 Claiborne. The bride attended the University of Colorado and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where she is a member of Kappa Delta sorority. The bridegroom is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and is in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Tiny Boy's Body Found In Gutter, He's Only Asleep

BERKELEY, Calif., April 15.—(AP)—The prone body of a tiny boy lay beside his battered tricycle in a gutter here.

Passerby Edward Koehn got no response when he shook the lad. An emergency call brought police and fire departments screaming to the scene. A search for a hit-run driver was broadcast.

Then there was a stir as Patrolman John McCahn stopped to pick up the limp figure.

"I want my mother," screamed the very much alive little boy.

Mrs. Mary Bertolani, the mother, eventually explained that four-year-old Tommy had missed his nap and was just catching up beside the street.

Cattle are especially fond of yellow poplar, white ash and black locust shoots.

ENGAGED

Miss Wadel Elias whose engagement and approaching marriage to Paul Abide, son of Mrs. Melheim Abide and the late George Abide of Greenville, Mississippi, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elias. The wedding will take place in May.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF MEDICAL SOCIETY HAVE LUNCHEON

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society met for luncheon on Thursday, April 13, 1950, with Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. B. J. LaCour, Mrs. Charles M. Lobrano and Mrs. James W. Schonlau as hostesses. The U-shaped table was beautifully decorated with iris and other spring flowers.

Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr. told the thrilling story of the life of Jane Todd Crowell and her brave contribution to surgery. Mrs. A. G. McHenry discussed a most interesting article on X-ray from the magazine, Today's Health, formerly known as Hygeia magazine. The auxiliary voted to send a donation to the American Red Cross. Mrs. A. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. A. G. McHenry and Mrs. Alfred Brin were appointed delegates to the state auxiliary convention at Baton Rouge to be hled later this month.

The following members and guest were present: Mrs. Fred A. Marx, Mrs. C. M. Lobrano, Mrs. W. Harrell Webster, Mrs. J. D. Ten Eyck, Mrs. W. Miss Agnes Terrell Clegg Weds Lt. Wm. F. Trischmann, Jr.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Terrell Clegg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clegg, of San Antonio, Texas, and Lt. William Frederick Trieschmann, Jr., son of Mrs. William Frederick Trieschmann and the late Mr. Trieschmann of Lake Providence, La., was soleminized Friday evening, March 31 at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in San Antonio.

The Rev. Harold Gosnell officiated, and C. G. Bullitt, soloist, was accompanied by Walter Dunham, who played the nuptial music.

Mrs. William Clegg, Jr., attended as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Anne Schuchard and Miss Joan McKnight of Dallas. Miss Anne McKnight of Dallas was junior bridesmaids.

King Trieschmann of Lake Providence served as his brothers best man and groomsmen included George Trieschmann of Lake Providence, Lt. Jack Hommack of Hollendale, Miss., and C. A. Voelker of Alexander, La.

Assisting as ushers were William Clegg, Jr., Marshall Clegg of San Antonio and Lt. Harry Baumgartner of Owen, Ky.

The bride's gown was of nylon tulle designed with a square neckline on the ruffled bodice and a cascade of nylon ruffles on the skirt that extended into a sweeping train. A satin cummerbund circled her waist, and she carried an elongated shower bouquet of white orchids surrounded by white hyacinths, tulle and ribbon. Her fingertip veil of illusiin fell from a tiny ruffled halo caught with lilies of the vally. For something old she wore a diamond sunburst, heirloom gift from her grandmother.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Clegg was gowned in champage lace over matching satin. The skirt was ballerina length and her shoes and small tulle hat were in the same champagne shade.

Mrs. Trieschmann wore a cocktail length gown of lilac lace over lilac satin. Her off-the-face hat was of a darker shade of lilac taffeta and her corsage was an orchid.

Immediately following the ceremoney a reception was held at the San Antonio Country Club with Mrs. Edward Sparrow Voelker of Alexandria, cutting and serving the groom's cake, and Mrs. Joseph White, Mrs. Harold Gosnell, Mrs. Robert Ayres, Mrs. Ernest Schuchard, Mrs. Tod Menefee, Mrs. R. W. Mickler, Mrs. Robert Briggs, Mrs. Ralph Lehr, Mrs. John E. Hillburn, Mrs. Creston King, Mrs. Creston King, Mrs. Glen Jamison, Mrs. Quest Couch and Miss Barbara Blair assisting in the courtesies of receiving and serving.

'AROUND THE COLOR WHEEL' WILL BE EVENT OF APRIL 20

A record attendance is anticipated at the second annual spring garden show now being planned for Thursday, April 20, 1950. The hours have been set for 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. The evening hours will especially accomodate husbands, who usually do most of the garden work, and now will be able to see the results of their labors.

All other garden clubs, including the Twin Cities and outlying cities, are urged to attend. We want their friendly criticism as well as their praise! All guests will be invited to register.

The youths' center is a perfect setting for such a show as is being planned. The spacious rooms are so arranged to accomodate each division of the arrangements.

The garden show will take the place of the regular club meeting for the month of April. Each member is urged to participate by bringing both flower arrangements and horticultural exhibits. Sweepstakes award will be given to the winner of most blue ribbons.

"Around the Color Wheel" promises to be a perfect title for this colorful show. The schedule has been arranged as follows:

Arrangement division: Class 1. Line — accessories permitted. "A" cool colors, "B" warm colors; Class 2. Ecclesiastical. (These to be inspirations for decorating our churches.); Class 3. Mass. "A" green predominating, "B" polychromatic; Class 4. Fruits and (or) vegetables; Class 5. Coffee table. "A" shades of one color, "B" contrasting colors; Class 6. Rosy past (using an antique container with arrangement suitable to the container); Class 7. Your Own Idea (open to husband or children of members); Class 8. Gay Colors. "A" arrangement not to exceed three inches, "B" arrangement is from three to eight inches; Class 9. Corsages. "A" formal, "B" informal; (1) shoulder, (2) wrist, (3) necklace, (4) hair.

Junior Division: Class 1. Dish Garden; Class 2. An arrangement not to exceed twenty inches.

Horticultural Division: Class 1. Roses "A" hybrid teas, "B" any other kind of rose bush, "C" climbing roses. One specimen bloom or spray, "C" not to exceed two feet; Class 2. Iris, one stalk. "A" bearded, "B" native, "C" Dutch; Class 3. Annuals and plants grown as such. Three of one variety; Class 4. Perennials; Class 5. Potted plants. "A" Cacti; (1) specimen, (2) collection, "B" Other Succulents; (1) specimen, (2) collection, "C" Foliage plant, "D" flowering plant; Class 6. Bulbs Amaryllis, etc.); Class 7. Shrub (Spray 2 to 4 feet long); Class 8. What Have You? (open to any member of the family); Class 9. Vegetables.

All potted plants must have been in the owner's possession for at least three months. Members are asked to place their exhibits between 9:00 and 11:30 a.m., and not to remove them until after 8:00 p.m.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, president of the club, and the schedule committee; Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John Lewis, and Mrs. Norman Jardine, have worked hard and diligently to make their share in the show a success. Other committees already at work on their appointed tasks are as follows: Staging, Mrs. B. E. Gambrell, Mrs. Norman Jardine, Mrs. G. M. Gleason, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. T. S. Mangham, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. J. H. Scogin, Mrs., T. D. Pickens, Mrs. C. C. Luckey, Mrs. B. H. Nelson, Mrs. Gus Swayze, and Mrs Joe Williamons. Entry committee, Mrs. C. A. T. Johnson, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. W. R. Gates, and Mrs. R. R. Piggott. Classification - arrangements; Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. Carey Holmes, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Mrs. H. G. Thompson. Awards Mrs. M. W. Montgomery. Juniors; Mrs. J. F. Stone, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. Wesley Walter. Judging; Mrs. Carey Holmes and Mrs. I. W. Rogers. Ways and Means; Mrs. E. C. Cobb. Clean-up; Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John Lewis, and Mrs. Norman Jardine.

On hand to greet the visitors will be: Mrs. Jewell McQuiller, Mrs. O. R. Braur, Mrs. W. B. Whelis, Mrs., W. M. Reynolds, Mrs. Norman Jardine, Mrs. A. R. Butler, Mrs. Walter Fisher, and Mrs. W. L. Mitchell.

St. Paschal's Altar Society Meets

The St. Paschal's Altar Society met Wednesday, April 12th, in the home of Mrs. Gaston DeCuir, 404 Park avenue, West Monroe, La.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. R. C. Martiniz, Mrs. Mary James, Mrs. L. W. Kessler, Mrs. B. W. Flett, Mrs. W. W. Franks, Mrs. Gaston DeCuir, Mrs. Francella Be-Doit, Mrs. Tony Zurga and Mrs. Bob Swan.

Chapter V, P. E. O. Have April Meeting

Chapter V, P. E. O., met Monday, April 10, in the home of Mrs. A. P. Curty, Jr. with Mrs. D. G. Kiper co-hostess.

Monthly reports were given by the corresponding secretary and the treasurer during the business meeting. The year book committee presented a tentative program for the coming year, which was discussed and accepted by the organization.

A guest, Mr. Ralph Howell, was introduced. Mrs. Howell is the mother of Mrs. B. R. Simpson, Jr., local president, and is a member of Chapter A0, P. E. O., in Fairbury, Nebraska. Mrs. Howell gave an interesting impromtu discussion of P. E. O. to the members present.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments to: Mrs. M. B. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. J. F. Curry, Mrs. F. C Eason, Jr., Mrs. J. H. Lamb, Mre., W. C. Scott, Mrs., B. R. Simpson, Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Howell and Mrs. R. T. Farr, guests.

DELTA RHO DELTA SORORITY TELLS OF SOCIAL SERVICE ACTIVITIES

Delta Rho Delta National Sorority is one of the largest Greek letter sororities for business and professional women and is affiliated with the Federated Women's Clubs.

The aim of Delta Rho Delta is "the intellectual, social and cultural betterment of the business and professional woman and the cultivation of lasting friendship.

The sorority has a definite social service program through which the members realize the supreme satisfaction of giving aid to those less fortunate. The local chapter of Delta Rho Delta has a year-round program of community activity which is conducted by the members on a volunteer basis. All money raised by the local chapter is used in carrying out the social service activities.

Each chapter of Delta Rho Delta chooses its own local welfare projects. Sigma chapter lists its "first" in its social service activities as the "Scholarship Loan Fund." The Scholarship Loan Fund is an educational fund for deserving young women who might not otherwise be able to attend college. This was accepted as the main activity of Sigma chapter two years ago and since that time they have continued with this educational fund.

An emergency fund is maintained annually for families desperately in need of food or clothing.

From September until June the sorority members are busily engaged with social service projects. During the 1949 emergency polio drive and 1950 polio drive sorority members contributed several thousand hours of work in aiding the drive, and the big gift contributions of which they were in charge.

Through a local welfare agency, the sorority learned of a needy family and were instrumental in making a happy Christmas for this family of five where gifts of food and clothing were given them.

Every month of this year, throughout the cancer drive, Red Cross Drive, Salvation Army drive and Community Chest drive, sorority members were serving as the heads of committees or doing canvassing, helping at the office or going from door to door wherever they were most needed.

They delivered "Heart" banks to every store and shop north of DeSiard street and assisted with the Ted Mack Original Old Gold Amateur Show which was given for the benefit of the American Heart Association.

The sorority also furnished teams to promote the Monroe Civic Music Association in Monroe.

One of the features of the sorority is the summer vacation tour which it helps arrange for its members and guests. Some of the most interesting sight seeing spots in Colorado, Utah, Mexico and Arizona were arranged for sorority members by the tour guides last year. These vacation trips are arranged in order that the young women in the various chapters in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana will get acquainted with each other and learn of the work that is being carried on by Delta Rho Delta; and too, as a means of rest and relaxation from the work and noise of city life.

Membership in Delta Rho Delta is open, by invitation only, to those whose cultural, social and spiritual desires would naturally be in keeping with the high aims of the sorority.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

"The Easter Parade" and "Here Comes Peter Cottontail" may be out of style this week but the melody lingers on in that we have several notes on Easter doing that occurred after this column went to press last week. Troop 41, Brownies, Mrs. Norman Coon leader, dyed some eggs in beautiful Easter colors and then took them to patients in the children's ward of the Charity Hospital. Troop 19, Brownies, Mrs. O. B. Copeland, leader, was entertained with a lovely Easter party and egg hunt by Mrs. C. E. Wart. Troop, 15 Intermediate, Mrs. Clifton Flinn leader had an Easter egg hunt at the home of Mrs. T. H. Scott. Jane Williams was the lucky winner. After refreshments, members of the troop took advantage of this get-together to do a community service—this is, they wrapped gifts that were typical of Louisiana for the Monroe Kiwanis Club who then sent them as a neighborly gesture to the Salisbury, North Carolina, Kiwanis Club.

Troop 31, Intermediate, Mrs. Adron Eady, leader, has completed work on its sewing badge. The project was to make an apron, and in making their aprons, these eleven year olds learned to cut from a pattern, make different kinds of seams, and each one took a turn working a button hole. They did their machine stitching at the Red Cross room, by the way. Each member has also outfitted a sewing kit for her own use. Now they are starting work on their first aid badges, which just goes to prove that there's always something for a Girl Scout to do. But it's not all work and no play, for Mrs. Roy Riser recently had a surprise party for this troop on her daughter Martha's birthday, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Troop 27, Intermedite, Mrs. N. L. Huckabee leader, invited Troop 7, Brownies and Troops 21, 28 and 26 Intermediates to be their guests at a skating party at Skateland last week. All in all there were 60 girls there. Cold drinks and the skates were a treat "on the house". And believe you me, they had a grand time! Troop 27 has just completed four different musician badges!

Miss Annis Klie, our executive director amazed a group of Intermediate leaders the other day by baking biscuits to a "perfect turn" on an outdoor reflector oven. It is hard to believe that a contraption of five cookie sheets and ten bolts could be used in front of an open fire to cook as quickly and as efficiently as in a gas stove. Our director also showed how baking can be done with a pie tin in a water bucket, a tin can with the lid, or, for one biscuit, even in a tin cup. It's the reflected heat that does it, she says. Must try it. And to add the perfect touch, Miss Klie even produced a jar of jam to go with the hot biscuits, which didn't make a soul unhappy! Very tasty, we'd say!

MISS BETTY HALE BRIDE OF ROSS E. McDADE III

Lovely April Bride Is Married To Corpus Christi Man Here

Marriage Of Popular Young Couple Takes Place At First Methodist Church

One of the loveliest weddings of the Easter season was that of Miss Betty Ruth Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Hale, when she became the bride of Ross E. McDade III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. McDade, Jr. of Corpus Christi, Texas.

The marriage was solemnized at the First Methodist Church April 8 at 7:30 in the evening with the Rev. A. M. Serex, pastor, officiating.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring service before the altar which was beautifully decorated with fern and calla lilies. The chancel rail was decorated in greenery of airy fern and standards of calla lilies. Branched candelabra held a myriad of slender white cathedral tapers. Reserved pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Everette Zeigler, organist, played several selections and accompanied Mrs. Robert Wood as she sang "Because" and "Through the Years". The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and the end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in her wedding gown of imported Chantilly lace and satin, fashioned with a deep set yoke of lace appliqued on nylon and embroidered with seed pearls. The long Chantilly lace sleeves, coming to points over her hands, were fastened with covered buttons, which also adorned the back of the laced bodice. The full skirt extended into a chapel-length train.

Her veil of fingertip length was of imported silk illusion, and fell from a coronet embroidered with seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible topped with a single white orchid with stephanotis and cascade streamers of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Ray Haines, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor and Mrs. Garland Hammons, sister of the bride, Mrs. W. L. Husted, Mrs. Robert Carter, Miss Sara Garrison of Shreveport and Miss Betty McDade, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of embroidered white organd, redingotes over yellow taffeta slips. Their mittens were organdy with yellow cuffs and were wearing white organdy bonnets with yellow bows in back. They were carrying bouquets of yellow tulips.

Mr. Ross E. McDade, Jr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Jack Martin, Clairborne Cook, Kenneth White of Shreveport, Billy Post and James Fortner of Tallulah.

Mrs. Hale, mother of the bride, wore a dustry rose gown with a corsage of baby pink orchids. Mrs. McDade wore a gown of grey chiffon with lace over a dusty rose slip. Her corsage was violets.

Reception

Fern and white tulips centered the bride's table at the reception held at the Frances Hotel. Fresh natural white tulips decorated the wedding cake.

Guests were received by the bride and bridegroom, parents of the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

Tea girls were Miss Joy Harper, Mrs. Reggie Boulware, Miss Caroline Richard, Miss Carolyn Apperson, Miss Bobbie Pipes and Miss Gail Stewart. Mrs. Frank Gordon and Mrs. A. R. Holloway served the cake while Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mrs. J. I. Mengis presided at the guest book.

For her wedding trip to Galveston, the bride was wearing a navy Eton suit with white blouse and accessories of navy. Her corsage was the single white orchid.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School, Breneau College in Gainsville, Georgia, Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University where she was a member of Tri-Delts. She is also a member of Delta Beta Sigma Sorority and the Junior Charity League. The groom attended the University of Texas and a graduate of Louisiana State University where he was a member of Kappa Alpha.

Out-Of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Paul May and daughter Marilyn, Camden, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roemer, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Sharp, Mr. James McGonagill, Miss Ann Stone, Miss Sara Garrison, Mr. Kenneth White, Mr. Claibourne Cook, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McDade, Sr., Mrs. John L. Hutchins, Charlie and Helena Hutchins, McDade; Mr. Ed Raines, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. McDade, Jr. and Tommy, Bill and Betty McDade, Corpus Christi, Texas; Mrs. Lee Ineichen, Linda and Lee Ineichen, Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McVay, Opelousas; Mrs. Walter Hitesman, Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen, Meridian, Mississippi; and Mr. James Fortner and Billy Post, Tallulah.

Rehearsal Party

Mrs. H. Mickel, Mrs. A. R. Holloway and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Husted, Jr. were hosts honoring the bridal party of the Hale-McDade wedding following the rehearsal at the First Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Mickel.

Centering the dining table was white aster and white stock with silver candelabra holding tall white tapers placed at each end of the table.

At this time the bride and groom presented the members of the bridal party with gifts. Betty presented her attendants with coffee spoons in her chosen pattern with the inscription, "Ross and Betty", and the date of the wedding. Ross presented his attendants with cigarette lighters.

Guests were parents of the bride and groom, members of the bridal party and Mrs. Bridger Thormhill, Mrs. Margarite Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Serex.

Church-McCormick

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry McCormick announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nell Terry, to Mr. Lloyd Frederick Church, son of Mr. Edgar L. Church and the late Mrs. Church of this city.

The wedding will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Island drive the latter part of May.

MISS ANN REESE IS BRIDE OF DR. SYLVESTER HARRIS M'DONNIEAL, JR.

Of interest to friends in north Louisiana and Mississippi was the marriage, Saturday, April 8, 1950, at the First Baptist Church in Ruston, of Miss Ann Reese, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Leslie Reese, and the late Dean Reese, to Dr. Sylvester Harris McDonnieal, Jr., of Lucedale, Miss., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McDonnieal, of Summerland, Miss.

The double-ring ceremony took place at 7 o'clock in the evening with the Rev. G. Avery Lee as officiating minister. Garlands of smilax, on a white background, linked artistic arrangements of Easter lilies which were interspersed with burning tapers. The altar was marked by arched candlelabra, flanked on either side by smaller arches of candles. Adorning the choir loft were stately standards of greenery. On the steps, leading to the place of ceremony, were feathery palms and chains of white silk rope which accentuated the path of the bridal party.

At the organ Mrs. Stella Kidd played a medley of prenuptial music as guests were seated. Mr. Lavan Robinson sang "Oh, Perfect Love" and "At Dawning". During the ceremony "Call Me Thine Own" was played softly, and for the closing prayer, Mr. Robinson sang "I Love Thee" by Beethovan. The traditional wedding march marked the beginning and end of the service.

Prior to the ceremony, the candles were lighted by Mrs. J. M. Powell, Jr., of Baton Rouge, and Miss Betty Carolyn McDonnieal of Summerland, Miss., sisters of the groom, both of whom were gowned in American Beauty red with matching Juliet caps. The dresses of nylon marquisette over taffeta, were styled with fitted basque waists, and full bouffant skirts. The deep-portrait neckline ended in a half-bow on the left side, which was attached with tiny covered buttons extending to the waistline.

When the tapers were lighted the candlelighters remained at the altar to become a part of the picturesque bridal party. Next entered the bridesmaids who were Miss Madolyn Osborne, El Dorado, Arkansas; Mrs. Lester O. Bennett, Bastrop, La.; Miss Willodean McDonnieal, Laurel, Miss., sister of the groom; and Miss Carolyn Reese, of Jonesboro, Arkansas, cousin of the bride. The bride's sister, Miss Raye Ellen Reese, served as Junior bridesmaid, and Mrs. George W. Bond, of Ruston, as matron-of-honor. All the attendants wore white dresses identical in design to those of the candlelighters, and carried cascade bouquets of American Beauty red with white streamers.

The bride was given in marriage by Dr. George W. Bond, close friend of the family. Her gown of bridal satin was fashioned with a stand-up Empress collar forming a V-neck in front, and ending in a row of tiny covered buttons that extended below the waist line of the long-fitting bodice. Covered buttons also fastened the long sleeves which tapered to graceful points over the hands. The full skirt fell into a fan-shaped train. Her Juliet cap of bridal satin held a two-tiered veil of illusion, caught in the back by dainty orange blossoms. The veil, outlined in Chantilly lace, was worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day, and she also carried her mother's wedding handkerchief. Her bouquet was of lillies-of-the-valley, centered with a white orchid, and fell in a deep cascade with satin streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man, and ushers were J. M. Powell, Jr., Baton Rouge, La.; H. R. Chism, Haynesville, La.; Dr. Barney L. Chappell, Jr., Lufkin, Texas; and Dr. Samuel B. Johnson, of New Orleans.

Mrs. Reese wore for her daughter's wedding a grey lace gown with pink accessories. Mrs. McDonnieal wore an acqua crepe gown. Both wore corsages of pink.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where floral arrangements of Easter lillies adorned the reception rooms. Receiving with the bridal party were Mrs. Reese and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McDonnieal, Sr.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Barney L. Chappell, Jr. of Lufkin, Texas, cousin of the bride, assisting in the dining room and throughout the house were Mrs. K. L. Peters, of Jonesboro, Ark. aunt of the bride, Miss Lela Tomlinson, Natchitoches, La., Mrs. Annie Mae Bradley, Miss Lillian Talbot, Mrs. B. H. Talbot, and Mrs. R. L. Watt.

The bride's table was laid with a cutwork cloth, and held the bride's bouquet which she placed in the center, and behind which burned white tapers. On one end of the table was a three-tiered oblong cake, embossed with lillies of the valley, wedding bells, and roses. It was topped with a replica of the bride's bouquet in icing. On the other end of the table was a crystal punch bowl surrounded by fern.

For traveling the bride chose navy faille with dainty organdy blouse and bolero jacket. Her hat was of white milan straw, and she carried navy and white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip to Florida, Dr. and Mrs. McDonnieal will be at home in Lucedale, Mississippi.

Mrs. McDonnieal is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, where she affiliated with Theta Upsilon sorority, and where she was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities". She recently completed her internship in Medical Technology at Charity Hospital of Louisiana in New Orleans.

Dr. McDonnieal is a graduate of Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss., Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.; and Tulane Medical School, New Orleans, where he was affiliated with Theta Kappa Psi medical fraternity, and was a member of medical society.

Kappa Delta Sorority Alumnae Have Dinner Party

Emphasizing the sorority colors, an attractive arrangement of green and white spring flowers in a green pottery bowl centered the table at the Kappa Delta Alumnae dinner party Wednesday night.

Mrs. Vann L. Pratt and Mrs. George W. Levert were in charge of arrangements for the event. Mrs. Jack Taylor read an interesting letter from the national vice-president and plans were made for future social activities.

Introduced as special out-of-town guests were Mrs. James D. Brown of Philadelphia, the former Carolyn Oliver who was a popular member of the Kappa Delta chapter at Louisiana State University, and Mrs. Robert S. Page of Roanoke, Virginia who is presently the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harold P. Kyle.

Others present included: Mrs. Amos Shelton, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove, Mrs. Robert Farr, Mrs. Carter Ackel, Mrs. Don Kiper, Miss Betty Rinehart, Mrs. Bryce Wilhite, Mrs. W. C. Cookston, Jr., Miss Florence Fluker, Miss Magdalen Amman, Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mrs. Harold P. Kyle, Mrs. Pratt, and Mrs. Dan Moore, Jr.

BRIDE USES GRANDMOTHER'S FAN ON HER WEDDING DAY

Stock, gladioli and gleaming cathedral tapers, white against a dark background of Easter palms, made a bridal setting Thursday, April 6, at 6:30 in the evening at the Noll Memorial Methodist Church in Shreveport for the marriage of Miss Lillian Marguerite Nation, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jennings Nation of Shreveport, and Charles Martin Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Joe Kendrick of Homer, and nephew of Misses Frances and Elizabeth Langford and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Langford of this city.

Dean R. E. Smith was the officiating minister and while the guests were being seated by W. T. Welsh of Lisbon, Walter H. Travis of Baton Rouge, M. D. Easte of Oak Grove, Lewis L. Langford of Jackson, Miss., and Tommy Shea of Dumas, Ark., Miss Eva Nell Hampton at the organ played a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Francis Alston of Logansport, cousin of the bride, who sang several songs.

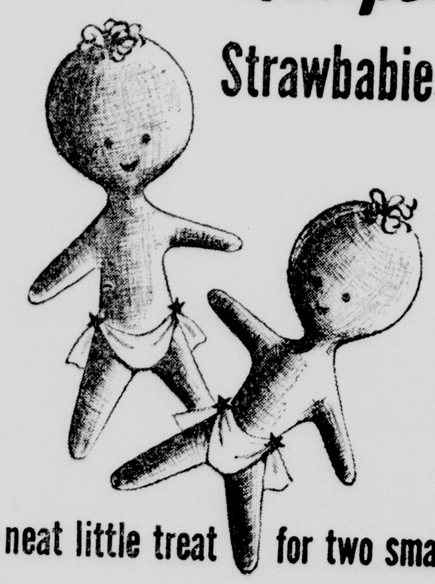

Miss Betty Harrelson and Mrs. S. J. Richard lighted the candles before the entrance of the bridal party.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Walter H. Travis of Baton Rouge, sister of the bridegroom, and maids, Mrs. D. M. Kirk, Jr., of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Warren J. Tison, Miss Glennette Middlebrooks, Miss Marjorie Reeks and Miss Betty J. Evans, wore identical dresses of embroidered white organza over wistaria taffeta, with matching taffeta sashes. The high necklines of the full-skirted dresses had small pointed collars, finished with narrow lace edging. The honor attendant carried an armful of yellow tulips and lavendar stock and the maids, yellow iris and lavendar stock.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin with a swirling train joining the long-waisted bodice. A high neck yoke of illusion was attached to the portrait neckline and the bodice and long fitted sleeves were fastened with small self-covered buttons. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion, garnished with pearls from the wedding dresses of her mother and grandmother. The fan

Mr. And Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., Entertain At Reception Honoring Brides-Elect

Function Celebrates Opening Of Fairview Home Recently Completed For Couple

One of the loveliest social functions of the spring season was the reception Friday evening, April 7, with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., in the role of hosts. The occasion was of striking significance. It honored two prominent brides-elect, Miss Beverly Ringwald and Miss Virginia Fisher, and also provided opportunity to extend hospitality to many friends in the Jones's recently completed residence on Stuart Street in Fairview.

About one hundred forty guests were privileged to enjoy the evening filled to overflowing with good comradeship and gracious courtesies.

The spacious reception suite of the handsome new home reflected genuine artistry in its numerous floral arrangements. Especially effective was the decorative note on the mantel, which was achieved in employing pink gladioli and heather. A variety of spring blossoms at vantage points completed the effectiveness of the beautifully designed residence with its attractive furnishings.

Welcoming the guests was Miss Helen Todd who was gowned in mauve satin and net.

Receiving with Mrs. Jones were: Miss Ringwald and her mother, Mrs. C. O. Ringwald; Miss Fisher and her mother, Mrs. Archie L. Fisher; Mr. Richard Englerth, fiance of Miss Ringwald; Mr. Robert Wilson, fiance of Miss Fisher, and Mrs. R. E. Wilson, mother of Mr. Wilson.

Mrs. Jones was stunning in a gown of deep aqua crepe with rhinestone trim with which she wore a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Ringwald was wearing a charming strapless model of nylon net over navy taffeta, accented by a net stole and pink carnations.

Miss Fisher was lovely in a dress fashioned of silver brocaded bodice and long bouffant skirt of champagne nylon net over taffeta. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses. Mrs. Wilson wore a beautiful poudre blue gown of taffeta and lace and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Fisher chose a rich black crepe costume and crimson carnations.

Mrs. Ringwald was striking in white crepe and a similar corsage.

Musical numbers proved delightful features in the evening's list of pleasures. In addition to background selections, splended voices were heard in several special numbers. Mr. Walter Mangham was one of the vocal soloists. He was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Bynum, talented musician, who was wearing a blue satin gown for the occasion. She also played her own accompaniment when she sang. Mrs. Alta Faircloth, in white lace over blue, was at the piano when other vocal selections were given.

In the dining room the refreshment table was overlaid with a handmade Irish linen cutworth cloth with deep handsome lace border. Two miniature brides and an attractive arrangement of pink gladioli and heather formed the artistic central decor. At either end of the table, lime punch was served from a large crystal bowl by Mrs. L. C. Richardson in delicate blue lace and Mrs. R. C. Black in orchid. Assisting were Mrs. W. F. Grafton, who was wearing white crepe, Mrs. Rush Biossat in a black and white gown, Mrs. W. L. Moore in poudre blue chiffon and Mrs. W. B. Reynolds in royal blue crepe.

Silver trays holding an assortment of fluted open sandwiches, small cakes, mints and nuts were passed among the guests by Miss Patricia Black in cerese satin, Miss Elizabeth Doan in aqua organdie, Miss Martha Carroll Upshaw in cocoa nylon net over pale lime satin and Miss Irma Grace Stevens in pink organdie.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Betty Richardson, who was lovely in gold chiffon trimmed with sequins.

The list included the following who attended the enjoyable function:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Monore, Mr. Joe Monroe, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mr. Robert Morris, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. L. W. Boyce, Mrs. Katie F. Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. of cream lace, studded with beads, was used by her grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Garland, at her wedding in 1903, and at the base was a cluster of gardenias and stephanotis, tied with white satin streamers. Her only ornament was a string of pearls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nation wore ashes-of-roses chiffon and lace, with dubonnet carnations, and Mrs. Kendrick chose turquoise chantilly lace with a corsage of pink Pinocchio roses.

At the reception at the Junior League Club house at which Mr. and Mrs. Nation were hosts, white stock and gladioli were used against a background of glossy magnolia leaves, to form a green and white decorative motif, as in the church.

Guests were received by members of the bridal party, parents of the bride and bridegroom, and Mrs. J. K. Anderson.

The bride was wearing for her honeymoon trip an irridescent faille suit, with burgundy accents and dove gray accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Upon their return the bridal couple will make their home in Homer.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

Mrs. Webb Donnolly Pomeroy, before her recent marriage, Miss Juanita Mae Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lane Newton of Jackson, Louisiana. Reverend Pomeroy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Pomeroy of Bastrop. The wedding was solemnized on April 8.

WEDDING OF JUANITA MAE NEWTON AND REV. WEBB DONNOLLY POMEROY SOLEMNIZED IN JACKSON, LA.

The marriage of Miss Juanita Mae Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lane Newton and the Reverand Webb Donnolly Pomeroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Pomeroy of Bastrop, was solemnized April 8 at five in the evening at the Methodist Church in Jackson, Louisiana.

The Reverend George W. Pomeroy of Minden, uncle of the groom, officiated in the double ring ceremony, which was performed by candle light before the altar decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of white gladioli and lilies.

Preceeding the ceremony Dr. E. M. Robards violin selections accompanied by Mrs. George Gayden, Jr. The traditional processional and recessional wedding marches were used during the ceremony and Mrs. Sidney Bowden sang "Because" and "O, Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of satin with fingertip veil of illusion falling from a Juliet cap. She was carrying a white Bible centered by a single white orchid tied with streamers of satin and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Elaine Newton, and junior bridesmaid was Aline Newton, sisters of the bride. Miss Helen Faye Newton, also sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Pomeroy, sister of the groom served as bridesmaids. The flower girl was Miss Gene Gayden. The bridal attendants all wore gowns similar to that of the bride's in pastel colors and carried streamer beauquets of spring flowers.

Mr. Paul Pomeroy served his brother as best man. Ushers were the Rev. Clifford Zerkle of Baton Rouge, and the Rev. C. R. Burcham of New Orleans.

Mrs. Newton, the bride's mother, was wearing a navy faille with accessories of white. Mrs. Pomeroy chose to wear a gray lace with pink accessories. Their corsages were of varigated pink and white gladioli.

A reception was held following the ceremony at "Gurley," plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gayden, Jr.

Receiving the guests were the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lane Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Pomeroy, and members of the bridal party.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Woods McGraw, Mrs. E. A. Pennybaker, Mrs. Van Carter, Miss Margaret Bonds and the tea girls. All were wearing tea length gowns in spring shades.

For their honeymoon in New Orleans, the bride was wearing a rust gabardine with accessories of white and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

After their trip the bridal couple will sail from New York for Scotland where the Reverend Pomeroy is enrolled in the University of Edinburgh.

Fritrel-Davidson

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Marion Delores Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Davidson of Shannonron, Canada and Harlon Everett Fritrel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osman H. Fritrel of Choudrant, which was celebrated in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sitter of Moose Jow, Canada, at eight o'clock in the evening on March 10th.

The bride wore a dress of steel grey crepe with accessories to match. Her corsage was of red roses. Her only attendant was Miss Gla Gard, who was wearing a similar grey dress.

Kermit Billingsley served the groom as best man.

The bride's gift from the groom was an only necklace with matching earrings.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

The bridal couple will make their home in Assiniboia, Canada.

Declines were noted in 1949 in murders, negligent manslaughter and auto thefts in both urban and rural areas in the United States.

THE QUOTA CLUB WILL SPONSOR GARDEN TEA AND STYLE SHOW

There's nothing that brings mistiness to the eyes like a lovely bride. That's why feminine hearts will be delighted with the Garden Tea and Style Show sponsored by the Quota Club on May 18. There's another reason why the limited number of tickets are so in demand. The garden is none other than Miss Emma Lou Biedenharn's on Riverside, that breathtaking haven of formal landscaping that has become famous throughout the South. The models, featuring everything the bride, her attendants, her mother, grandmother and aunts will wear to coffees, luncheons, teas rehearsal and wedding, will walk along the winding paths of blooming iris, roses, delpheniums, gardenias and other spring flowers.

An orchestra, seated high above the climbing roses and confederate Jasmine on an iron grill balcony, will furnish music during the show. Guests are invited to come an hour earlier to view the gardens and enjoy iced punch. At 6 o'clock as the shadows are loveliest in the garden, the models will begin their breathtaking parade of fashions. By the way — the clothes will be furnished by a Monroe shop whose last style show was in 1938.

Although the theme of the show is centered around the bride, her attendants and family, the clothes shown will be appropriate for wearing on all occasions.

Mrs. Mildred Swift, City Home Demonstration Agent is chairman of the show and will have the able assistances of all members of the Quota Club. Brs. Swift states "The Almanac says the weather on May 18 will be clear and fair. However, as printed on the tickets, in case of inclement weather the style show will be given on May 25. Get your tickets from Miss Frances Flanders at the Ouachita Parish Library or at 327 Harrison street, Monroe; 704 Cypress Street, West Monroe; 338 DeSiard, Monroe; 202 Louisville avenue, Monroe or just call 1720, ask for Mrs. Murray and your ticket will be delivered. Only a limited number of tickets can be sold. For mail orders, write Miss Frances Flanders, c-o Ouachita Parish Library, Monroe, La."

The proceeds will be used for the purchase of an audiometer to test hearing of school children in Ouachita parish and for expenses of putting a girl through nursing school.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA TO HOLD CONVENTION IN NEW ORLEANS

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America was held, Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Mrs. Gladys Watkins, grand regent, presiding.

The Catholic Daughters of America convention to be held in New Orleans, April 28 through 30, was the high light of the meeting. Many anticipate the pleasure of attending this outstanding event. Mrs. Gladys Watkins was elected delegate to the convention, and Mrs. Hodges, alternate. One recommendation made by the board of trustees was discussed and accepted.

Enthusiasm is running high and all are eagerly anticipating the privilege of hearing the Reverend Father D. A. Curren when he gives a book review "The Cardinal" on May 12, Virginia Hotel roof. The book, one of the latest publications written by Henry Morton Robinson, delves deeply into the life and career of a priest in his first days of inexperience and brings us to the culmination of his highest ambition, that of "Cardinal". Don't miss this rare treat which will be given by one so capable of unfolding the story, and in reality, making the hero, Father Stephen Fermoyle, live his triumphant experiences.

The Guardian Angel Sunday School chairman, Miss Leona Biggar, gave an interesting report of activities, good attendance and ever increasing number. Miss Biggar reported having had 65 in class Easter Sunday.

The Catholic Daughters of America's project of furnishing clothes for underprivileged children for First Communion, with Mrs. Hodges as chairman, was a source of joy when the members learned that fourteen children were helped casion. Both the children and with necessary clothes on this occasion parents enjoyed breakfast at St. Matthew's cafeteria; at this event, Mrs. Della Williamson served as chairman.

Miss Mattea Scalia accepted the chairmanship for awarding the gold medal to the student making the highest average in Christian doctrine.

Monsignor Marsh attended the meeting and delightes the audience with words of praise for helping him with his various problems and the obligations that have confronted him in recent months.

This well attended meeting came to a close after singing the closing ode.

Y. W. C. A. Activities

National YWCA Week is April 23-29th. The Monroe YWCA (one of your Red Feather Services of the Community Chest) is completing plans for the observance of this week with each group of the Y having some special meeting or activity. The YWCA Membership will meet on Thursday, April 27th, for its regular semi-Annual meeting. The Business & Professional Girls' Club will have a special meeting on April 26th with a program based on the theme: "My Faith and My Job." The YRG's Club will have a picnic supper at the park; The Y-Wives' will have their meeting at the Agriculture Building in West Monroe with Mrs. Swift, City Home Demonstration Agent, giving "Short Cuts in Sewing and In structions on Machine Aattachments." The Y-Teens will have a day picnic at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. The theme for this Y week is: "A Better World Begins With You" . . . Join the YWCA."

YRG'S

The YRG's Club met on Monday night for their regular supper and program. Willie Stephenson gave the devotional. The group are studying the Book of St. John in the Bible. Plans were discussed for a picnic or weiner roast.

Y-Wives

The Y-Wives' met on Wednesday morning with Mrs. Mary Eason, president presiding. Miss Frances Flanders reviewed in a most interesting and enjoyable and delightful manner the book: "I Married A Dinosaur."

Business & Professional Girls' Club

The Business & Professional Girls' Club met on Wednesday evening with the president, Alice Chilton, presiding. Edith Moore gave the devotional. Mrs. Ada Gruber presented "Fashions in Millinery," and several of the girls of the club modeled some attractive and very chic hats. Plans for a service project were discussed and Jenibe Westbrook, Anna Belle Dozier, and Jane Renaud will be in charge of the project. Summer Conference which will be held out from Dallas, Texas, was discussed by the group. Louise Phillips and Maude Brownlee served as the Hostess Committee and decorated the supper tables in a most attractive manner: Each place was marked by a small container (colored egg shells) with spring flowers; there was a centerpiece of purple iris and yellow flowers, yellow candles. Janet Sheppard was welcomed as a guest; Pat Patrick and Annis Klie were also guests for the meeting. Eva Smith and Bessie Kocotas are the committee for the special meeting during Y Week on April 26th.

Y-Teens

The 7th Grade Club of Y-Teens at Neville have adopted the name Jolly Y Tigers and met on Wednesday afternoon with the following present: Fran Guthrie, Dorothy Robertson, Carolyn Stewart, Lydia Varino, Bobbie Jean Sanders, Josephine La Pietra, Sue Williams, Zona Gail Clay, Dorothy Burroughs, Ashley Hamilton, Frances Rogillio. Fran Guthrie, president, presided at the meeting. Ashley Hamilton, Frances Rogillio, Sue Williams, Josephine La Pietra, and Dorothy Robinson gave the program. Zona Gail Clay was elected Treasurer and Dorothy Robertson was elected council representative for the club.

The Honest Injuns' Club met at the YWCA.

The Bluettes Club met at Crosley School. The president for next year: Betty Bandy was elected; vice-president: Carolyn Welch was elected. Plans for the hike were discussed.

Home Demonstration Activities Start In The Home

When the Germans bombed the little town of Lidice the whole world was incensed. Devastation of the industrial and commercial establishments was resented but the over-all grievance lay in the destruction of homes. Can we imagine our communities without our homes?

Home is a place that is dear to the heart of every normal individual. Poems, songs, stories, essays have been penned that pay lasting tribute to that "haven of rest"—home, but how many of us ever think of what goes into the making of a home?

It is fitting then, that we take apart, so to speak, the mechanism of this institution and see what makes it tick. Edgar Guest says, "It takes a lot of livin' in a house to make it home." What did he men by living? He meant the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the comfort of the home we live in, the recreation that we pursue, the books we read, the gardens we grow, the love that grows out of family association. These are the things that contribute to the happiness of home. These are the jobs that our women do.

Standing by to lend a helping hand to the women who make homes are the home demonstration agents. In Louisiana there is a home agent in every one of the 64 parishes and one for each city. Home demonstration activities start in the home. The agents have the latest recommendations on what families should eat to keep healthy, they have new and attractive ways of preparing and serving food, and the latest in quick freezing and canning. They teach methods of saving time and labor in housekeeping, they can assist with financial planning and are trained to help housewives with making the most of what they have in home-grown foods and household equipment. With the post-war interest in building and remodeling, women with the help of the agents have studied house furnishing, better kitchen arrangement, water systems, and house planning. The agents have stressed health, clothing and recreation.

These agents represent the Louisiana State University and serve as itinerant teachers who take the latest educational information to the women of Louisiana. The University regards the boundary line of the state as that of the University campus and these agents assist immeasurably in carrying out this concept.

DEMARIS MCNEELY, BRIDE-ELECT FETED AT PRENUPTIAL PARTY

Complimenting Miss Damaris McNeely, bride-elect of Harry Shifflette, was the kitchen shower recently given in her honor in the home of Mrs. G. D. Reeves with Mrs. W. B. McWhorter, co-hostess.

RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Neville Gulley Aulds, the former Miss Cleo Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Bertie Wilson Taylor and the late J. Monroe Taylor of Farmerville. T/Sgt. Aulds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Garland Aulds, Sr. also of Farmerville. The wedding took place April 12.

HOME CEREMONY UNITES CLEO TAYLOR AND NEVILLE GULLEY AULDS

The marriage of Miss Cleo Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Bertie Wilson, Taylor and the late Mr. J. Monroe Taylor of Farmerville to T-Sgt. Neville Gulley Aulds of the U. S. Army Air Force and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Garland Aulds Sr. of Farmerville was solemnized Wednesday evening, April 12, 1950 at 7:00 o'clock at the home of the bride, with a large group of relatives and friends witnessing the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Beverly E. Bond, pastor of the Farmerville Methodist Church.

Vows were exchanged before the open fireplace whose mantel held for central decor, a large fan shaped arrangement of white gladoli and was flanked on either side by white floor length baskets of white gladoli and greenery. The candlebra was holding white slender tapers.

A program of pre-nuptial music was rendered while the guest were assembling and the lighting of the candles by the ushers, who were Frank Dillard Joiner and Charles A. Green. The traditional "Wedding March" of Mendelssohn's was played for the processional.

Mrs. Leslie Garland Aulds, Jr., sister-in-law of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a becoming ashes of roses dress with matching accessories of Nancy. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mr. Auld's best man was his brother, Leslie Garland Aulds, Jr.

The bride was lovely in an early spring model suit in medium grey with touches of pink. Her accessories were green and her corsage was a purple orchid.

Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bride, was dressed in an ashes of roses crepe street length dress and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Aulds, mother of the groom, wore sheer navy and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Mrs. Troy Lee Ham of Downsville was in charge of the bride's book, Mrs. Frank Dillard Joiner served the bride's cake and Mrs. Charles A. Green was at the punch bowl.

The table was covered with an Italian cut work cloth. At one end was the three tiered wedding cake with a minature bride and groom atop and the punch bowl was at the other end of the board. Crystal candelabra holding slender pink burning tapers and centering the table were encircled by pink blossoms. An artistic arrangement of stock and carnations in all pink was placed on the buffet. Tall pink tapers in crystal candleholders completed the centerpiece. Mrs. Prentice, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Richard Bass assisted in the serving courtesies.

St. Ann's Circle Plan Style Review

Plans for two parties to raise funds for a trip to Rome for Msgr. John Marsh, are being completed by the members of St. Ann's circle of St. Matthew's Church.

A local woman's shop will display a review of summer fashions with lovely models in combination with the card party. The newly completed gymnasium on Grammont St. will be the scene of this event on May 2 afternoon and night.

Many lovely door prizes will be given. Cards of all kinds will be played, the individual foursomes deciding on the game of their choice. Home made candies and cold drinks will be served. Much interest has been displayed and groups are planning to attend either or both parties.

TECH STUDENTS TO CAST VOTES

Runoff Election For President Of Group Set For Tuesday

RUSTON, April 15.—(Special)—Leo Sanford of Shreveport and George Belin of Springhill will enter a run-off election April 18 for president of the Louisiana Tech student body, it was announced following a promulgation of recent primary voting.

Lowell Morrison of Haynesville defeated two opponents for the office of first vice-president while Billie Ruth Lowe, also of Haynesville, was winner in a two-way race for second vice-president of the student body.

Bill McMullen of Memphis, Tenn., and James E. Sparkman of Minden were highest in a list of five candidates for the office of treasurer and will be voted on again April 18 in the run-off election.

Joe Ray Caldwell of Shreveport and Carolyn Bagwell of Monroe were high in a field of three candidates for secretary and will enter the run-off election also.

With two to be elected, five candidates were designated to enter the run-off for senior representative on Tech's student senate, including Doyle Dumas, El Dorado, Ark.; Nina Holoman, Minden; Ann McLane, Ruston; Bill Ponder, Monroe; and Sanders Roane, Ruston.

With two to be elected as junior class representatives on the student senate, Luther Moore of Minden was voted into office in the primary. Kathryn Fox of Ruston and Marjorie Keller of Oak Grove will be candidates in the run-off for the second position. Six candidates were voted on for this office in the primary.

Mary Ann Carson of Shreveport, Glenn Hooks of Haynesville, Bob Miller of Alexandria, and Martha Temple of Shreveport were high in a field of seven candidates for the two sophomore representative posts and will enter the run-off election also on April 18.

MRS. W. R. GATES TO EXHIBIT IRIS TO FLOWER LOVERS HERE

One of the most beautiful flower gardens in the Twin Cities may be seen at the home of Mrs. W. R. Gates, 404 Linderman avenue in West Monroe. Mrs. Gates a real expert in raising flowers, has as her specialty iris. There are over three hundred varieties of iris growing in the Gates' Garden and all are properly tagged and can be easily identified.

The pride of the Gates' Garden is a large crescent shaped bed in which the America Iris Society's chosen hundred best iris were planted last season. Most of the iris have yard long stems. Painted Desert was 48 inches in height last season. There is "Queen Helen McGregor" the 1949 Dykes medal winner, Cherie, the most famous pink with tangerine beard, Spanish Peaks, Pink Cameo, Confetti and Chivalry growing in the garden. Other iris beds contain famous new iris as well as the popular old-timers which have stood the test of time, like Los Angeles, Christabel, and the always popular Golden Spike with the fat orange caterpillar beard. There is a bed of new Kaempferi iris, also a large bed of tall Louisiana Hybrids which includes the prized Bayou Sunset, Hailie Selassie and Cajun. There is an iris seedling bed behind a shrub hedge where the controled hybridized seeds are planted each fall. The background is curved shrub beds and evergreens. Also an attractive feature of the garden is the white stepping stone walk.

Mrs. Gates is a member of the American Iris Society, Louisiana Iris Society, Monroe Garden Club, Welcome Garden Club and is now conducting a Garden Club on the air each Sunday afternoon. Because of her hobby, close friends of Mrs. Gates now call her "Iris"

Several years ago Mrs. Gates was told that iris would not grow in Louisiana's clay soil but after one season of working and cultivating the soil, Mrs. Gates then started making iris beds, pulverizing the soil, adding sand and bone meal, while raising the beds 8 to 10 inches above the wide paths between the beds. The beds were remade three times before the iris were set in them. For the past five years heavy mulch is placed in the paths until it is thoroughly decomposed to loamy black earth. Each spring some of this good earth is added to iris beds. Now the iris beds are full of fat earthworms which keep the soil worked. The soil is loose and crumbly and you can always judge your soil by the quality and quanity of the earthworms you spade up. Bearded iris will rot in wet weather if mulch is placed directly on them in this locality as they require good drainage, good soil, sunshine, clean cultivation, fertilizer, frequent resetting, and proper selection of variety best suited to conditions under which it is to be grown.

The American Iris Society has over 4000 members of the most enthusiastic iris growers as well as several hundred in foreign countries. This spring they will convene at Sioux City, Iowa on May 27 through 30 where conducted tours will radiate hundreds of miles to iris gardens planned for this occasion the past three years. For the first time, the A. I. S. convention will be held in Louisiana in the spring of 1951 at Shreveport.

Flower lovers are welcome to visit Mrs. Gates' garden. The peak blooming season this year will be April 15th through the 30th. Last season over a thousand visitors registered the guest book. Ten states being represented Easter week.

Seated Tea, Coffee Hour Honor Vivian Green, Bride-Elect

Miss Vivian Green, whose wedding will take place this month, was feted recently with a seated tea given in the home of Mrs. Henry Addison in Rayville.

Spring flowers in Easter colors were placed at vantage points throughout the rooms.

Mrs. Benny Christian presided at the lace covered tea table which was centered with a bride and groom standing on a revolving musical stand playing the wedding march as the honoree and guests were served dainty open faced sandwiches and cakes embossed with initials of the bride and groom-elect.

Mrs. Addison presented the honoree with a lovely corsage and a pair of silver candle stick holders.

About thirty guests were present to enjoy the tea.

Also honoring Miss Green was the coffee hour given by Mrs. Dwayne Bowden and Miss Elsie Duncan in the home of Mrs. Duncan.

The living room was beautifully decorated with spring flowers in Easter colors. The floral arrangement of purple iris and pansies was very effective.

In the dining room suspended over the center of the coffee table was a white wedding bell under which stood a minature bride and groom encircled with white brides roses, white iris and bridal wreath, bands of white satin ribbon entwined with clematis and spirea extended from the floral centerpiece to the corners of the table.

Dainty sandwiches in pink and green, a variety of open faced sandwiches, individual white cakes embossed with valley lilies forming a V and coffee were served by Mrs. Bowdon, Mrs. Sale and Miss Duncan to the honoree and the thirty guests present.

Mrs. Massey Douglas McConnell whose wedding took place recently is the former Miss Shirley Jean Young daughter of Mr. Earl Delos Young and the late Mrs. Young of New Orleans. Mr. McConnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Massey D. McConnell of Mangham.

CEREMONY UNITES SHIRLEY YOUNG AND MASSEY DOUGLAS MCCONNELL

In a setting of spring flowers, tapers and the soft light of the late afternoon was the wedding ceremony uniting Miss Shirley Jean Young and Mr. Massey Douglas McConnell. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Earl Delos Young of New Orleans and Baton Rouge and the late Mrs. Young, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Massey D. McConnell of Mangham.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows on Thursday April 6 at 5 p. m. in the Methodist Church of Mangham, with the pastor, Rev. Stephen Carrington, officiating.

Large sprays of beautiful dogwood formed the background for attractive arrangements of white gladioli and fern that overflowed from tall standards tied with white tulle. Adding to the effectiveness of the scene were seven-branched wrought iron candelabra holding tall cathedral tapers and rich, glistening ivy that intertwined the chancel rail.

In a pre-nuptial concert several numbers were played by the bridegroom's cousin, Mrs. Ben Hixon, who wore an aqua organdie dress embroidered in orchid. Her corsage was of yellow iris. She also accompanied Miss Elaine Canady, who sang "Through the Years." She was wearing a frock of corn colored embroidered organdie fashioned along similar lines to those of Mrs. Hixon's gown and she wore a shoulder corsage of purple iris.

While the pianist played "Clair de Lune," the candles were lighted by Miss Patricia McConnell, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Pritchard Underwood. Miss McConnell was wearing an old fashioned organdie frock of blue embroidery over a deeper blue. It was fashioned with a closely-fitted bodice with scalloped neckline and a gathered floor-length skirt with a long blue satin sash. She wore a band of matching hue across her hair and an arm corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride's only attendant was her school mate, Miss Betty Cullum of Springhill. Her pink organdie gown was designed with a pointed basque and an off-the shoulder neckline edged in lace-trimmed ruffles. The full hooped skirt was made of gores, with rows of ruffles used effectively to form a panel across the back. Completing the striking cosutme were a fluted pink bonnet and long organdy gloves in matching shade that ended in lace trimmed points over the wrists. Her flowers were pink carnations.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his cousin, Mr. Carleton McConnell of Baton Rouge. Ushers were Mr. Bennie McLain Hixon and Mr. Floyd Bruce Boughton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in exquisite sheer imported white organdie. The fitted bodice, with its picture frame neckline, was enhanced by dainty embroidery and net inserts. It was joined to a long, full skirt that was completed with a sash of white taffeta. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a bonnet made of hand rolled petals in matching organdie. She wore long gloves of similar material that ended in lily points at the wrist and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and tube roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents. The spacious reception suite held artistic arrangements of pink roses, snapdragons and other spring flowers. Receiving with the bridal party were the hosts and the bride's father. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a navy sheer. The waist was trimmed inembroidered net of blue and the skirt was accented by side drapery. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The bride's table was overlaid with an imported linen cloth of cutwork and lace inserts and edged in handsome handmade lace. It was centered with a tiered wedding cake, embossed in valley lilies and roses and surmounted by bride and groom figurines. The confection rested on a large reflector encircled with frills of marquisette and white carnations. On either side silver candelabra held white glowing tapers which added to the effectiveness of the scene.

At one end of the table lime punch in a handsome silver bowl was served by Miss Tommy Todd Thomas of Austin, Texas, cousin of the bridegroom. She chose a rich gown of yellow marquisette embroidered in gold metallic flowers. Soft folds and a stole of the material over the off-the-shoulder bodice were attractive features. The bouffant skirt touched the floor, and her corsage was of white carnations.

Silver trays holding individual cakes and mints embrossed in valley lilies and other confections were passed among the guests.

Immediately after the reception the couple left for a honeymoon in the Ozarks, after which they returned to Baton Rouge where they will complete their studies at Louisiana State University in June.

For travel the bride chose a smart gray tailleur with brown straw hat and matching accessories and she wore a corsage of gardenias.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. A. Douglas Booth, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Palmer, Baton Rouge; Miss Morriss-Middleton, Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Apperson and Miss Carolyn Apperson, Monroe; Mrs. J. E. Cullum and Miss Betty Cullum, Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Thomas and Miss Tommy Todd Thomas, Austin, Texas; Miss Marcia Gladney and Miss Freddie Christian, Rayville; Miss Muriel Fontenot, Marksville; Mrs. William Humble, Natchez; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ellerbe, Mrs. Lela Graves, Mrs. N. L. Blair, Miss Linda Blair and Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Carleton McConnell, Baton Rouge.

The bride graduated from Sophie Wright High School, New Orleans, then attended Sophie Newcomb College. She transferred to L. S. U. at the end of her freshman year and became affiliated with Phi Mu Sorority. She holds the title of Little Colonel in the air force cadet corps at the university, an honor which followed her selection as sponsor of one of the squadrons in the corps.

Mr. McConnell is a graduate from the Magham High School and Northeast Junior College, where he was prominently identified with student activities. He held membership on the Pow Wow staff, college newspaper, and was president of the Student Council and Lt. Col. of the R. O. T. C. He also did outstanding work on the football squad. At L. S. U. he is affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, Scabbard and Blade, Square and Campass Club and he holds the rank of Cadet Col. of the Air Force, R. O. T. C.

MY MAN and YOURS

Margene

By Margene Danch

Mrs. Jerry Green sent in a story about her son Larry:

"Larry is only six but he has definite ideas about his clothes. He even knows where he wants to buy them. And it's the largest and fanciest store in town.

The new semester just started and Larry needed some new pants and shoes so I took him downtown to make the purchases.

We went to three department stores and Larry didn't see one thing that would satisfy him.

He had his mind made up to buy at that 'certain store'.

'They're pretty high,' I said, trying to discourage him.

But that didn't seem to make any difference, so we wound up at the 'certain store'. And it didn't take my son three minutes to find the very pants and shoes he had been looking for.

While we were waiting for the change, Larry looked up at me and said, 'That wasn't much money for those things, was it?' and I said, 'Oh, I guess not.' Then it came, he looked up seriously and said in a very loud voice, 'Why Mom, you just said before we came in here that this is the highest priced store in town.'

With 15 people in the store laughing for all they were worth, I took my change and my red face (and Larry) and walked out.

The story could end here but doesn't.

Things were pretty quiet until we got home. Then, when I took my coat off, Larry stood staring at me and finally said, 'Did you wear that dress shopping?'

'Yes.'

He just walked away shook his head saying, 'No wonder all the people laughed!'

I didn't have an answer to that one."

Three Juveniles Held In Burglary

Three juveniles who allegedly burglarized Bamburg Store and Market on the Jonesboro road were turned over to the juvenile probation officer by the Ouachita sheriff department Saturday.

Deputies said the youths took $15 in cash and six cartons of cigarettes from the store.

Names of the juveniles were withheld because of their ages.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Meets Recently

The Bayou DeSiard Garden Club recently held their monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. P. N. Edwards, 4119 DeSiard Road. An interesting talk was given by Mrs. Ivy Smith on the Planing and Preparation of Beds, also a talk by Mrs. F. T. Smith, Jr., on Annuals, Biennials and Perennials.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the cohostess, Mrs. J. S. Gage.

ELECTRIC DRYING OF RICE IS SEEN

Electrical Process May Supplant Presently Used Hot Air System

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15. —(AP)—Rice produced in Louisiana and elsewhere may soon be dried by electricity instead of hot air, a Louisiana State University agricultural engineer said Friday.

F. R. Wratten, addressing one of four technical conferences held at the university today, said di-electric heat is now being used in research experiments on rice and other products.

"In his electrical process," he said, "heat is applied quickly and simultaneously to each molecule in the grain, heating it uniformly throughout."

Experimenters hope, he said, that this method can be developed into a quicker and more uniform method than hot air drying, presently practices.

Rice storage problems were discussed by J. W. Sorenson, Jr., of Texas A. & M., and L. G. Coonrod of the U. S. department of agriculture's rice experiment station at Crowley, La.

The agricultural engineering conference and three others—agronomy, horticulture and student personnel—are being held in connection with the "L. S. U. at Mid-Century" program. The celebration also marks dedication of seven new campus structures, men's and women's dormitories and agronomy-horticulture and agricultural engineering buildings.

David E. Lilienthal, former head of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the atomic energy commission, as principal speaker at the opening convocation yesterday. About 500 persons from throughout the south are attending the conferences.

At the agronomy conference two speakers said "the south is going to grass" with pasture lands replacing such crops as cotton, tobacco, peanuts "and special crops." The speakers were Glenn W. Burton of the department of agriculture's Georgia Coastal Plain Experiment Station and O. E. Sell, University of Georgia pasture specialist.

E. H. Wiegand of Oregon State College told the horticulture conference that more than 4000 scientists are now studying food technology. Thanks to food-processing techniques, constantly improving, "The future of the food industry is alive with possibilities," Wiegand said.

Fonda's Wife Kills Self By Slashing Throat But He Carries on With Play

Actor Attends Hasty Funeral And Then Acts As 'Mr. Roberts'

By John Randolph

BEACON, N. Y., April 15.—(AP)—Henry Fonda went back to Broadway last night after his wife's hastily-arranged funeral and played "Mr. Roberts" to an audience that whispered the first news of her suicide from seat to seat.

Thirteen hours before—shortly after dawn yesterday—the actor's beautiful society wife had cut her throat from ear to ear with a razor blade.

She was in a private sanitarium here, 40 miles north of New York City, and was believed to be recovering from a nervous breakdown that followed her consent to a divorce. She was 42.

Her death note ended:

"I am sorry, but this is the best way out."

A doctor and nurse found her dying on the floor of the bathroom in her suite at 6:50 a.m.

Her death came just as Broadway heard rumors that romance had cooled between the 44-year-old Fonda and Susan Blanchard 22-year-old step-daughter of Oscar Hammerstein II, the librettist and producer.

Fonda disclosed plans for a divorce last December, amid reports of a romance with Miss Blanchard.

Until then, his marriage had been considered for years as one of the soundest in Hollywood and Broadway.

No legal action for divorce had been started.

When word reached Fonda in New York of his wife's death, he hastered here with his wife's mother, Mrs. Eugene Ford Seymour, and went to the Craig House Corporation Sanitarium.

After the death was pronounced a suicide by Dr. L. Edward Cotter, Dutchess county medical examiner, a simple, private service was held in a local funeral parlor.

Then her body was taken to nearby Hartsdale for cremation, while the actor returned to New York.

In the 26 months of the hit, "Mr. Roberts," Fonda has never missed one of the 832 performances.

But his understudy, Marhsall Jamison, was rehearsing the part when Fonda, pale with fatigue, strode into the Alvin Theater an hour before curtain time.

"Are you going to go on?" asked his press agent, Leo Friedman.

"I don't know," said the tall, lanky, boyish looking actor. "It's awfully hard to say how I feel."

Then Leland Hayward, the show's producer, told him that only a fraction of the audience would know of Mrs. Fonda's death, and that he would bar the press from the theater.

"I could do a performance," Fonda finally agreed.

Newsmen were barred by Hayward's order (the show has been a sell-out for months) but playgoers who knew the situation said Fonda gave an unfaltering performance.

As "Mr. Roberts" he is the first mate in an emotionally tense wartime sea drama, relieved by interludes of rowdy comedy.

"He was even sharper than usual," one follower of the play said afterwards.

During intermission the 28 members of the cast "acted" as usual and gathered in the star's dressing room to discuss trifles. Among them was the only woman in the play, Jocelyn Brando, who plays the navy nurse. She was married only the day before and Fonda had given her a backstage wedding party Thursday night.

After the play, a "flying wedge" of friends shepherded Fonda through the lobby to a waiting taxi.

Hayward said a greater test would come today at the matinee, when the whole house would know the story.

Mrs. Fonda was the former Frances Seymour, daughter of an old colonial family. When Fonda married her in 1936, she was the young and wealthy widow of the late Millionaire George Tuttle Brokaw.

She was the mother of the actor's two children, Jane, 12, and Peter, 9. By her first marriage she had a grown daughter, Frances.

Friends said she had agreed only reluctantly to a Nevada divorce after they separated last fall. At the time of the announcement, Friedman had said Fonda and Miss Blanchard, a statuesque beauty, were "very good friends."

Mrs. Fonda was quoted at the time as saying she agreed only "if that will make Henry happy."

Fonda's first wife was the Actress Margaret Sullavan. Brokaw had first been married to the playwright, Clare Boothe, now the wife of Henry Luce.

Mrs. Fonda suffered her nervous breakdown on Feb. 3, and had been in three sanitariums. Her mother had the children at Greenwich, Conn., and Fonda was a steady visitor, although he spent his nights in New York.

Among his better-known films were "Grapes of Wrath," "The Oxbow Incident," "The Young Mr. Lincoln," "Jesse James," and his last movie, "Fort Apache."

DRUG TOPICS HEAD

DAN RENNICK

RENNICK WILL SPEAK AT MEET

Noted Editor To Be On Pharmacy Program At State Convention

Dan Rennick, who will be featured as speaker when the State Pharmaceutical Association meets here next month, started business career as a reporter in New York. Later he wrote copy for advertising agencies and edited a string of six business papers in men's apparel and department store fields.

He next joined the Topics Publishing Co., publisher of Drug Topics and other business papers, 23 years ago. Today he is editorial director of the company and a member of the management committee.

Dan Rennick says he is "no more than a good newspaper man." But the record shows that he is an xpert analyst on retail merchandising, particularly in the retail drug field.

For almost 25 years, Mr. Rennick has given careful study to virtually every phase of drug store retailing.

Because of his newspaper training, he takes nothing for granted. He has analyzed drug store operations so intensively that, today, he is considered one of the nation's leading authorities on drug store merchandising.

His market surveys, covering most of the major phases of the retail drug business, are famous for their thoroughness and authoritativeness.

His studies and his analyses have developed new business for retail druggists—especially in the following fields:

Animal and poultry health goods, vitamins, cosmetics (he invented the cosmetic bar), baby products, hair products, magazines, feminine needs, candy, men's toiletries.

MAJ. CHAPMAN TO N. CAROLINA

Will Be Given New Assignment; Recently With Family Back From Italy

Maj. and Mrs. Marion D. Chapman and five-yearold daughter, Marion, are this week terminating a visit paid to Mrs. Chapman's mother, Mrs. Willie Wood, 103 Carolina street, Monroe. They came home from Italy after years spent in Europe and Major Chapman is now to proceed to Raleigh, N. C. to enter army recruiting duties.

The Chapmans left Monroe in August 1946 so that they had been away nearly four years. They were first stationed in Leghorn, Italy where they remained until October 1947 when they were assigned to Vienna, Austria where they remained a year. Later they were again reassigned to Triest. When they returned they came by boat direct from that city to New York.

Mrs. Chapman states that the trio found opportunity to visit most of Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, and that they made side trips into Germany, Spain and Greece.

Italy charmed with its climate and probably made a more lasting impression on the Chapmans than other countries. They learned enough language so as to be able to get around and they said they made some friends that they believe will be lasting.

Mrs. Chapman said that everywhere in Europe efforts are being made to rebuild but that the scars of war, miles and miles of bombed buildings, remain as reminder of the destruction of war. She said she made exhaustive tours through Rome and suburbs and also she visited the Vatican and on a Thursday (open day for non-Catholics) she was presented to the pope and had a rosary blessed.

She explained that she bought the rosary, had it blessed and then donated it to a Catholic friend.

Incidentally in her travels, Mrs. Chapman said she made a tour to the presently much - discussed Stromboli.

Mrs. Chapman declared that the travel and experiences were wonderful and she would not take anything for the advantages she has had. She stated she hoped that she could some time return for another trip.

MARY MARTIN IS WONDERFUL GIRL

She's Happy And Continues To Break Broadway Records

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Miss Mary Martin, a lady with a cute bang on her curly head, is a happy person. She is a top flight performer, can sing like a canary bubbling with honey and she continues to break Broadway records.

Miss Martin recently has been taking a week's vacation from her high-faluting show, as she would say in her native Weatherford, Texas, drawl in "South Pacific," a show which has been around here for some time. It is a tuneful musical which continues to be a top Broadway hit. And has just reopened after a short vacation.

There are some box office statistics which should be encountered before one meets the luscious Miss Martin. The advance sales of "South Pacific" already are beyond the $800,000 bracket.

As of today more than 800,000 persons have seen this musical, the weekly gross passing $0,600 and a grand total of nearly $3,000,000 already is in the cash tills for any of the boys who might need a spare buck for lunch.

Among those who have seen "South Pacific" auditions to hear Mary Martin are Vice-President and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Margaret Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, General Eisenhower, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the Shah of Persia, General Romolu and Governor Dewey.

Also around is Miss Martin's soft-spoken husband, Richard Halliday, a motion picture executive. It is a true love match.

"South Pacific," Miss Martin's show, is a revealing criterion about how Broadway top hit shows are selling.

"Since Dec. 5," so the confidential report from Broadway reads, "The Damon Runyon cancer fund has sold 2,379 'South Pacific' tickets at a gross of $65,161.73 and a net profit to the fund of $55,398.53. The procedure followed was to sell the seats at $6 for an evening performance and $3.60 or $4.20 at matinees, plus a substantial contribution volunteered by the would be purchasers."

Miss Martin, a lady with a good and pretty head on her shoulders, refused to go back to the movies after her success in 'South Pacific."

She said: "My contract in the theater doesn't expire until June, 1951 and I shall be playing Nellie in Forty-fourth street right."

So she has remained on the stage playing "South Pacific" and affirms that she will not accept any of the Hollywood offers. Miss Martin has a human, heartwarming quality, one where Katharine Cornell once came backstage and asked if she could borrow Miss Martin's make-up kit "because she had been crying and the tears have destroyed my make-up."

"Sure missy," Miss Martin said to Miss Cornell. A musical show star thus met a serious drama star.

Other than "South Pacific' Miss Martin has been singing such songs of her own as "Glad to be Unhappy" and "Maybe" and "It's a Lovely Day Tomorrow." Also, she says, she has a new recipe for barbecue sauce. But, you will have to ask Mary Martin in person for that. And she is the kind of home girl who will cook it for you. That's Mary Martin.

NEGRO ARRESTED, 3 MORE HUNTED

Fingerprints Match Those Obtained In Several Burglaries

A 21-year-old Negro identified as Lindsey Caldelugh Saturday was being held in the Ouachita parish jail for burglary and Ouachita parish the sheriff's department reported $50 rewards were being offered for information leading to the whereabouts of his three companions.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said fingerprints of the Negro under arrest matched those obtained from several recent burglaries. At the time Caldelugh was arrested he was carrying a German pistol stolen from the Rendezvous, authorities said.

The three being sought by the sheriff's department were identified and described as Steve Freeland, 24, 5 feet 9 inches tall, medium brown skin and weight 143 pounds; Marshall Owens, 32, 5 feet 11 inches tall, dark brown skin, weight 176 pounds and has three fingers, his thumb, index and middle fingers missing; Willie Claude Pearce, 24, 5 feet 8 inches tall, black skin, medium build and weighs 150 pounds.

Sheriff Grant asserted that the four Negroes are believed to have staged numerous recent burglaries in Monroe and Ouachita parish.

Caldelugh has admitted operating with his companions and raiding a Sterlington service station and cafe, The Rendezvous, Sikes Service Station at Eighteenth and Louisville, two cafes, a pool hall and several service stations.

Portions of their loots have been recovered by deputies and city police.

Two checks stolen from the Sterlington Service Station, one by the internal revenue department and the other The Texaco Company, were still out Saturday, authorities said.

Sheriff Grant said a $50 reward is being offered for the arrest of each of the three suspected burglars.

MRS. DAVIS AGAIN IS P.-T. A CHIEF

Re-elected President Of Group At Lida Benton School Past Week

Capable Mrs. Jack Davis will again head the Lida Benton P. T. A. At the regular meeting Wednesday in the school auditorium Mrs. Wiley Moseley, past officer in the association, installed the following officers: Mrs. Davis as president, Mrs. John Evans as vice president, Mrs. H. H. Adams as secretary and Mrs. W. E. Chitty as historian.

Unusual skill was noted in the displays of dish gardens and flower arrangements placed in the auditorium by pupils of Mrs. A. W. Wilkens and Mrs. M. M. Hill. The pupils, members of the Patio Garden Club and The Lida Benton Jr. Gardeners, will send entries to a flower show sponsored by the Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities and to be held at the Youth Center at the Methodist Church in West Monroe April 20.

The audience was entertained with singing and quaint interpretation as Miss Baur's kindergarten presented "Rabbit" and "The Clock", Mrs. F. K. Golson's second grade presented "The Tulip Song", and Mrs. M. M. Hill's third grade rendered "Rosa Let Us Be Dancing". Miss Dorothy Tullos, a graduate of Northwestern College and who was introduced at this meeting, was the accompanist.

During the business session presided over by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. H. H. Hathorn, summer round up chairman, reported that children to enter school next term would be examined by Dr. F. E. McCarty and that the round up would be held during the month of May.

Mrs. W. H. Wells, Girl Scout leader, will present a play May 12 at the auditorium, having members of Girl and Brownie Scout troops as the cast.

The P. T. A. will accept the invitation to join the safety council and will send a representative to the meetings.

May 4 was set aside as the date on which to have a Lida Benton chicken spaghetti supper. It is an annual spring affair and is looked forward to by all the community residents.

Attention was called to the state convention by a poster made of the map of Louisiana on which red strings were stretched from all principal Louisiana cities to Monroe. The caption read "The Shortest Distance From P. T. A. Conscious Cities in Louisiana to the 1950 State Conention is a Straight Line to Monroe".

The meeting was adjourned to a social hour presided over by Mrs. W. D. Becton and Mrs. E. L. Kitchens.

BRITISH LORDS QUIT LIBERALS

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—Two British lords announced today they have quit the Liberals to join what they call "the only party capable of offering effective resistance to socialism" — the Conservatives.

BUSINESS MEN NAME M'CONNELL

Elect Officers For Ensuing Year; Group Has Grown In Two Years Time

At a meeting of the West Monroe Business Men's Association at Mitchell School cafeteria, the following officers were elected: F. C. McConnell, president; W. C. Fisher, vice-president; C. G. Wall, Jr., secretary-treasurer. Baord of directors for two years; Charles P. Chisholm and Jack Russell; for one year, E. R. Norris, Tom Hicks and C. E. Baker. The members remaining on the board are J. M. Heard, Fred Riser and Henry Colbert, Jr. The new officers will take over at the next regular meeting of the association, which will be the night of May 8.

The organization is now two years old and has grown steadily since organization. The membership is comprised of business men and women of West Monroe and vicinity. The organization was formed in order to create better business for West Monroe and make this community a better place in which to live.

Two or three months ago the members of the association voted to have luncheon meetings once a month, and this has proved to be successful. The project sponsored by the association this year is the presentation at the Ouachita Valley Fair each year of a registered heifer dairy calf to some worthy 4-H boy or girl. The rules and regulations governing the giving away of this calf have been set up by members of the agriculture committee together with County Agent J. J. Joyce. The winner of this calf primarily will be determined by the number of points received for various exhibits placed in the fair.

DELHI TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE

$400,000 Is Sought To Provide Adequate School Facilities

DELHI, La., April 15.—(Special)—A $400,000 bond issue designed to provide adequate school facilities for Delhi students will be put up for vote here Tuesday.

Approval of the bond by property taxpayers would insure Delhi and ward one in Richland parish of a renovation and building program.

The project will largely carry out recommendations of a survey committee composed of representative local citizens which last year made a survey of the needs of the local school system. The committee suggested:

A one-story, 21 classroom building with a dual-purpose play and eating room, toilets and converted loading dock for the lower elementary grade of the Delhi white school.

A complete new plant in Delhi to be used as a consolidated Negro gymnasium and with sufficient classrooms and facilities for high school and elementary departments with combined enrollments of 550 pupils.

Repair and improve the original building and the annex to the Delhi High School.

2,000 MORE POLICE

BERLIN, April 15. — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. commandant, said today the west Berlin police force is being increased by 2,000 men to "strengthen the frontline against communism."

The force, under Chief Johannes Stumm, has numbered about 9,000 officers and men. By authorization of the western powers, the police budget is being expanded to cover the 22 per cent increase in personnel.

SUPT. BOYETT IS P.-T. A. GUEST

Tells Group At Barkdull Faulk School of Plans For Improved Facilities

J. M. Boyet favored the Barkdull Faulk P. T. A. members with his presence, at their regular meeting Thursday evening, and sent each and every one to his home feeling highly elated, after hearing his explanation of what he has planned for the Monroe city school system.

Mike John, Jr., member of the city school board, was also present.

Mr. Boyet stated that the school board feels that elementary education should be available to children of the city within walking distance of their homes and, to carry out its' plans, the board contends that more elementary schools are necessary; also that more schools will eliminate the congested condition now existing in the classrooms we already have.

He stated that we should pay tribute to our citizens who have administered so wisely in the past the facilities we are enjoying today but, as we learn from the census, that by the year 1953 and through 1958 and 1960 we must be prepared to take care of an increase of 43 per cent, we must plan now for the future. Since the birthrate in 1946 and 1947 was the highest in history, we must prepare for the peak of this load by 1952 or 1953.

The present year shows an increase of 12 per cent over last year, with the addition of fifteen new classrooms available this year, and a still larger enrollment expected for the next several years.

The speaker stated that Monroe is one of ten centers in the state of Louisiana on the priority list for federal funds, which might come, but, to obtain these funds, it has to be proven that we have done all we can locally for our schools.

Mr. Boyet stated that our city school authorities are planning carefully, and thoughtfully, to see that if, and when we can have additional facilities and materials, that it will be a good investment for better education for our children.

Mrs. H. E. Rivers, president, reminded all members to take advantage of the opportunity to hear various addresses by well known authorities on education, to be given at the state P. T. A. convention to be held in Monroe April 20-21-22.

An auditing committee was appointed by Mrs. Rivers, members of the committee being Mrs. H. S. Nix and Miss Julia Wossman.

The school chorus, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Tullos, rendered four numbers, all greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Room count was taken and Miss Weil's kindergarten room won the award.

NO HYDROGEN BOMB

LAKE SUCCESS, April 15.—(AP)—U. S. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz told 85 visiting West Point cadets yesterday he doesn't think the hydrogen bomb can be developed in his lifetime.

His opinion that man would not produce a hydrogen bomb in the near future was concurred in by Dr. Robert Millikan, chairman of the California Institute of Technology.

NEWS FROM THE GIRL SCOUTS

In the past few months a number of most interesting and fascinating books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. "Plymouth Adventure" by Ernest Gebler is a story about the pilgrim's who came over on the Mayflower. Mr. Gebler went back to England for much of his source material and has produced a fascinating book. He tells the true story of John Alden, Priscilla and Myles Standish. Don't miss this book. Conrad Richter has written several stories dealing with the people who settled the states of the middle west. The first one of this trilogy was "The Trees", next came "Sea of Grass" and now "The Town". Readers of the earlier two books will surely want to complete the story. Stories about ministers and their families have been most popular ever since the appearance of "The Bishop's Mantle". The newest book of this type is "The Lost Lamp" by Sara Jankins. This is a story of a southern Methodist minister in Georgia, whose family life is delightful, but whose relationships with his parishoners is often difficult. This is a book that the whole family can read and enjoy.

"Red Bone Woman" by Carlyle Tillery is not a particularly important novel, but it is interesting because it is the first book to be written about a small minority group who live in Louisiana. It is not a pleasant book to read, but is one with social implications. Benedict and Nancy Freedman, who scored such a success with "Mrs. Mike" have written a new book called "This and No More". It will appeal to a much more limited audience than did their first book, but it is an excellent piece of writing.

"The Green Bough" by Ann Katherine Ritner is a charming story of family life at the turn of the century. "The Goldsmith's Wife" by Jean Plaidy is based on the life of Jane Shore, wife of the Goldsmith William Shore, who fell in love with Edward IV. This book shows the desperate game of kingship and all the ruthlessness of the 15th century. "No Bed for Bacon" is a satire on the Elizabethan period. It is very humorous and will be greatly enjoyed. "Three Doors to Death" by Rex Stout is a new mystery by the creator of Nero Wolfe.

"On the Hill" is the title of John Masefield's new book of poetry. Enthusiasts of his work will not want to miss it. "Invitation to England" by Helen Dean Fish is a delightful guidebook to the British Isles. If you are planning to go there in the near future, be sure to read this book. "The Rise of Russia in Asia" by David J. Dallin is a most scholarly approach to the Russian question. We hear much about the cold war, but to really understand it, this book will help a great deal. "The Home Book of French Cookery" by Germaine Carter is the latest addition to the library's collection of cookbooks. These are the latest books to be added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, but there are many others here, for your enjoyment.

POUND GUERRILLAS

MANILA, April 15.—(AP)—Philippine army artillery today kept u for the second straght day its pounding of a concentration of 500 Hukbalahap guerrillas not more than an hour's drive from Manila. The firing was audible in the capital's suburbs.

SELMAN ELECTS P.-T. A. OFFICERS

Mrs. J. H. Alford To Head Group; Other Places Filled; Pick Delegates

Election of officers and final instructions to convention delegates were the high-lights of the Selman P. T. A. when they met in regular session Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. J. H. Alford was elected president, Mrs. T. W. Humphries, vice president, Mrs. J. H. Powell, secretary, and Mrs. Virgil Pilgrim, treasurer. The delegates representing the P. T. A. April 20, 21, 22 will be the newly elected president and vice-president, the out-going president, Mrs. Lila Rushing, Mrs. Parker Pinholster, Mrs. H. J. Hines, Mrs. F. T. Smith, Jr., Mrs. H. M. Valentine, Mrs. Oscar Crawford and Mrs. Chester Roberts. Clyde Cook was the guest speaker. He outlined the benefits Selman would receive from the bond issue.

Mrs. Rushing announced that the budget committee had $200 to be applied toward the purchasing of reference books for the school. The group voted to present Mrs. Rushing with a state life membership in recognition of the splendid work she had done since the organization of the unit. The fourth grade home room mothers and Mrs. Chester Roberts served refreshments during the social hour. Miss Martha Turnley's third grade won the room award. The 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grade home room mothers will have charge of the coal hour at the May meeting. The summer-round-up will be held May 3 with Dr. James D. Kelly as examining physician.

NEW RESEARCH CENTER AT COMMERCIAL SOLVENTS!

Main building of the new research center at Terre Haute. Research in both biological and synthetic fields is conducted by CSC.

The microbiological pilot-plant. Here commercial methods of manufacturing are perfected on a small scale.

The pharmacological laboratory plays an essential role in the development of pharmaceutical products.

ADDITIONS TO Commercial Solvents' Research Center at Terre Haute, Indiana, were recently completed at a cost of $1,600,000. The cost of operating the Research Department is about 5% of revenue from sales. That investment in research yields dividends is shown by the fact that in 1949 sales of products developed within the past six years constituted about 40% of the total revenues from sales.

New products scheduled for marketing during 1950 include an important ingredient for dairy and cattle feeds, the purified form of benzene hexachloride known as Lindane, insecticides made from the nitroparaffins, new plasticizers and amines, a new antibiotic, combinations and new forms of various antibiotics, several pharmaceutical specialties, and at least two new automotive chemicals.

HUNT CANDIDATE TO OPPOSE LONG

Unity By New Orleans And North Louisiana Would Be Essential

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15.—(AP)— Opponents of the present state administsration are still on a search for a "united front" candidate to oppose U. S. Sen. Russell Long in the July Democratic primary.

Sen. Long says the efforts flatter him. "I don't know" he laughed when asked for comment this week about the search. "I guess I'm about the most flattered man in politics, when they have to go over the state with a fine-tooth comb to find an opponent."

James M. McLemore, Alexandria cattleman who for a time seemed likely to be the choice, mentioned some of the difficulties frankly in his statement declaring he had decided not to run:

"I did not find the spokesmen of the various groups in accord as to just who should be the standard bearer of the independent voters nor was the strong support I was promised from New Orleans and north Louisiana forthcoming."

A shrewd north Louisiana politician went a little further in conversation about the probiems of welding a New Orleans-north Louisiana alliance against the Long faction.

This observer set forth the picture as he sees it at this time but declined to attach his name publicly to his estimate of the situation so early in the political season. At the present he is not irrevocably committed to either side.

He said the anti-Long leaders thought they saw a trend against the administration in recent north Louisiana local elections, even in some traditionally pro-Long areas. And they want a candidate who could marshal this opposition.

At the same time, continued the observer, there seems to be no use even considering a candidate unless he could also count on active support by Mayor Morrison's New Orleans administration, and the strong anti-Long general vote in New Orleans. North Louisiana opposition plus a solid bloc of New Orleans votes would be needed to offset the political potential of a state administration plus the normal Long strength in many central and south Louisiana parishes.

So how to write the specifications for an opposition candidate?

The political observer said a candidate who would make an issue of disagreement with the national administration and run as a strong States Rights Democrat would solidify much of the north Louisiana vote. But, he added, the problem is such a candidate polling enough votes in the major cities to carry him successfully over the vote in parishes he would lose.

The bulk of organized labor is in the urban areas, and President William Green of the A. F. of L. has staunchly endorsed Long.

The north Louisianian offered a final poser:

Would a candidate neither too conservative nor too liberal be able to attract the contributions necessary for a statewide campaign—especially since New Orleans opposition leaders reportedly have said that "the country" must bear a greater part of the financial burden this time?

Delta Air Plans All Expense Trip

Delta Air Lines has completed arrangements for all-expense air tours to sunny Miami Beach, now being discovered as a popular year-round resort, and optional trips are available to colorful Caribbean Islands.

Designed for the salaried vacationist, the Miami tour package takes advantage of reduced summer rates in Florida, which are only a fraction of the usual winter costs, and Delta's aircoach fares, which are 40 per cent under regular fares. Summer temperatures are ideal in Miami too, as the average of 81.4 degrees is only 11 degrees higher than the winter average.

The tour will be available from April 30 through November 30, offering the vacationist seven luxurious days at either the Macfadden Deauville, Monte Carlo, Caribbean, or Shelborne Hotel, with the same amusements that make Miami a mecca for millionaire pleasure-seekers.

The tour price will include air transportation to Miami, limousine service to hotel, hotel room, breakfasts, an evening at the night club offering the best entertainment, access to hotel cabana clubs and other recreational facilities, boat cruise through the Magic Islands and South Bay, and sightseeing through greater Miami and Miami Beach.

Three extensions to the Miami Beach tour are available via airliner to Havana, 67 minutes from Miami; to Nassau, 55 minutes from Miami; or to Jamaica, 3 hours from Miami.

2 Legion Groups To Meet Jointly

The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion and its auxiliary will have a joint meeting in the memorial home in Forsythe Park Monday at 8 p.m.

This will be the meeting held at this time each year for the consideration of child welfare in which the post and auxiliary are both deeply concerned.

FARM SYSTEM IN RUSSIA 'FAILURE'

Former Soviet Expert Says Agricultural Foundation Too Small

BY ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—A former Russian food export says the Russian agricultural system is a failure.

Naum Jasny, author of a new book, "Socialized Agriculture of the U. S. S. R.," writes that the Russians have built an industrial system on an agricultural foundation not large enough to take care of it.

As long as this situation lasts it will be threat to Russian economy, Jasny adds. He sees no signs that the Russians are atempting to remedy the fault. Even if they try to do something, Jasny says, any reorganization may prove "an extremely painful and prolonged process."

For one thing, he says, the peasants were forced into the present Russian system of collectivized and state farming. The Russians took away the property of almost 100,000,000 peasants and placed it in a pool, and farm workers draw their earnings after the state has appropriated its share.

"This obviously means permanent hostility; indeed, it means a sort of permanent civil war that may be concealed," Jasny said in an interview. "This hostility is unlikely to come into the open before a substantial weakening of the Soviet power, but it is going to play a big role when and if the weakening comes."

He continued against conplacency toward Soviet aggression that failure of the farm system does not mean immediate and fatal trouble for Russia. It will not prevent rapid expansion of atomic bomb development, he said, arming on an expanded scale and the expansion of output of consumers' goods.

But he said no state except one with strong political and military power could enforce such an agricultural scheme as Russia has.

"Even a weakening of the political power would inevitably disturb the balance, if not lead to the collapse, of the collective farm system," Jasny writes.

He says Russia cannot go back to older types of farming, with peasants owning or operating individual small farms, because too many horses have been destroyed or otherwise eliminated, and their places have been taken by machinery.

Machinery is suitable for large-scale collective farming, but not peasant farming. Peasant farming won't support more than one-half of the present Russian city population even if the Russians risked going back to this type of agriculture, Jasny says.

He believes the nation will have to find some new form of agriculture, based on the collective use of farm machinery on a large scale, but with a better balance between agricultural and industrial output.

ENTIRE POLICE FORCE INDICTED

Total Of 225 Persons Accused By Grand Jury In 'Corrupt Situation'

PINEVILLE, Ky., April 15.—(AP)—The Bell county grand jury indicted 225 persons yesterday, including Middlesboro's entire police force, in a blow at what the jury foreman called "a corrupt situation."

The indictments cited bootlegging, gambling, violence and corrupt voting practices.

The indictments were announced tonight at the close of a three-day special session of the grand jury called by Circuit Judge R. L. Maddux at the request of Commonwealth Atty. G. R. Drinnon.

Jury Foreman W. R. Lundy summed up conditions in Pineville and Middlesboro, in the southeastern corner of the state, as "a situation closely akin to gangsterism."

The jurors bore down on Middlesboro's 17-man police force, indicting each officer, including Chief Guy Harrell.

"It appears," the report said, that the force "either is grossly lacking in alertness or that its members are wilfully failing to do their duty. This condition has been allowed to exist either by indifference or under . . . special direction and orders."

Operators of seven Middlesboro business establishments were indicted on charges involving slot machines.

Alleged unlawful voting practice indictments were returned against 112 persons.

These indictments, Lundy said, stemmed from a liquor referendum in the Cardinal district. He said lawsuits arising from the election were "so rotten the court of appeals threw the suits back in our laps."

"The court refused to help so our laps."

"The court refused to help so long as 'the people of Bell county don't have backbone enough to clean up their own mess,'" he explained, quoting the court.

Sea Scouts To Cruise Up River

Sgt. J. L. Roberts, skipper of Sea Scout Ship 1, sponsored by the Amvets, has announced the next meeting of the ship will be held in Donaldson Hall in the National Guard armory on South Grand street, Thursday, April 20, 7:30 p.m.

In this meeting, plans for a cruise up the Ouachita River will be made and other important items of interest to the Sea Scouts discussed. Sergeant Roberts said that any boy 14 years old, or older, who is interested in adventure and the love of the sea, is invited to attend this meeting and join the Sea Scouts.

Farm families in Vermont and New York tap about 6,000,000 sugar maple trees each year.

STORES LAUNCH CARPET SHOWING

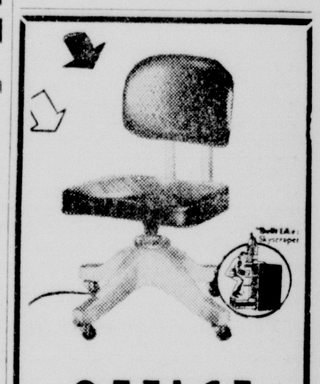

Second Annual Display In Progress; 1950 Floor Coverings Attractive

Leading psychologists say people are constantly looking for change. Fashion, by creating something new, exciting and improved answers this desire. Every year there are new developments and new styles in home furnishings designed to meet the public's current desire for change.

So that the public will know of new developments in wool floor coverings, the carpet industry has created the biggest fashion show on record. From April 17-27 the second annual carpet fashion opening will be staged by retailers across the country.

Your wool floorcoverings are just as important to your room as the right hat or purse is for your newest ensemble. This year carpet stylists are making it easier than ever to select the right carpet for your type of room scheme. Carpet styles are on the upswing on all price levels. Carpet designers seem to have a new appreciation of what home decorators want.

For example texture and sculptured carpets have been high style floorcoverings for several years. Now this high fashion type of carpet has moved into the medium price group and in quantity. This stylists' understanding of public demand and of the carpet designers reputation for leading the field of home furnishings in their creation of better living arrangements for the American home.

Has Trouble Come Into Your Home?

If things are somehow taking a turn for the worse ! ! ! If worry and unhappiness have replaced the peace of mind you used to know, think of this: Maybe what makes it seem so hard to handle is not the trouble itself, but the way you face it!

For whittling a worry down to size calls for a certain kind of strength, a certain point of view. The kind you get from church.

Nothing can take the place of church in your life—in anyone's life.

By turning to religion, by reaffirming their faith, new thousands every day are gathering new strength, new hope, new courage.

Families, finding themselves through faith, are being brought close, becoming real families, strong against the world, happier, more tolerant among themselves.

Young folk, finding themselves through faith, are learning the true values that make them want to spurn the false. Men and women of the workaday world are gaining a new sense of "the balance of things" . . . the inner security that brings success to work as well as to life . . . by finding themselves through faith.

Can you honestly say that things have been better for you, going it alone? Or wouldn't you rather join these neighbors . . . and find a happier, more successful life—through FAITH!

Find yourself through faith—come to church today

Mary Margaret McBride: "I want to make a plea for neglected children. I mean the boys and girls growing up without religious teaching, without knowing that happiness and goodness are related. They will thank you always for taking them to church."

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, church school superintendent.

Christ's life here assures us of his kinship with us on earth; his ascension enables us to feel our kinship with Him in heaven. Earth is not more lonely because of his return to heaven, but heaven becomes more clearly the home to which our hearts are to turn. He went before in order to welcome us when we are summoned to follow. But for the present struggle of life also, His ascension has its significance.

You are invited to attend the services at the Claiborne Methodist each Sunday.

Services are:

Sunday: Church School, 9:45 a.m. Morning Worship Service, 10:50 a.m. Youth Fellowship 6:30 p.m Evangelistic services, 7:30 p.m.
Monday: W. S. C. S. meets 2:00 p.m. Board of stewards meet 7:30 p.m.
Wednesday: Mid-week services 7:30 p.m.

You are always welcome at Claiborne.

Our church constantly strives to offer to the public a strong program of education in the revealed truths of God's word and a vigor- our preaching of the Bible as the infallible rule of faith and practice. We appreciate the fine support we are receiving from our church members and the people of our community. We invite suggestions from our friends for making the goals attainable. Our Aim: Bible-centered preaching — Bible-centered living. Help us attain our aims.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
224 Auburn Ave.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 16, 1950.

The Golden Text is: "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous" (I John 2:1).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus said, For judgment I am come into this world, that they which see not might see" (John 9:39).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus represented Christ, the true idea of God" (p. 316).

Listen in on a 15 minute radio broadcast Sunday at 9:30 a.m. over radio station KNOE.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa

Ernest D. Holloway, minister.

Your cooperation and the leading of God, the Holy Spirit, made Easter, Sunday, April 9th, one of the truly great days in the history of our congregation. The attendances were large and the ingathering was satisfactory. It is only an evidence of what can be done when "people have a mind to work."

"The Harvest in Japan" is the theme of the morning message. Our guest preacher is Mr. John Brady, who is to represent us in the foreign missions field. The son of a Presbyterian minister, reared in the manse, educated in Japan, Davidson College, and Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, he is qualified from every point to do the job he is to undertake. He will speak at the Sunday School hour, the morning worship and the Youth of the Church Vespers. Hear him!

"The Law Fulfilled: More Light Thereon" is the subject of the evening message, seven thirty o'clock.

May 14th is the Day. This is the day we are to enter the Educational Building, if all goes well. The leaders have set as a goal in attendance 500. You will be expected.

A cordial greeting and a sincere welcome await you at all hours of worship.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.: SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday April 23 Bible Comment
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Some eight centuries before Christ, Amos lived and prophesied in the Northern Kingdom of Israel. That is a long time ago, and if the prophecy of Amos has any meaning or application for today, it is because Amos spoke some timeless word of God concerning man's right relation to God, and man's just and right relation to his fellowmen.

These words apply to every age and society, and particularly to our own time.

Amos prophesied in the Northern Kingdom of Israel, and before we look into the life and conditions in that Kingdom, it might be well to look ahead and see what happened to a Kingdom that disregarded the words of Amos and his plea for personal integrity and social righteousness.

In not much more than a hundred years that Kingdom went down in ruin before the invading hosts of Syria, never to be re-established, and its scattered people came to be known in history as "The Lost Ten Tribes of Israel."

There is a warning for all in what happens to seemingly prosperous, but ungodly, individuals. "Therefore, let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall!"

And there is a similar warning which, even in the hour of their greatest prosperity, neglect the elemental matters of righteousness and social justice. If righteousness exalteth a nation, it is equally true that unrighteousness corrupts and destroys.

The great significance of some of the Minor Prophets is that they spoke and wrote in times of the greatest seeming prosperity, when no great peril loomed, when many lived in extravagance and luxury, and the evidence of wealth were on every hand.

The significance of this is that these prophets saw beneath the surface into the evils and unjust conditions that were sapping the foundations of this seeming prosperity. They saw the neglect of the poor and needy, the exploitation and oppresion, the false standards and evil in personal living.

Deeper than all, thay saw the perversion and corruption of religion itself, which made much of formal observance of rites and sacrifices, but which neglected the weightier matters of the law and justice, and had nothing of the sacrifice of contrite hearts.

Much of this is observed in details; in what the prophets saw and in what thay rebuked, and in it. Our attention just now is upon Amos, a herdsman, or farmer, a clear-eyed man of the out-of-doors, who came into the city, and spoke plainly to the city people about what he found there.

We shall see how much of what he said strikes home at our life today.

CUB SCOUTERS IN FIELD DAY

Big Camp Ki-Ro-Li Outing Planned On Saturday May 20

A Cub-o-Ree, or field day, for Cub Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council is to be held Saturday, May 20, at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. Cub pack leaders present at a recent Cub leaders' roundtable meeting indicated their packs would participate in this unusual event, so several hundred Cubs are expected to be present for the affair.

J. C. Crawford, council Cub Scout commissioner, will be general chairman of the day's program. He is being assisted by Alex Lea, Mark Ringheim, J. E. Ross, S. E. Burgoyne, Henry Princehouse, and Hal Bynum. Other Cubbers in the council are also being recruited to work on various committees for the project.

The Cub-o-Ree program will begin at 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon and close with a campfire program at 7:30 p.m. On the program are Cub games, a midway, and side shows with all Cub Scout dens in the council participating. Side shows will include a minstrel, a spook show, magician acts, Cub tricks, Cub stunts, fortune telling, and similar shows to be seen in a real carnival. Cub Scouts will be the actors in each show and every Cub Scout in the council is expected to take some part in the events of the day.

Supper on the Cub-o-Ree program will be picnic style with each Cub eating with his own family. In some cases, families will join together in neighborhood groups for the picnic supper.

After supper, a special Cub campfire program is being arranged. Mark Ringheim, who is in charge of this event, has already made plans for a group of Shreveport scouts to put on an unusual Indian dance feature. These scouts are very proficient in the art of Indian dancing and have performed in several large scout programs in north Louisiana. Other interesting features are also being planned for the campfire program.

Attending the meeting in which the Cub-O-Ree program was discussed were: Mark Ringheim, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. D. G. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Crawford, Mrs. John McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Burgoyne, Mrs. Frank Parrino, Mrs. Carroll Roundtree, Mrs. Hazel Smith, Mrs. O. J. Eaves, Alex Lea, Henry Princehouse W. W. Stevens, Jones B. Huskey, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ross.

Patrolman Who Saved Two Takes Own Life

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—city patrolman who once saved two persons from drowning ended his own life Friday.

Thomas Olsen, 42, a member of the police force 13 years, drank a cup of coffee in a diner, then walked to the washroom and killed himself with his service revolver, the proprietor told police.

"My dear wife—please forgive me. I think I have cancer. God bless you and the children," a note found in the patrolman's pocket said.

85-Foot Jump Proves Fatal To Judge's Daughter

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—An 85-foot fall from a bridge proved fatal tonight to Miss Ann Edgerton, 28, daughter of Judge Henry W. Edgerton of the U. S. court of appeals.

She was critically injured early this morning when she jumped from a bridge which carries Massachusetts avenue over the Rock Creek parkway. Several motorists saw the leap.

For several hours authorities were unable to identify her.

Judge and Mrs. Edgerton confirmed the identification tonight at emergency hospital where she died but gave no explanation for their daughter's action.

It was understood that she had not been living at the family home for some days.

Police said she had been under treatment by a psychiatrist.

Boxer Owes Life To Part Beagle Friend

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 15.—(AP)—A two-year-old boxer, impaled for a week on a barbed-wire fence, owes his life to his tiny part-dachschund, part-beagle friend.

And, too, the boxer seems to realize it.

The story is told by Richard Miller, a farmer near here, and a little neighbor boy, five-year-old Robert (Bobby) Unkel. Archie is Bobby's pet; Fritzy is Miller's.

Bobby let Archie out of his house the morning of Monday, April 3. Archie didn't come home that evening. Bobby and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Unkel, spent six days and seven nights in a fruitless hunt.

Then, on Easter morning, Miller came to the Unkel home carrying the mangled, near-dead Archie in his arms. He had found the boxer caught in a barbed-wire fence on his farm.

Miller said he had become curious when he noticed Fritzy had been carrying her food away each time she was fed. Miller said he followed her—and learned the reason. She had been carrying her food to Archie. Food scraps in the vicinity indicated to Miller it was not the first meal Fritzy had carried to the prisoner.

Veterinarians at first thought Archie wouldn't live. But when Fritzy visited him today, they knew he would. Be bounded to her side nuzzled her with a big "hello," and, in general, acted like a guy who knew a friend when he saw one.

BOARD APPROVES SCHOOL REPAIRS

Also Votes To Take Closer Look At Teacher Leaves With Pay

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15.—(AP)—Louisiana's board of education approved nearly $2,000,000 in school construction and improvement and voted to take a closer look at teacher leaves with pay.

Major construction projects were a $700,000 chemistry building at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, and a $600.000 science building at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

The board approved working drawings and authorized advertisement for bids on the first and. on the second, approved preliminary plans and authorized working drawings.

The lengthy meeting, preceded by closed committee sessions, was climaxed with a discussion of policy concerning teachers' leaves of absence with pay. Members voted to reivew at their May 13 meeting a policy formulated two years ago which limits paid leaves to teachers with five years of service and requires that this off-duty time be spent on further study.

The same resolution also approved leave requests from Southwestern Louisiana Institute and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, provided they comply with this policy. Presidents of all state colleges administered by the board were directed to submit a list of the names of teachers for whom such leaves are requested.

The board asked the state division of administration, in preparing legislative appropriation requests, to give "first consideration should there be funds available" to capital outlay needs of three Negro institutions—Grambling College, Southern University and the school for Negro deaf and blind. The resolution said the recommendation was made "in view of the fact that these schools received no capital outlay funds from the 1948 legislature."

Southern University was also authorized to seek a $59,000 deficiency appropriation from the 1950 legislature, which meets for 60 days beginning May 8.

An all-Negro citizens committee appeared before the board's finance committee Wednesday to request the board to seek $10,324,946 in appropriations for Southern and Grambling from the legislature. The committee's report was received today by the board, but no action was taken.

Capital outlay requests from S. L. I., Northwestern, L. I. P., Southeastern and the State School for the Deaf and Blind were submitted to the division of administration "without recommendation."

Amend Ruling On Cotton Acreage

An amendment to the 1950 cotton allotment law has recently been enacted by congress and was signed by the president on March 31st, according to an announcement by Mr. L. A. Mullin, chairman of the Louisiana state PMA committee. The amendment permits two principal changes in allotments. The first allows each farm an allotment of not less than 65 per cent of the average planted to cotton for the three years 1946, 1947, 1948, or 45 per cent of the highest acreage planted to cotton during any one of these three years, whichever figure is the higher. In no case, however, can any farm allotment be increased under this law to more than 40 per cent of the cropland on the farm.

In order to have his allotment refigured and qualify for an increase under this provision, the farmer must apply in writing at the parish PMA office not later than April 20th. A request cannot be accepted after that date. No revision in allotment will be made unless the farmer files a request.

Curtailment Seen In State Expenditures

MANDEVILLE, La., April 15.—(AP)—Mayor Leon Gary of Houma anticipates a curtailment of Louisiana state expenditures during the next biennium.

Gary told newsmen here yesterday that he based his prediction on a recent conference with Gov. Earl K. Long.

"The governor told me that most state agencies are going to have to cut down expenditures because of reductions in revenue income" Gary said.

The Houma mayor said the governor did not indicate where the budget cuts might be made.

Gary is here attending the Louisiana municipal association meeting. He is chairman of the association's legislative committee.

In New Orleans, the city's finance commissioner, Lionel Ott, said he would ask the legislature to give the cities more of the cigarette tax money.

FISH LOOK GOOD—ON A STRING

Want To Go Fishing? Here's The Places

By Otis Hassell
(Morning World Corresponent)

WINNSBORO, La., — So you want to go fishing, huh? Well that is only natural. Hear it is spring again and the backwater which did so much damage early in the year, has also restocked the lakes and streams in this section of Louisiana, with all kinds of fish.

The water is going down and fishing is getting good. You had better dig some worms, get your hook and line, get your minnow bucket ready, or you may use a fly rod or a casting rod. It makes no difference what kind of equipment you use, the idea is, it is time to go fishing, now!

We in north-east Louisiana are lucky, as for as fashing is concerned, because we live in the middle of a network of lakes and rivers that keep us supplied with what seems to be an inexaustable supply of fish near Winnsboro, the cat-fish are biting good in Big creek now and at Indian lake and Big lake which are north east of Winnsboro and near Crowville, the Bream have started to bite. It is also reported that fish are being caught at Moon lake and Dean lake. Dean lake is located east of Gilbert.

West of Wisner, on Turkey brake, the two best places to fish are at King's bridge and Simms lake. When the fish start biting here you need some one to help you keep your hook baited, because you will not be able to put the bait on fast enough by your self. Any where on Tensas river and in all the small lakes near it the fishing will soon be good.

At Sicily Island, bar fish are being caught at Lake Louie, and as soon as the water goes down a little more white perch will bite and the bass will start striking. Lake Louie is a large lake, approximately nine miles in length, and for spring and summer fishing, it can't be beat.

Other lakes near Sicily Island, where the fishing is good, or will be soon, are-Wells, Little Wells, Tiffies, Twins and Brown lakes.

This summer, when the Ouachita river gets down to low stage at Harrisonburg and the needles are put in the dam there, the swift water below the dam is an ideal fishing place. The fish are so thick here at times that when wading in the shallow water you can feel them hitting your feet and legs. Near Harrisonburg, on the Enterprise road, Sargent lake and Big lake are also good fishing places.

Fish are now being caught at Hoover lake (between Foules and Clayton) and at Fletcher lake which is located north of Clayton. Lake St. John and Concordia lake, north of Ferriday, are two large lakes in which the fishing is good the entire year, but more fish are caught here during the spring and summer than at any other time. Lake Bruin, located north of St. Joseph, in Tensas parish is another large lake in which the fishing is good all the year.

Horseshoe lake, in Concordia parish is just right for fishing now. Large white perch "crappie" and blue Bream are being caught. This lake is located on Black river below Jonesville. To get to the lake from Ferriday, you should go 8 miles on the road toward Jonesville, turn left on a gravel road, go 8 miles more, then you will be at Horseshoe lake.

At most of these lakes you will be able to rent a boat and buy bait, and at some of them cabins are for rent, in case you wish to stay over-night or for the week-end.

Fishing is one of the most healthful, exciting and enjoyable sports, and also, when we are lucky enough to catch a good "mess", they taste mighty good, too. Lets go fishing, shall we?

ALA KAHN IN LONDON

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—Prince Aly Khan flew into London today from Cannes determined to see the Hurst park horse races today despite a cast on his broken right leg.

Aly Khan, who broke his leg in a skiing accident at Gstaad, Switzerland, on Feb. 18, said he and his wife, Rita Hayworth, are coming to England "as soon as I am able to walk again."

Young German Girl Gets Her Letter In Contest—After All

By Camillo Noel
(City Editor Donau Kurier)

Maria Treittinger, born at Ingolstadt, Germany, ten days after war broke loose in Europe (September 10, 1939), is a wellgrown girl with a round, soft face, large blue eyes and plenty of blonde curls, that lay around her head like a circle. She is very shy, as many children are, who have suffered the panic of war.

Only her mother is still alive. Her father, an official of the German Railroad, was killed in the basement of a church, when the tower of the church fell upon and crashed it at Ingolstadt April 21, 1945. Maria says she still remembers her daddy very well, but she does not like to talk about it, because it makes her cry. Her mother lives on a small pension granted by the Railroad, together with her three children and her parents in three rooms at one of the narrow streets in the center of Ingolstadt. Maria's favorite work is knitting.

In December, 1949 when the Monroe-Ingolstadt contest was published for the first time, Maria started wondering as she looked at a printed skyline of Monroe, how people live in this far-away town. Despite the fact that her English is not very good yet, she tried hard to write a letter for the contest but ran into serious trouble with the English language. After several starts she gave up in sheer despair and started to cry at school. Finally she decided to write the letter in German, hoping that an exception would be made since she had tried so hard in English and just could not do it.

At the first formal screening of the letters at Ingolstadt, Maria's had to be rejected, but everyone did regret.

Mrs. Juliane Herrmann, her English teacher, gave her good assistance in translating her German letter into English. Says Maria: "You know, it is wonderful for a child, that never could leave Ingolstadt to write a letter over the ocean, and the people there will understand your words. The first time I failed, but in about a year I will be good enough at the English language to write a letter all by myself. And then I hope there will be a little girl at Monroe, who will give me an answer."

Conditions In Korea Explained By Wife Of American Missionary

By Oland Silk
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Korea is that small peninsular tempest on the edge of the teapot of Asia.

For many years now that nation—currently divided into Soviet and American zones—has been the subject of newspaper reports telling of political unrest, Communist infiltration and numerous other maladies. For those who know nothing of the place, as who does, an invitation is in order to read this story told by the wife of an ex-missionary who spent five years there planting seeds of westernization and Christian principles.

Mrs. Earl B. Emmerich, wife of Rev. Emmerich, pastor of the Methodist Church in Rayville, is a middle-aged friendly brunette who maintains that "it was a mistake to divide Korea into two nations", implying great damage had been done the national spirit of the proud Korean people.

She and her husband were sent there as educational missionaries in the early thirties—one child was born there—and during that time of Japanese domination, formed several conclusions about dictatorship, the Korean people, and the future of the 20,000,000 inhabitants.

The Koreans had been under control of Japan since 1910, she said. Although the governor-general of Korea during their early stay was a Christian, humane man, evidence that a militaristic regime was developing became apparent during the Japan-China clash over Manchuria. Mrs. Emmerich felt that the war lords who purged the government of liberal elements sold their country down the river. In that purge before Pearl Harbor, the humane governor-general was assassinated.

She said that the Koreans, an intelligent people, identified themselves with the Palestinians, whom they felt were as they—constantly at "crossroads." The crossroads at which Korea constantly finds itself has been true of most of its topsy-turvy history. One foreign influence or another has been exerted over the small domain, known as "the land of the morning calm," for centuries.

Alternately the shadow of Japanese, Chinese, and Russian powers has been juxtaposed at one time or another over Korea. It is a wonder that they possess a fierce pride in being Koreans.

But that is the case. From Mrs. Emmerich's observations and experiences, it was clear that a disunited Korea wouldn't have been the solution to the division of war spoils had they had a say in the matter.

What evidences were there that Christianity had gained a foothold in Korea? "Most of the leaders in Korea have been educated in Christian schools," she said. Where the missionaries had failed to penetrate the masses, leaders superseded them to take on the long task of instruction.

As for acceptance of American ideas, they seemingly prefer them to sovietized North Korea. Mrs. Emmerich said that hundreds had slipped over into the Amerixan zone, at least imparting indication that the ways of the west have drawing power.

She said that during their stay in Korea, getting the churches full was no problem. "They came to prayer meetings at the crack of dawn." She stated in so many words, however, that just how much was curiosity and how much was interest in the Lord, she didn't know.

The Koreans live on rice, millet and kimchi, the latter consisting of several elements odious to the southern ear. They are a peaceful people, although evidences of violence is not a rarity. She said that the Communist influence seethed during their stay. She said they heard a lot more about it than did the Americans. But she added that the depression had us preoccupied then, and thus made such lack of knowledge understandable.

One of the misconceptions Mrs. Emmerich wished to clear up was that missionaries were thought to be in the dismal corners of the globe with nothing around them but heathens. Such an idea could not be further from the truth. "In fact, we were a lot more cosmopolitan than we are here in Rayville. We were constantly meeting incoming visitors and entertaining them—of all nations." And preaching was not the sole task of the missionary. Besides the evangelistic, there were the educational and medical missions.

Since the Second World War, with America having a great stake in the far east, Korea has brought about a problem for diplomacy. Just how much easier that will be because of the influence Christian missionaries is a question time will answer. In the meantime, it will be interesting to watch —whither Christianity in Korea and whither the bilions of Americans aid?

Nobody Loves Sparrows After First 100 Years

By Joe Wing

A smart, bustling immigrant with ways obnoxious to old line Americans landed on these shores just a hundred years ago.

Now, here's the surprise ending to the story:

The immigrant is still noisy, still a pest, and even an economic menace. A whole century in the melting pot has softened only a few of the manners of the English sparrow.

Familiar to more Americans perhaps than any other bird, the English sparrow is no more English than European.

Even in its homelands, it has a dubious reputation.

Immigrants Brought Them

Not realizing or not caring about that, Americans newly arrived from the old country often made attempts in the last century to introduce Old World species. They wanted familiar birds about them and, in some instances, they wanted certain birds propagated to combat insects.

Eight sparrows reached the Brooklyn Institute in 1850 but did not thrive. The following year a larger lot landed at New York and soon started multiplying. During the next 30 years, there were 19 additional importations. By 1913 the sparrow had spread all over this country, much of Canada and Mexico and invaded San Diego, last city to be reached.

"Few if any other birds have displayed in this country an adaptability and a determination to survive equaled by the English sparrow," comments a department of agriculture expert.

The score against the English sparrow is threefold:

First, it eats much grain. Experts figure that adult birds' good habits are only 20 percent beneficial to man, and 55 percent harmful. The fact that nestlings reverse this with a score of 59 percent beneficial and 29 percent harmful does not fully offset the damage.

Second, it drives out native birds such as bluebirds, purple martins, robins, wrens and swallows.

Third, it spreads barnyard diseases.

This record is in considerable contrast to that of another immigrant bird, the starling. Although the starling bullies native birds and makes a nuisance of itself by flocking in cities, its food habits have been found mostly beneficial.

The English sparrow has received credit for controlling the dropworm which used to damage shade trees in cities. There are still outbreaks of this pest however and there may have been faulty observation concerning the sparrow's effects on it.

Tricky Travelers Elude Authorities

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

State, local and federal officers are still wondering who they were chasing in the hills of Union parish last Wednesday afternoon, Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

These guys—the ones the pursuers thought they were after — had also eluded a widespread police dragnet centered about the little community of Leton, 17 miles north of Minden.

The thing however that puzzles the officers is: the three bandits were taken into custody early Thursday morning—in Virginia, of all places.

"But who were we chasing?" they're asking one another.

Here's what made them believe that they were were after who they thought they were after:

In Farmerville, a green 1949 Pontiac club coupe, bearing West Virginia license plates and answering the description of the car the three desperadoes had been traveling' speeded passed a funeral procession.

Deputy Marshall Carl Miller, who was with the procession, gave chase to the speeding vehicle, after four miles on the Sterlinqton road however, the Pontiac out-ran the marshall's car and he was forced to quit the chase.

State police were promptly notified and road blocks were set up. Supposedly trapping the car and its occupants in the hills of east Union parish.

Then officers began pouring in the area, heavily armed and ready for the kill or capture. Everybody was sure the three would not elude this trap.

The dragnet began to tighten. Scattered farm homes in the vicinity were alerted. Farmers were asked: "Have you seen a 1949 green Pontiac pass here in the pass hour or so?"

Some said yes; others said they had not. Then it got dark. A light rain late in the afternoon had made the numerous rural roads muddy and damp. Officers were getting hungry, sleepy and tired of being led on a merry-go-round chase by what they thought were three "slippery" desperadoes. Yet the officers "knew" the men and the green car were somewhere in the hills because all roads leading out of them were blocked.

The dragnet was in the vicinity of Spencer, Bernice, Junction City, Ark., Hales, Liberty Church, Sterlington, Farmerville and the Alabama landing.

Midnight passed and morning came. Still no luck. At about 4 a.m. Thursday, the officers began reporting back to their headquarters, but others still watched roads and highways leaving the area.

Then came the report that the three had been taken into custody in Virginia—the dragnet dissolved silently, and farmers and their families once more could relax.

But who were the riders, the ones in the green Pontiac club coupe, the ones who eluded the dragnet?

Among those still attempting to figure that one out are: State Police Lt. Omah Muckleroy; State Troopers David W. Chennault, M. P. Deen, H. L. Cornett, and Cloyd W. Edwards; Union Parish Sheriff George Miller Edwards, Morehouse Parish Sheriff Robert Harp and his deputy, W. H. Griffin, and FBI Agents Harry Roberts and Tommy Wilson.

BRIDGETENDERS GIVE LOWDOWN ON JOB

The lives to two bridgetenders—the ones that operate and keep the new traffic bridge clean—have an interesting, but "lonely" life. Curse The Bridge Tender If You Must, But He's Pretty Important To Us

By Jim Reynolds
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Do you ever recall wondering just what the life of a lighthouse keeper is like? Well, we do . . . and we've never really found out. Of course, lighthouses are sort of scarce in Monroe, to put it mildly, and for a while we were resigned to living in ignorance of the solitary life.

A short while ago, though, we got to thinking about the existence of a bridge tender, the man who opens the drawbridge just as you're rushing to make an important appointment, a man who probably collects more invective and curses in one hour of his necessary labor than most of us do in a week.

After all, we thought, a bridge tender is probably the closest approximation of a lighthouse keeper that we can find this side of the gulf.

The problem of finding a bridge tender, however, isn't quite as simple as it might seem at first glance. The DeSiard street bridge is manned by one of the several policemen assigned to the duty daily. After all, policemen don't quite qualify as full-time bridgemen. No, for a good story, we had to find the real "McCoy."

We did discover a real McGee—that was close. But we also discovered that this McGee, J. C. McGee, to be exact, operated the Illinois Central bridge. We disqualified Mr. McGee on the grounds that the traffic over his bridge was pretty regularly scheduled, and that he thus missed half the adventure of a bridge tender to whom anything might happen. Maybe we're wrong, but we kept searching.

Success crowned our efforts when we finally located Florien Rodriguez, tender of the North Traffic Bridge in Monroe.

For the past five months, Rodriguez has been one of the men in charge of opening and closing the span carrying highway 80 traffic. Employed by the state, he is in complete charge of bridge operation and maintenance from six a.m. to six p.m.

Rodriguez and his co-worker, W. T. Miles, who handles the night and early morning shift, manage to provoke Twin Cities motorists to the point of apoplexy several times a month. To hear it discussed by the irate drivers, you might picture the bridge tenders as rascally, evil creatures, who deliberately lie in wait for the hurried autoist, only to delay him indials reminiscent of a "Flash Gordon" instrument panel.

We went along with the bridge tender on a tour of the innards of the monster structure—down winding steps, across catwalks and finally ont on a ledge under the bridge, just over the Ouachita river. As we walked, climbed and descended, Rodriguez pointed out the features of the opening mechanism, the huge concrete counterweights, the great geared arc which lifts the leaves of the bridge into the air and the maze of minor mechanical marvels that insure smooth operation of the behemoth mechanism.

"It takes almost a full ten minutes to get the bridge completely open," he said and just about a long to drop the leaves back into position." Recalling the few times we've been stopped on the bridge to allow the passage of a tug along the river, his estimate seemed unduly optimistic. Maybe it just seems longer.

What, we wondered, did the tender do all day? "Well," said Rodriguez, "I get up in time to eat and then relieve Mr. Miles. As soon as it gets light enough, I switch off the bridge lights—the white street lamps which light the road, and the red pilot lights along the underside of the structure."

"After I get the lights off and checked, burned-out bulbs replaced and so forth, it's about time to clean the place up. You know, when you have a broom in your hand and a job ahead of you, this bridge can look awful big." We followed his gaze, taking in the expanse of freshly-swept pavement, and understood his unhappy tone.

"After sweeping up, I usually make another complete round of the machine area, and clean up the little house where I live. It's right here on the pavement, you can see, so I can be at home and on the job at the same time." Rodriquez continued, "From then on, I just sort of wander around. Some days I sit at the Monroe end of the bridge and watch the traffic come past. Once in a while, a friend drops by, and we sit and talk. Just talk."

There's a democratic note in the fact that Rodriguez divides his time between the east and west ends of the bridge. "Sort of a change of scene," he says.

In many ways, the bridge tender displays the same affection for the landlocked structure that the legendary lighthouse keeper is supposed to expend on his tower of safety. Rodriguez is a bachelor, and thus has few family and home ties that could keep him from giving his complete attention to his duties.

The operation of the opening and closing machinery takes little of his time on duty. On the average, he says, the bridge is opened only about five times a month. During the high water period just passed, passage of anything much larger than a rowboat meant the opening of the bridge, but Rodriguez adds, "Luckily there wasn't much traffic."

At the moment, Rodriguez is campaigning among his supervisors for a complete overhaul of the electrical equipment on the bridge. "One of these days she'll just up and break down on me," he added gloomily, "and then what am I going to do?"

We left a few minutes later, trying to shake off the strange feeling that Monroe's bridge tender was pacing the pavement behind us like a retired skipper treading the catwalk of a stormy lighthouse. Rodriguez had summed up his job before we left. "Doesn't pay much, but the work's not hard . . . and it's pretty quiet."

It sure is.

Jacoby Solves Arithmetic In His Head

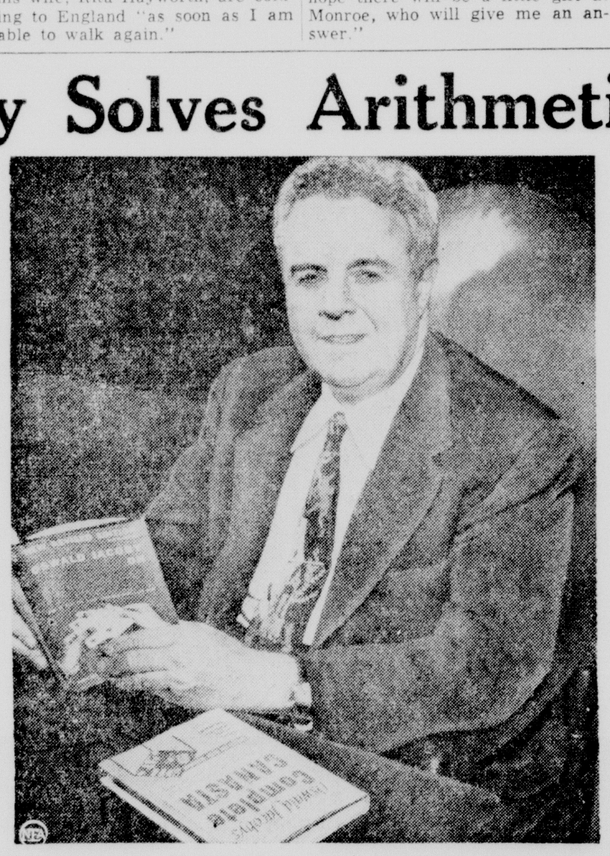

By Richard Kleiner

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Oswald Jacoby is a tremendous man with a shock of graying hair, a pair of twinkling blue eyes and three characteristics that help make him probably the world's outstanding card player and teacher.

He is an expert mathematician and can do complicated problems in his head. He has a terrific memory. And he can concentrate steadily for hours.

Combined, these features make Jacoby the fastest bridge player in the country and one of the most feared competitors in tournaments. He is equally well known as a writer on card playing, and has succeeded the late William E. McKenney as bridge, canasta and cards columnist for NEA Service and the Monroe News-Star — World.

Besides his fabulous card playing ability, which earned him countless titles and canasta player of 1949, Jacoby is noted as one of the card world's unique characters.

Oswald Jacoby—Mathematics, memory and a best seller.

On the day the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, Jacoby was playing in a bridge tournament in Richmond, Va. When the announcement of the sneak attack was made, he was dummy. He listened to the fateful words, pushed back his chair and left.

He didn't play a serious game of bridge from that moment until the final weeks of the war, when he was a lieutenant-commander in the navy, stationed at Pearl Harbor.

One of Jacoby's outstanding traits is his amazing memory. He remembers, for example, that the bid at the table in Richmond when he left in 1941 was two clubs. With a little study, he might even remember what cards he held.

His memory showed itself early. When he was two, an aunt was reciting Mother Goose rhymes to him from memory, and Ossie caught her in several mistakes, reference to the book proving him right.

He played his first cards when he was six. A sickly boy, he spent long hours in bed, reading the bridge column in the newspaper. That was even before auction bridge, and there was no bidding. He also learned other card games during those bouts with illnesses.

At 15, his health had improved and he enlisted in the army during World War I. His card playing ability had improved, too; he supplemented his $30-a-week pay by some judicious poker playing.

The war ended a month after Jacoby got into uniform, and still 15, he entered Columbia University. He jokingly says his family is getting duller each generation; his father made Columbia at 14, while his eldest son, James, now a freshman at Notre Dame, was 16 when he entered.

Brooklyn-born Jacoby quit college after two years. He says he thought he didn't need any more college education. He passed exams for the Society of Actuaries, the youngest person ever to meet the stiff standards of the insurance statisticians.

At 21, he was an actuary for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. gaining another first as the youngest working actuary in the world. He retired at 25, figuring he had enough money for the rest of his life. "I found I was wrong a year later—in 1929," he says.

Since then, while he still works as a consulting actuary, he has been devoting most of his time to what he calls "card experting." He writes books on cards, including "How to Win at Canasta," which was the best non-fiction seller of 1949, and "Complete Canasta," which sold 53,000 copies in the first two months after it was published this year. He has also written books on poker, gin rummy and Oklahoma.

Jacoby spends much of his time lecturing on cards, and his travels have created a legend among card players that he never stands still.

At a party, for example, a timid woman asked a mutual friend whether she ought to approach the famous expert with a question.

"Ossie'll be glad to answer your question," the friend said, "but by the time he finishes answering it he'll be in another room."

Equally legendary is Jacoby's appetite, which is said to require a large slab of strawberry shortcake, followed by a couple of steaks, then four or five more desserts—eclaires, pie a la mode, French pastries.

Jacoby admits this was true once, although now he's on a diet and eats only a couple of desserts. Besides, he adds, he never smokes or drinks coffee.

At 47, Jacoby also is an expert tennis player. He won a veteran's title in Dallas, Tex., where he now lives, in 1948. His wife, Mary, was National Public Parks champion when she was 20; they met on a tennis court and married a week later. Both their sons, James, now 17, and Jon, 12, are good players.

All the Jacobys like cards. Although his wife's favorite game is poker, she mastered bridge well enough to place second with Jacoby in the National Mixed Team in 1934, after winning the Eastern Mixed Team.

Canasta, Jacoby feels, is here to stay. He thinks it takes more psychology and common sense than bridge, and has fewer rules.

"Playing tough canasta," Jacoby says, "is very hard work. Every play is a problem. In bridge, you're a dummy once in a while and get to relax, but not in canasta."

Last year he offered to give $5000 to charity if any pair could beat him and his partner, John Crawford, at canasta. Sam Fry, Jr., and Theodore Lightner took up the challenge.

"It was the toughest game of any sort I ever played," Jacoby says. "We won by 5600 points."

What makes canasta so popular, he feels, is that "it's the first card game ever developed that has universal appeal. Children love the game. Players of different abilities can play together and all have fun. Stakes are unimportant, too—you can play canasta without stakes and enjoy it."

There's only one weakness to canasta, Jacoby says, "and that's that people play too much of it."

For any card game, Jacoby believes, the four traits that make a good player are the ability to:

1. Pay constant attention.
2. Vary your game to fit your opponents.
3. Play objectively—with concern only for the hand in question.
4. Fit your game to your partner, in a partnership game.

Census Will Show What's In A Name

BY WILLIAM J. CONWAY

Census takers are now making their rounds asking all of us our names. Sounds like a simple job. But it really isn't.

Those who collect names as a hobby know that the census enumerators work in a field filled with pitfalls. So, it seems in order to give these enumerators some gratuitous advice.

Suppose, Mr. Enumerator, a fellow tells you he is John Burns. Don't let it go at that. His given name may not be John at all but Jan, Jon, Jhan — or even Ian.

And that "Burns" well could turn out to be Berns, Birns, Burnes or Byrnes.

Of course, there is no need to warn you if you already know someone named Pearce, Pearse, Peerce, Peirce or just plain Pierce.

You can't be too careful about spelling. You'll run across many O'Keefes but don't run too fast lest you stumble on an O'Keeffe.

And — watch it now — you're likely to find both Waggoners and Wagners in Wagoner, Okla.

You'll learn that it's the little things that count. A relatively small number of citizens, Vera-Ellen Rohe among them, insist upon a hyphen.

You can print eden ahbez in small letters from start to finish. He prefers it that way.

Names are something like clothing. People can wear any combination they wish. Edward Everett Horton and Edna S. Vincent Millay wear three on even the hottest days. Joe E. Brown and John L. Lewis wear the coat and pants, and leave the fancy vests — Evan and Llewellyn — at home.

Enumerators the last time out came up with some unique combinations indeed. Such as Carbon Petroleum Dubbs, Early Christmas Bennett and States Rights Finley.

Collectors will be poised to pounce on names as distinctive as those. They'll be wondering, too, if times has made any changes in war-time names.

Remember two babies born the day of the invasion of France began? One was called Invasia Mae Renfrow and the other Dee Day Edwards. There also was a lad christened SteVen. The "V", capitalized, was for victory.

That's all, Mr. Enumerator, except when you get to Racine, Wis., please find out if there really is a person named Oofty Goofty Bowman.

Exhibitors Adopt Slogan 'Movies Are Better Than Ever' For 1950; List Local Attractions For Next Few Weeks

PLAN TO INFORM PUBLIC OF IDEAS

Aggressive Program Devised To Produce Better Pictures This Year

An aggressive program to inform the public of the outstanding motion pictures coming from Hollywood to the nation's theaters was disclosed today by local theater managers following their return from an important national meeting of more than 200 motion picture exhibitors.

This program is directly based on the calibre of the films scheduled for 1950 which will definitely satisfy the needs of the public in their demands for ever finer film entertainment.

The main points of the program discussed at the two-day conference were:

1. Constant striving for better pictures through better subject material.

2. Getting honest information to patrons about these films in advance so they can plan their amusement budget.

3. Promotion of public service methods wherein the theater can best serve the community in which it is situated.

In connection with the first point, it was observed that the year 1950 will see a tremendous upsurge in the production of unusually important motion pictures.

"Never has Hollywood provided so much for such a small part of the public's entertainment dollar. The resources of the studios are at their highest, a fact borne out by the $2,600,000,000 capital investment in addition to a payroll of $706,000,000. This tremendous effort backed by $65,700,000 a year for advertising filters into every community in the country including our own. Thousands of dollars of revenue in federal and state corporate taxes provided by the motion picture industry contribute to our own local government. In dollars and cents, as well as in the amount of pleasure offered for our citizens, this vast industry is marshalling its forces to present its most significant contribution in the many years it has been in existence.

"For example, the Paramount theater here has booked such pictures as "Samson and Delilah," "Red Shoes," "Twelve O'Clock High," "Cindarella," and "Riding High," while the Joy will show "Ambush," "Key to the City," "Battleground," "Nancy Goes to Rio," and "Secret Garden."

"This assemblage of motion pictures is no happy accident. The producers of our films have geared themselves to pesent pictures of the highest quality in the months to come."

Another important point on the meeting's agenda was a discussion of ways and means to provide complete information about these films in advance. The attitutde of the motion picture companies in this regard, it was explained, was to offer the public honest and concise facts about the pictures so that the public will know about the fine film entertainment for all the family coming to the nation's theaters.

'Sand Of Iwo Jima' Coming To Drive-In

"Sands of Iwo Jima," Republic's remarkable story of the marines' greatest hour, which starts Tuesday at the Joy Drive In theatre, will rank as one of the really great war pictures of the age.

Made with the complete cooperation of the U. S. Marine Corps, the film combines all of the majesty and wretchedness, the courage and cowardice, the hope and despair and glory of war with a human tender story of a group of men, their dreams and their women.

The story, which is painted against the bloody background of the battles of Tarawa and Iwo Jima, starts at a marine training camp in New Zealand in 1943. A squadron of U. S. leather-necks—which is to make history in the Pacific—is learning to fight, the hard way, from a tough and seasoned campaigner, Sergeant John Stryker.

BING SINGS 'SUNSHINE CAKE'

Bing Crosby in "Riding High," his newest picture, opens today at the Paramount. It has that "Blue Skies" kind of music, and "Road To Rio" laughter. It's Bing at his very best, with Coleen Gray and Frances Gifford.

NEWEST CROSBY FILM IS SHOWING

'Riding High' Given Praise As One Of Season's Standout Pictures

Paramount's 'Riding High," which plays today at the Paramount Theater, is a standout picture in any company and ranks as one of Bing Crosby's best. Produced and directed by Frank Capra, it has just about everything in the way of entertainment a moviegoer could ask for.

There are sensational performances by Bing, Coleen Gray, Charles Bickford and Frances Gifford, and a quartet of hit tunes including "Sunshine Cake," "Sure Thing," "Somewhere On Anywhere Road" and 'The Horse Told Me," all of which you'll be whistling for some time to come.

A racetrack devotee, Crosby owns a potential champion in Broadway Bill. However, his fiancee, Frances Gifford, wants him to sell the thoroughbred and take a job with her father. He refuses, to the delight of her younger sister, Coleen Gray, who's in love with him, and vans the horse to an out-of-town track for a big race.

Unfortunately, there's an entry fee to be paid and Bing can't raise the money. All seems lost when Miss Gray appears on the scene and provides the necessary cash. It would not be fair to reveal the picture's climax for it packs a powerful emotional wallop.

Positively a "must see" on everybody's movie list, "Riding High" features William Demarest, Raymond Walburn, James Gleason, Ward Bond, Clarence Muse, Percy Kilbride and Harry Davenport.

'BATTLEGROUND' IS STIRRING FILM

Drama Of World War II Provides Excellent Entertainment At Joy

A motion picture that everyone has been waiting for — the first down-to-earth story of the G. I. of World War II, sans flag-waving and mock heroics — has been brought to the screen in "Battleground," M. G. M.'s impressive Dore Schary production, now showing at the Joy Theatre.

Taking the members of a squad to the 101st Airborne Division as its pivotal characters, "Battleground" gives you the laughs, the tears, the bravery, the cowardice, the griping, the bantering, the boredom and the guts of a cross-section of American G. I.'s. In the fateful December of 1944 this squad of mud-stained, weary, battle-scarred soldiers is awakened from reports of crumpled Nazi resistance and dreams of Paris furloughs to find itself once again on the move to make a stand against the Krauts at a French town called Bastogne.

And here we get a close-up of some of these bedraggled "screaming Eagles" — Holly (Van Johnson), carefree six-footer with a weakness for gals, gags and purloined eggs; Jarvess (John Hodiak), cynical small-town reporter whose own editorials inspired him to enlist; "Pop" (George Murphy), thirty-five plus, sweating out his discharge; Roderigues (Ricardo Montalban), courageous California Mexican; Wolowicz (Bruce Cowling), combat loving squad leader; "Kipp" (Douglas Fowley), typical "wise guy"; Standiferd (Don Taylor), second in command and leery of inheriting the squad leader's job; Bettis (Richard Jaeckel), who has undergone one shelling too many; Layotn (Marshall Thompson), the naive new replacement, and a number of others.

What happens to this assorted group during the seven days up to and including Christmas, 1944, when foxhole world history was made in the crucial battle of Bastogne, when American troops, outnumbered and surrounded, held the surprise Nazi break-through, is the story of "Battleground," a narrative told with fidelity and authenticity under the brilliant direction of William A. Wellman.

It's all here — the digging, the artillery shells, the conflicting rumors. "Pop" sweats out his discharge. "Kipp" conveniently loses his false teeth when the going gets rough. Standiferd gets sent back to base because of pneumonia, the lucky guy! Jarvess, Holley and Roderigues go out on a patrol searching for Krauts wearing G. I. uniforms and Roderigues doesn't come back. Layton smokes his first cigar and gets his first taste of romance with the accommodating French girl, Denise (Denise Darcel). The field hospital is captured. The aid station runs out of medicine. Tanks are out of gas, guns short of ammunition. Holly takes over the squad when Wolowicz is hit. With a surprise dawn attack comes the German demand for unconditional surrender and General McAuliffe's classic reply: "Nuts!" Bastogne is surrounded and even the cooks and typists move up into the line.

Then the miracle—as it actually happened. American planes shower supplies—a sky filled with billowing parachutes bearing gasoline, amunition, rations. The "Eagles" scream again. There'll be more fighting, but already tanks are on their way and the squad—what's left of it — can start dreaming about Paris!

Van Johnson, John Hodiak, Ricardo Montalban and George Murphy are the stars of "Battleground," M-G-M's spectacular G. I. drama now showing at the Joy Theater. Hailed as the greatest war story of this generation, the picture was directed by William A. Wellman, produced by Dore Schary.

GABLE AND YOUNG STAR IN COMEDY

Clark Gable back in an out-and-out comedy is this week's happy news for film fans. Gable currently co-stars with Loretta Young coming to the Joy Theatre in the dizzy and daffy romantic comedy, "Key to the City." It's the first Gable picture of its kind since the memorable "It Happened One Night" and it's jam-full of slam-bank action, zany characterizations and some of the most side-splitting situations seen in a lifetime of comedies.

Gable has the role of a two-fisted longshoreman who becomes mayor of a large city. He sideswipes a gang of crooked politicians, then finds himself up to his neck in a fight against love. His opponent in this battle, of course, is the attractive Miss Young, cast as a prim lady mayor from the rock-bound coast of Maine. At least, she is prim when she first meets Gable. But before he has convinced her that love-and kisses are much more interesting than politics she finds herself involved in a riot taking place in one of San Francisco's Chinese cafes, lands in jail, goes to a party in a kiddie's costume (and wait until you see Gable as Little Lord Fauntleroy!) is the object of a mad chase led by Gable piloting a fire engine, and ends up in a hair-pulling contest with her rival—an atom dancer!

Gable and the pert Miss Young prove perfect foils in this rollicking romance, with added laughs contributed by a rib-tickling supporting cast. Frank Morgan gives you a role to remember him by as the fidgety fire commissioner who is always accidentally setting himself on fire. Marilyn Maxwell is Sheila, the girl whose atom dance comes to grief when her atoms are punctured. James Gleason is superbly funny as the police sergeant whose vagrants always turn out to be mayors. Then there are Lewis Stone, back as a judge, but this time one who plays cupid on the side; Raymond Walburn as a henpecked husband; and Pamela Britton as "Miss Unconscious," whose type need hardly be described.

AUTRY STARRED IN 'MULE TRAIN'

Gene Autry, who regaled movie fans with the stirring title song of "Riders in the Sky," now follows this success by bringing to the screen the new great western song sensation, "Mule Train," which is also the title of his latest outdoor adventure. Columbic Pictures is bringing the new action drama to the Paramount Theater on Friday. Champion, the world's wonder horse, is teamed up with the cowboy star, and the supporting cast includes Sheila Ryan, Robert Livingston, Vince Barnett and Pat Buttram.

"Mule Train," which has been monopolizing the airwaves, juke boxes and record players of the country, is brought to stirring pictorial life in the new Autry outdoor thriller. Gene cracks the whip on western killers in this rousing story of the west's colorful mule trains, the discovery of natural cement and how the trains hauled the cement to a dam-building project.

High spot of "Mule Train" is Gene's singing of the tingling title song. Other highlights are Gene's masterful handling of a mule train in full gallop; Gene leading a posse to the rescue in some furious riding; a pitched gun battle with the villains; and rousing fisticuffs. The location shots were made near Lone Pine, Calif., where the natural beauty of the countryside in that area is backgrounded by Mt. Whitney, highest peak in the U. S.

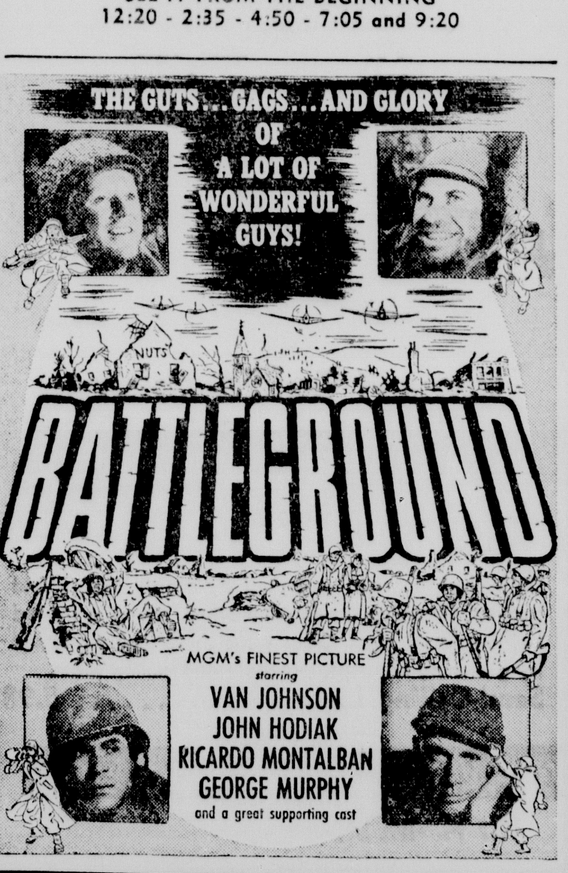

Besides the title song, the score of "Mule Train" includes "Roomful of Roses," "Cool Water," which has become a classic of the west, and "The Old Chisholm Trail."

COTTON CONTEST TO BE EXTENDED

Will Be Backed By Louisiana Delta Council And Will Embrace Many Parishes

The Louisiana Delta Council agricultural committee and cooperating agencies announce tentative plans for a Delta council area wide high yield and cotton improvement contest. It will start in 1950 and run on as long as desired.

The objectives are listed as follows:

1. To assist farmers in an action program for production of identified high quality lint and seed in adequate quantities from pure seed stocks.

2. To encourage farmers to use improved practices adapted to their farms such as are recommended by the agriculture extension service. Ask your county agent for a list of practices adapted to your soil type area.

3. To produce only cotton varieties possessing high yielding and superior spinning qualities for desired end use.

4. To increase net income per acre from cotton.

5. To enable farmers to furnish the textile mills with larger quantities of identified cotton of good spinning quality.

6. To enable farmers to furnish oil mills with high grade and quality cotton seed.

7. To bring about a closer working relationship of all agencies concerned.

Rules and Regulations—Entries

1. Any cotton farmer living within the Louisiana Delta Council area, youth or adult, who is responsible for financing his cotton crop may enter this contest.

2. A contestant may not enter more than one five-acre plot for a prize.

3. All entrants in the contest must file a signed entry blank with the county agent not later than June 1, 1950.

4. Each contestant shall state the name of the variety and strain of cotton planted.

5. No plot will be considered for a prize if planted to cotton seed more than two years from the breeder.

6. A blank record card will be furnished each contestant to keep his record carefully and turn in to the county agent not later than November 15, 1950.

7. In order for a county to compete for area prizes, 10 contestants in a parish must complete and turn in records.

Plot and Size

1. All five-acre contest plots must be identified by corner markings not later than July 1, 1950.

2. The area of the five-acre plot shall be based on outside measurements made by a disinterested committee selected by the parish committee.

3. In determining area of plot, no allowance shall be made for terraces, ditches or other obstructions in the field.

4. The area of plot must be five acres in one continuous body.

5. Plots with irregular boundaries cut out of a larger field of cotton in order to take advantage of variation in soil type shall not be considered for a prize.

Cotton contest committee members are J. F. Stone, chairman, W. A. Calloway, Grayson Guthrie, Robert Cowden and J. J. Joyce, Jr.

Dog Takes Food To Impaled Pal

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 15.—(AP)—A half-and-half dachschund-beagle has pretty well established that "man's best friend" also can be the same to one of his own kind.

The story is that of Fritzy, the half-doxie, and Archie, a two-year-old boxer. Archie owes Fritzy his life and if ever a dog said "Thanks, pal," that's what Archie told Fritzy yesterday at a dog hospital here.

Five-year-old Bobby Unkel, the boxer's master, let Archie out of the house Monday, April 3. Archie didn't come home that night. Nor the next.

Bobby and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Unkel, hunted Archie six days and seven nights.

But on Easter morning, Richard Miller, a neighboring farmer, came to the Unkel home carrying Archie. The boxer was mangled and nearly dead. Miller had found Archie hopelessly impaled on a barbed-wire fence.

Miller said he had noticed Fritzy, his half-doxie, carry her food away each time she was fed. Finally, out of curiosity, he followed her. He found out why. She toted her grub straight to the prisoner in the fence.

LEE AND CHARLES ARE COMPETENT PILOTS, HONORED ONE.

THIS LOWLY ONE DARES NOT PASS JUDGMENT ON THEIR PROFESSIONAL ABILITY...

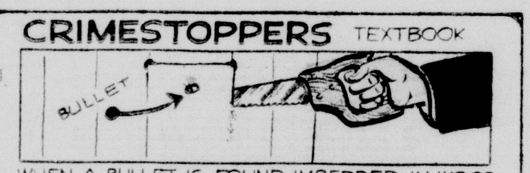

...FORGIVE MY UNWORTHY QUALMS, GENTLEMEN. BUT THIS HUMBLE PERSON MUST PONDER THE TEMPTATION INVOLVED WHEN TWO PURSELESS PILOTS FLY A CARGO OF GOLD BULLION — ESPECIALLY WHEN THEY HAVE OBTAINED SAME AT THE VERY MOUTH OF THE BLACK DRAGON, DEATH.

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

WHEN A BULLET IS FOUND IMBEDDED IN WOOD OR PLASTER AFTER A CRIME IS COMMITTED, THAT PORTION OF THE WALL IS CUT AWAY AND TAKEN TO THE LAB FOR EXAMINATION OF THE BULLET

TIME—6:45 A.M.

BUT, DICK—IT ISN'T TIME TO GET UP.

I KNOW

BUT I'M AWAKE! AND JUNIOR AND I ARE GOING TO PREPARE THAT FLOWERBED NEAR THE BARBECUE TODAY. SO I THINK I'LL—

AHA! THE ALARM! THAT DOES IT—

THE FIRST TINKLE OF THE ALARM IS SMOTHERED IN A TERRIFIC ROAR—

—THE HOUSE SHAKES FROM FOUNDATION TO ROOF!

DICK! WHAT HAPPENED?

HOLD TIGHT! THE FLOOR'S MOVING!

JUNIOR! WHERE'S JUNIOR?

GET THROUGH THAT DOOR, TESS.

AND IN ANOTHER PART OF TOWN.

THAT'S HIM NOW.

WE "DOOD" IT!

GOOD! GET ME A DRINK.

No Other Dentifrice Offers Proof of Such Results!
Proof That Using

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM

HELPS STOP TOOTH DECAY!

2 Years' Research at FIVE LEADING UNIVERSITIES Proves That Using Colgate's Right After Eating Helps Stop Tooth Decay Before It Starts!

YES, THE MOST CONCLUSIVE PROOF IN ALL DENTIFRICE RESEARCH ON TOOTH DECAY! Proof based on 2 years' research at leading universities—hundreds of case histories! Conclusive proof that when used right after eating, Colgate's helps stop decay before it starts! Colgate Dental Cream has been proved to contain all the necessary ingredients, including an exclusive patented ingredient, for effective daily dental care.

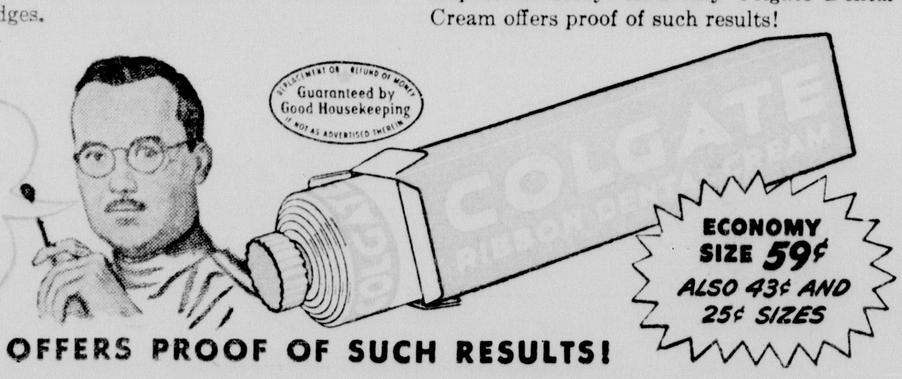

THE TOOTHPASTE YOU USE TO CLEAN YOUR BREATH WHILE YOU CLEAN YOUR TEETH, now offers a safe, proved way to reduce decay! Modern science shows decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst right after eating. Brushing teeth with Colgate's as directed, helps remove these acids before they can harm enamel. And Colgate's active penetrating foam gets between teeth where food often lodges.

CHILDREN LOVE COLGATE'S FLAVOR! By the time they enter school, 9 out of 10 children have one or more decayed teeth. Children love Colgate's flavor—so it's easy to start them on the proved Colgate way to reduce decay! No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But using Colgate's as directed is a safe way to reduce cavities—help stop tooth decay! And only Colgate Dental Cream offers proof of such results!

Always Use Colgate's To Clean Your Breath While You Clean Your Teeth—and Help Stop Tooth Decay!

NO OTHER DENTIFRICE OFFERS PROOF OF SUCH RESULTS!

THE LAUNDRY SAYS THEY CAN'T CLEAN MY SWEATER BY TOMORROW MORNING

I CAN WASH IT FOR YOU IN A HURRY

YOU'RE A GENIUS, DAGWOOD

NOW WE'LL LET IT HANG ON THIS CHAIR BY THE OVEN AND IT WILL BE DRY IN A JIFFY

IT'S SHRUNK UP THE SIZE OF A PEN-WIPER!

I WONDER WHAT CAUSED THAT?

IF WE WEREN'T SUCH GOOD FRIENDS, I'D LET YOU HAVE IT HARDER THAN THAT

MY SWEATER'S RUINED

NOW, DON'T WORRY HERB. I'LL FIX IT UP FOR YOU

WHEN YOU WASH A SWEATER YOU HAVE TO STRETCH IT WHILE IT'S STILL WET

I DIDN'T KNOW THAT

WELL, I'LL WASH IT OVER AGAIN, AND DO IT RIGHT THIS TIME

I'D HATE TO LOSE HERB'S FRIENDSHIP---WE'VE ALWAYS BEEN SUCH DEAR FRIENDS

OFFICER, WILL YOU PLEASE ACCOMPANY ME WHILE I DELIVER THIS SWEATER TO A FRIEND OF MINE?

SORRY TO BUST IN ON YOUR PARTY, SUSIE, BUT THE BOYS THOUGHT THAT WHILE THE SEWING CIRCLE WAS SO NEEDLE-MINDED, IT MIGHT BE A GOOD TIME TO GET IN A FEW PLUGS FOR THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF LIFE!

I'VE GOT A GOOD NOTION TO GO RIGHT DOWNTOWN AND BUY A NEW HAT.

WELL, IT'S ONLY A RIP, BUT I SUPPOSE I'LL HAVE TO TAKE YOU HOME AND FIX THIS ON MY MACHINE!

I'VE ASKED YOU SIX TIMES TO TAKE A FEW STITCHES IN MY TAIL. BUT IF YOU WANT ME TO LOOK LIKE A SWALLOW IT'S O.K. WITH ME!

WE WANT BUTTONS ON SHIRTS

WE CAN'T WEAR GUEST TOWELS TO THE OFFICE!

SUSIE ENTERTAINS THE SEWING CIRCLE

JUST PLAIN EXHIBITIONISTS!

I WAS GOING TO ASK MOM TO SEW THE COVER ON MY BASEBALL, BUT I GUESS THIS ISN'T THE RIGHT TIME.

OH, FREDDIE! YOU WOULD, JUST WHEN I'M MAKING THIS PRETTY LITTLE DOILY TO PUT UNDER YOUR DESK PHONE

HOW ABOUT THE RIP IN MY OVERCOAT

HEY, BESSIE! YOU FORGOT JOE'S SOCKS AGAIN!

A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE!

RELAX, ARNOLD, I WANT TO GET THIS DONE AND GET BACK TO SUSIE'S BEFORE SHE SERVES THE REFRESHMENTS.

GEE WHITH, MYRTLE! IF WE HAD BEEN PLAYING BATHEBALL, WE MIGHT HAVE MITHED THITH!

GEE WHITH, AND MY MOM HATH GONE TO HER CANATHTA CLUB!

WE DON'T WANT TO BE TREATED LIKE THE FAMILY

WE WANT SOMETHING BETTER

I LEAD A DOG'S LIFE-

WE SURE PICKED THE WRONG TIME FOR OUR PARADE!

ROSES RED, VIOLETS BLUE, MY PANTS COULD USE A PATCH OR TWO!

"THE DISTINGUISHING SIGN OF SLAVERY IS TO HAVE A PRICE, AND BE BOUGHT FOR IT" —RUSKIN— "SLAVERY ENCHAINS A FEW; MORE ENCHAIN THEMSELVES TO SLAVERY" —SENECA—

GEE, "DADDY"! WHAT A TERRIFIC HOUSE!—IT'S LIKE A PALACE!

HM·M—MORE LIKE A MONUMENT—

THIS? A MONUMENT? JUST HOW D'YOU MEAN?

IT WAS BUILT YEARS AGO BY A MAN WHO HAD MADE MILLIONS IN BUSINESS—BUILT TO BOAST OF HIS SUCCESS—YES—BUT IT STANDS AS A MONUMENT TO A WAY OF LIFE—

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
Copyright, 1950, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS WHEN OUR GREAT RAILROAD SYSTEMS WERE BUILT—OUR VAST LAND BECAME RICH FARMS AND GREAT CITIES—THOUSANDS OF SCHOOLS AND FINE COLLEGES WERE FOUNDED—AND ENDOWED!

AND EVERYWHERE CHURCHES WERE BUILT WHERE OUR PEOPLE WORSHIPED—IN PEACE AND IN PROSPERITY—IT WAS A GOLDEN AGE WITH EQUAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL, ANNIE—

BUT THERE WAS A LOT OF POVERTY—

TRUE—SOME MEN WERE GIFTED TO MAKE MORE THAN OTHERS FROM FREE OPPORTUNITY—BUT THAT CHANCE FOR GREAT SUCCESS WAS THERE FOR ALL—EVEN FOR THE POOREST LABORER—CARNEGIE—FORD—HUNDREDS OF 'EM—MEN WHO TRIED AND WOULDN'T QUIT!

BUT, "DADDY"—ISN'T IT LOTS BETTER TO KNOW THAT YOU'LL BE CARED FOR, NO MATTER WHAT, EVEN IF NO ONE EVER CAN GET REALLY RICH? NO MORE WORRIES?

HM·M—AFTER A DOSE OF THAT LABOR CAMP, I MAY NOT BE THE ONE TO ANSWER THAT QUESTION WITHOUT SOME HEAT—

BUT YOU'VE READ HISTORY, ANNIE—THERE HAVE BEEN AND ARE PEOPLE WHO ARE FED AND CLOTHED AND CARED FOR ALL THEIR LIVES—

THEY NEVER HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT A JOB—THEY NEVER GET TOO RICH—THEY ARE BURIED FREE WHEN THEY DIE! WE CALL THOSE MILLIONS OF PEOPLE SLAVES!

GEE! SLAVES! YEAH! BUT WHO WANTS TO BE A SLAVE?

NOBODY, ANNIE—BUT PEOPLE HAVE TO DECIDE FOR THEMSELVES—WHILE THEY STILL CAN—BE FREE OR BE A SLAVE—

BUT THAT'S SILLY! EVERYBODY WANTS TO BE FREE—

SOMETIMES I WONDER—FREEDOM MEANS STRUGGLE, BITTER HARD WORK, LONG CHANCES, OFTEN POVERTY—ONCE IN A WHILE, GREAT SUCCESS! BUT ALWAYS HOPE, ANNIE! YES, ALWAYS HOPE, AND EQUAL OPPORTUNITY!

AS FOR ME, ANNIE, I CHOSE FREEDOM! I WASN'T ALWAYS RICH! I MAY BE A PAUPER AGAIN! BUT I WILL NEVER BE A SLAVE—I DON'T WANT TO BE KEPT!

GEE, "DADDY"! NO WONDER THAT GUY, IVAN, HATES YOU SO MUCH!

SMILIN' JACK

JACK, THE TIMBER OWNERS GAVE ME $5000 FOR EXPOSING THE PEARLY CURLY MOB OF ARSONISTS AND THIEVES!

—BUT THE BEST NEWS IS THAT YOU CAN LEAVE THE HOSPITAL, JACK!

THE NEWS I LIKE BEST IS THAT I'M GONNA GET A BABY BROTHER OR SISTER NEXT AUGUST!

YOU SAID IT, JUNGLE JOLLY! THAT NEWS IS WHAT HELPED ME GET WELL SO FAST!

IT'S SO GOOD TO SEE YOU SMILE AGAIN, JACK—AND THAT REMINDS ME OF SOMETHING THAT'LL MAKE YOU LAUGH OUT LOUD!

TIMBER IS TAKIN' HOT-ROD FOR A RIDE SINCE SHE LEARNED WHAT A FOUR-FLUSHIN' BRAT HE IS!

—SHE SHOWED HIM UP AS A PHONY AT HORSE RIDIN' AND SHE BEAT TH' TAR OUT OF HIM IN A BOXING RING!

BUT THE KID WON'T GIVE UP! HE'S DETERMINED TO OUTDO HER AT SOMETHING!

—SO, TODAY HE'S CHALLENGED HER TO A DUEL AT THE SWIMMING POOL!

SO YOU THOUGHT YOU COULD SWIM FASTER THAN ME, EH, HOT-ROD?

ER—(GLUG)—SURE—UNDER NORMAL CONDITIONS! (GLUG)—I MUSTA RUN INTO A HEAD-WIND!

YOU THINK YOU CAN PROVE MEN ARE INFERIOR, BUT YOU CAN'T OUT-DO ME AT DIVING!

IS THAT SO? WELL, JUST WATCH ME!

OH, YOU THINK THAT WAS GOOD! WELL, WATCH THIS!

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE

"I'M NOT FLASH GORDON, LADY," FLASH SAYS. "MY NAME IS FLAKK. I WAS EXILED HERE FOR IMPERSONATING GORDON." THE PUZZLED EX-QUEEN FROWNS. "OH, YOU DO LOOK LIKE HIM," SHE SAYS. "I'M QUEEN RUBIA. PERHAPS WE'LL MEET AGAIN."

RUBIA HURRIES TO CONFER WITH ZIN, WHO ASKS: "HAVE YOU SEEN FLAKK, THE NEW EXILE? WE CAN USE HIM IN OUR REVOLT AGAINST MONGO." WITH WOMAN'S INTUITION, RUBIA REPLIES: "YES, BUT WE MUST BE CAREFUL--I BELIEVE IT'S FLASH, HIMSELF, IN DISGUISE!"

"THAT'S SILLY." ZIN EXCLAIMS. "EVEN FLASH WOULDN'T DARE COME ALONE TO EXILA WHERE EVERYONE HATES HIM. RUBIA SHRUGS. "IF HE'S FLASH, SPYING ON US, HE MUST DIE OR BE HELD HOSTAGE. IF HE'S A REAL REBEL, WE'LL USE HIM. I THINK I CAN MAKE SURE..."

LOOKING FOR SIGNS OF SECRET REVOLT, FLASH GETS A JOB IN THE BUSY MONGONIUM MINES. ZIN, SECRET MASTER OF THE MINES, SPIES ON HIS NEW RECRUIT WITH GROWING SUSPICION.

Copr. 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

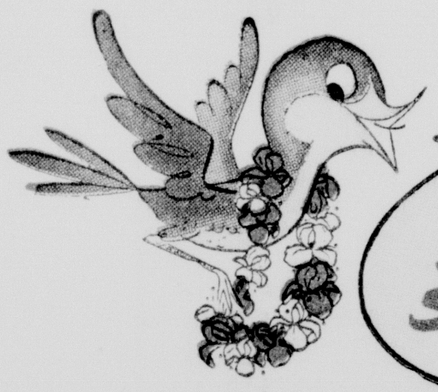

RETURNING TO HIS HUT, FLASH FACES AN INNOCENT-SEEMING CHALLENGE. "FLAKK, QUEEN RUBIA INVITES YOU TO THE BIG PARTY AT THE PALACE TONIGHT," HER CHAUFFEUR SAYS. "I'M TO WAIT FOR YOU."

"WELCOME TO EXILA, FRIEND FLAKK," RUBIA SAYS DISARMINGLY. "YOU MAY HAVE THE HONOR OF DANCING WITH ME, YOU HANDSOME FELLOW." FLASH HAS TO PLAY OUT HIS ROLE. ANY SLIP MEANS DEATH.
